The result of the meeting of the Junior class yesterday is the outcome of a long and bitter class fight which has been running ever since the Freshmen year of this class. While we claim the report of the committee was impartial, yet the spirit shown after its reading gives every evidence of the political divisions of the class and their antagonism one to another.

Such a thing is deplorable in any university, and in any class in that university. When one student will go as low as to use oaths in regard to a fellow-classman, and when this is reciprocated, then it is time to call a halt—if such a thing can be done. It appears childish to the outside world that University functions should be controlled by such political maneuvers, and it is bound to bring discredit to any class that fosters the same.

The very deplorable conditions which are in evidence in some universities is indeed giving them a bad reputation. The conditions at Wisconsin, for instance, is placing that institution in a ridiculous light before the arated by breaches in student control. Just as soon as such a thing starts then any university loses a part of its strength. For to make any institution strong there must be union, and a bond of relationship in spirit between those in control and those controlled.

Acacia Fraternity Has Rapid Growth.

The Acacia fraternity at 1103 East Huron street, which was organized two years ago among the Masonic students of the university, is having a remarkably rapid growth. Last year three new chapters were organized—at Leland Stanford, at the University of Kansas, and at the University of Nebraska—and the fraternity became a national one. Clarence Hill, grand secretary of the national organization, has just installed a chapter in the Ohio State university. Mr. Hill is now on his way to Dartmouth college, Vermont, after which he will organize chapters at Harvard and the University of Pennsylvania. Michigan was the first chapter organized and now has twenty-five members.

Music at Convocation.

Prof. Edmund Forestel of Wesleyan University gave a violin recital at convocation yesterday morning. The programme consisted of two selections, "Sonata F Major," by Grieg and "An Hungarian Rhapsody," by Hauser, and two encores. Earnest Garrison accompanied Prof. Forestel on the piano. This number, which is the last musical number before the spring vacation, was without a doubt one of the most pleasing of the year.

Mr. W. C. Swearer will deliver an address on Korea Monday.

In the Courts.

This morning the case of Josiah Alonzo Crawford vs. the Columbia Fire Insurance Company was tried in the law college court, Eager and Faulkner acting as plaintiffs in the case and Peterson and Thompson defendants. The decision of the court will be published in our next.

outside world. The extreme expression of the disapprobation of the student body is in itself entirely uncommendable, but it is the natural outcome of the radical action of the faculty. It will take years to remove the breach that has been created between faculty and students by this affair. The faculty have carried out their program with a high hand and have cast a slur upon student honor and honesty. The compliment has been received in the spirit in which it was given.

Not only is this the case in Wisconsin, but it is also true in other universities. There has been a great tendency during the past few years for the students and faculty to become sepsired applause from the audience. "Cudoma" then sang sixteen verses of "Nobody," and if the crowd had had their way he would have been singing yet. Mr. Johnston had created some original verses that were very appropriate. The program was ended by a chorus by the Glee club with Mandolin club accompanying.

Upon the whole everyone considers that the program given by the Nebraska Glee and Mandolin clubs last night is of as high a class as that of any Eastern university clubs. And it is with much regret that the many royal supporters of these clubs learn that they must give up the much looked for western trip. But it is the fact, and no one regrets it more than the clubs themselves, but mismanagement of the affairs has necessitated this move, and it must be so.
