DEBATERS HOME

DEBATING TEAM ARRIVED HOME LAST NIGHT.

Badgers Treat Cornhuskers Well—The Daily Cardinal Speaks Very Highly of Varsity's Work.

Students and members of the faculty, accompanied by the University Cadet Band, which Captain Workizer dismissed for the purpose, were at the Burlington station at 5:30 last evening to give a warm welcome home to the University's debating team that met Wisconsin at Madison on Friday evening, but the team didn't come. Marvin stopped over at Madison and Chicago a day, Sunderlin went to his home at Clinton, Iowa, and Hough came by another route. The only member of the Cornhusker party there to be received was Clement L. Waldron, who, in Professor Fogg's place, accompanied the team.

Mr. Waldron speaks very highly of the cordial treatment the team received at Wisconsin. He says the Badgers declared "it was the warmest debate they'd seen in years."

The debate was won by Wisconsin, Waldron says, by superior delivery. Although they had threshed the question out for some three-quarters of a year before, they sent it to Nebraska—and one member of the team was in the society debate on the question last December, the Nebraska team, had in three months mastered the subject as thoroughly as had the Badgers, if not more so. In rebuttal Nebraska was superior, in Waldron's opinion. Wisconsin's case was in finely polished, set form, whereas the Nebraska team didn't get its case drawn together finally until the morning of the debate.

"To our certain knowledge there has not been so interesting a contest held here in many years," is the verdict of Wisconsin, as voiced in The Daily Cardinal, on the debate with Nebraska. The University of Nebraska, up to Friday evening, had succeeded in winning nine successive debates, and Wisconsin has good reason to glory in the fact that it was able to win from so powerful a debating foe.

"Nebraska, by this contest, has succeeded in breaking into the Big Four, and we hope that we may be able to meet them in a contest in the future with a team as worthy of our steel as the one which fought us so well last evening." The Cardinal in its news column states that the debate was "one of the warmest ever witnessed in Library Hall * * * The Cornhuskers were given a rousing welcome and were cheered throughout the evening."

The team was banquetted on Saturday by the honorary debate society, the Phi Alpha Tau, which Wisconsin's debaters and alumni attended. A. C. Hough responded to the toast "Intercollegiate Relations in Debating"; Earl M. Marvin, "If We Were the Faculty," and Charles A. Sunderlin, "Alma Mater."

This debate ends the work of the interstate debating squad. The men have worked hard for the past ten

DR. LOWRY ON STEPHEN PHILIPPS.

Fourth Number of the "Modern Dramatists" Series Given at Convocation.

Before one of the smallest audiences in the history of University convocations, Dr. Lowry delivered the fourth lecture of the "Modern Dramatists" series on Stephen Philipps at convocation yesterday. While not exactly of a popular nature, Dr. Lowry's subject was one which merited much greater attention from the students of this institution than it received.

Stephen Philipps, said Dr. Lowry, is one of the very few successful modern blank verse poets. He is lauded in press reviews, in literary magazines and by the foremost literary critics as being a poet of high quality, ranking in many respects with Byron, Milton, Keats and Wordsworth.

As a dramatist, however, Dr. Lowry very frankly branded Mr. Philipps a failure. His plays, although good in spots, have never proved successful with the public, even his latest and in some respects best piece, "Nero," having failed when submitted to that criterion.

This is explained in a number of ways. In the first place, Mr. Philipps' plays are classical both in material and inspiration. Hence, they appeal but slightly to the modern audience, whose tastes have been greatly evolutionized since the days of Nero and his Grecian neighbors. Another reason for the failure of his plays is the fact that they are not constructed according to the laws of dramatic art. They allow too much time to elapse between the climax and denouement, and, most fatally of all, contain practically no manifestation of will-power, the fundamental principle of all tragedy.

The next lecture of the series will be given by Mr. Ford on Arthur Wing Pinero, Monday.

SCHEDULE OF TRIP

EASTERN SCHEDULE COMPLETE FOR BASEBALL TRIP.

Manager Eager Will Leave With the Team on Friday—Two Weeks' Trip—Bryanites Today.

At 2 p. m. on Friday, April 27th, the bunch leaves over the Burlington for Ames, Iowa, where they will play their first game of the eastern schedule with the Iowa State Agricultural College on Saturday, April 28. The second game will also be at Ames with the same school on Monday, the 30th. May 1st they play Grinnell College at Grinnell, Ia., and this game will be followed by one at Iowa City with Iowa State University on Wednesday, May 2. On the following day the team will be in Galesburg, Ill., for a game with Knox College. May 4 is at present an open date and on May 5 Purdue will be taken on at Lafayette, Indiana. Indiana State is in line for the next game, which will be played at Bloomington on May 7.

After the Bloomington game Eager will take 'em back to Illinois and will meet Jas. Milliken University team at Decatur on May 8, which game will be followed by another state university game, namely, one with Illinois State at Champagne on the 9th of May. Wabash College at Crawfords, Ill., will get theirs on the 10th, and this brings us to the Notre Dame mix-up at South Bend, Ind., and from thence they take a long jump and land in Omaha for the final game of the schedule, which will be played with Creighton College on May 12th.

After a few days' rest at home, they will interest the fans with a pair of return games and Kansas University will be their opponents. These two games will be played on the campus, May 18 and 19, and will doubtless bring out a likely bunch of "rooters."

The closing game of the season will be a return game on the campus with Creighton College and it will be played on June 2nd.

One more game with the Bryanites at Antelope Park this afternoon and the baseball team is off for the east. The game with the League yesterday proved to be a victory for the city team by a score of 5 to 3.

Festival Chorus.

The Festival Chorus, which is to give "Olaf Trygvasson" with the Theodore Thomas Orchestra, May 21-22, meets Monday evening at 8 o'clock and Wednesdays and Fridays at 5 o'clock. This is the last week for members outside the University to join the chorus. Regular attendance is imperative. All interested in this great musical project are cordially invited to become members.

Dean Ringer, '03, law '05, was a University guest yesterday. Dean is practicing law in South Omaha at present.
