C COMPANY WINS

TAKES THE OMAHA CUP IN COMPETITIVE DRILL—B SECOND.

Sergeant Guthrie of B Company Wins Individual—Barnes Gets Medal in the Artillery Drill.

Company C won the annual competitive drill yesterday in one of the closest contests yet held in any military contest. B company was second, D third, and A fourth. At three o'clock the first company marched on to the Athletic field and at five all the companies had competed. The exercises were carried off with unusual speed, and entire satisfaction was expressed by the spectators in regard to the management.

All the companies drilled very well, and some surprise was expressed at the final outcome. Both D and A had been picked as the possible winners, although it was known that no company would win by a large margin. But after C had drilled there could be little doubt as to the outcome. The captains had all worked hard with their companies, and much credit is due all of them for their fine exhibition. Special credit is due Captain Syford of C company for his work. He was appointed captain from first lieutenant about the middle of the year and since that time has worked almost incessantly to reap the rewards. And his work has not been a disappointment to himself or friends.

Sixteen men lined up for the individual competitive, four representing each company. Major Crites gave the orders and the men were given a thorough test of their knowledge of the tactics. Soon they began to fall out, and in a few minutes only four men were left. On the second command two of these fell out, leaving Sergeant Campbell of C company and Sergeant Guthrie of B company. Owing to some conflict between the officials these two men were allowed to stand up after it appeared one had won the decision. But finally Campbell made a mistake and Guthrie was declared the winner.

The artillery drill came first, and after about half an hour of drill they were allowed to retire. It was very evident to all that Sergeant Barnes had done the best work, and for the second time he was awarded the gold medal. Owing to the inability of other members of the squad to give the calls, the trumpet offered by Captain Workizer was given to Chief Trumpeter Mueller. There would have been little doubt as to the winner if the contest would have been carried on. Mueller has been a bugler for three years now and ranks as one of the best Nebraska ever had.

After the individual competitive, the companies formed for the Omaha drill. At the close of this drill Company C was ordered to the front, while the Omaha cup was presented to Captain Syford. The other three companies and the Cadet Band then passed in review before Company C, Captain Workizer and the other members of the staff.

The cadets were then dismissed and Company C for the first time in the history of competitive drill in Nebraska were allowed to carry their victorious captain from the field. According to the usual custom, upon reaching the Armory, his white duck trousers were torn to shreds and each member of the company took a piece as a souvenir.

CLASS IN POLITICS,

Conventions Are Held to Get Practical Side.

The second attempt at giving the class in politics a little actual experience in the manipulation of party machinery will come next Tuesday when a county convention will be held and candidates nominated for county and state offices and delegates elected to the state convention. Lancaster county has been taken as a typical county and the regular procedure of the county convention will be followed in everything but the election of delegates to the state convention. The number of delegates to the state convention will be reduced to eight and candidates nominated for offices of five state representatives, three state senators, a county attorney and a county commissioner.

A Republican caucus was held last Tuesday under the chairmanship of T. A. Browne. H. G. Myers will be chairman of the county convention. Fred Naughton will act in the capacity of chairman for the state convention next Thursday and Elmer Lindquist will call the national convention to order on examination day.

The class has been studying the theory of the work and manipulation of party machinery this semester and Professor Persinger is trying now to give them an idea of how party machinery works in practice.

Nora Davis' Mother Dies.

Nora Davis, '06, has left for Long Beach, California, upon the receipt of the news of the death of her mother, who died at the residence Thursday. Miss Davis' many friends at the University sympathize with the fellow student's misfortune.

Miss Ludden.

The name of Miss Nellie Ludden should have been included in the list of Sophomore members of the Cornhusker announced in yesterday's issue.

LINCOLN HIGH.

School Alumni June 6th at the State Farm.

The first Alumni Day of the Lincoln High School former students will be celebrated the afternoon of June 6th at the University Farm with a program including sports, picnic lunch, speeches, and the admission of the graduating class of '06 to the L. H. S. Alumni Association. This Alumni Day is designed to take the place of the former alumni banquet, rendered of late impracticable on account of the large size of the graduating classes. Every man or woman, girl or boy, who has attended Lincoln High School and perchance graduated from the same is invited. Reunion, jollity, remarking old acquaintances and reviving the old loyalty that has always marked the classes of this high school will, it is hoped, make it a memorable day and worth becoming a permanent annual occurrence.

The aim is to gather the largest crowd, furnish the most fun, at the least expense possible, and the tax will probably not exceed 25 cents per person.

The day will begin at 3 p. m. at the State Farm campus with baseball, crack-the-whip and other amusements to suit and occupy everybody. Frank Rush, '03, is in charge of the entertainments. About 6 o'clock the commissary department, under Bryant Simpson, '05, will serve a picnic lunch. A little later a program of toasts will be given by a few of the best speakers, Earl Denny, '02, having charge of this part of the program. J. D. Ringer, president of the association, will preside at the business meeting, when the 200 members of the class of '06 will be voted into the association.

BAND CONCERT.

A Large Crowd Attended Open Air Concert at Chapel Time.

A very large crowd gathered around the band stand yesterday to listen to the first open air concert given by the University Cadet Band. Led by Director August Hagenow, the musicians played four very pretty selections. And if the 11:30 classes had not called the students they would have insisted on more music. These concerts should have begun much earlier and we would have had more of them. The only hope is that the war will take this up next year, and make the concert a permanent feature.
