SENIORS VERSUS SENIOR LAWS.

The fear has been expressed, and apparently not without due cause, that there will be a controversy of no small proportions over the admission of Senior Law students to the meeting of the academic Seniors on next Tuesday.

This question is one that has perplexed classes for so long and has caused so much confusion and hard feeling that we think it should be settled once for all and the result be put down among the unwritten laws—and the written laws, too, for that matter—of class organization in the University.

Our own opinion is that there is no good and sufficient reason for separating the classes of the College of Law and the rest of the University any more than that the Industrial College should have its own organization and the Medics theirs. The fact that the Laws are the only division having a three years' course distinguishes them in no way save that a definite assignment of the first year class as part of either the Freshman or Sophomores in the academic section should be made.

The interests of the Law classes are in no way different from those of the rest of the University. True, they take different courses, but they are, nevertheless, an integral part of the school as a whole.

On the question of the present Senior class there hardly seems to be any logical ground for dispute. The action of '07 as Juniors, in permitting the '07 Laws to participate in elections and the conduct of class affairs has already set the precedent.

There is one thing that we would insist upon, however, in acknowledging the Laws as members of any class and that is that they co-operate heartily in all class affairs, whether athletics, class dues or "The Cornhusker."

With the enthusiastic support of the Laws as part of three University classes, class affairs would soon attain a size and a dignity never thought of up to the present time.

MRS. RAYMOND AT CONVOCATION.

The program to be rendered by Mrs. Carrie B. Raymond at Convocation this morning should prove a rare treat to every student of the University. Mrs. Raymond's work as organist at Convocation for several years and as director of the University Chorus and the Girls' Glee Club has always been of the highest order and her untiring energy in making music successful at the University has been much appreciated. We should give her a capacity house and an enthusiastic welcome this morning.

tices of the Peace are indicated on the time schedule.

Printed rules of Court and typewritten copies of this notice may be had on application to the Dean.

Partnerships. Third Year and Second Year students will arrange partnerships (two only in each) and file with the Clerk of the Supreme Court by 9:00 o'clock p. m., Monday, October 1st, the names of the partners and the style of the firm. All who do not comply with this requirement by 9:00 o'clock p. m., of October 1st, will be arranged in firms by said Clerk at his discretion, subject to revision by the Dean.

All papers in the Supreme Court must be submitted to Dean Pound or Professor Ayers and approved by one of them as to form before filing. The Clerk will file no papers unless the initials of one or the other appear thereon.

All pleadings, motions and journal entries in the District Court must be submitted, if the cause is at law, to Dean Pound or Professor Maxey. If in equity, to Professor Hastings or Professor Costigan, and approved as to form by one of them before filing. The Clerk will file no papers unless the initials of one or the other appear thereon.

All papers in Justices' Courts must be submitted to Dean Pound or Mr. Ledwith and approved by one of them before filing. Justices will file no papers unless the initials of one of them appear thereon.

Journal entries in all cases in the District Court will be prepared by counsel who procure the order, presented to the professor in charge, and when approved by him, delivered to the Clerk.

Writs and process will be drawn by the attorneys and presented to the Clerk for issuance.

The sheriff and the constable shall make their own returns and present them to the attorneys from whom they received the writs for approval.

Books—Attention is called to the following books in the Library which will be of use in the preparation of cases:
