IN RE COLORADO

STEREOPTICON LECTURE ON
"PANORAMIC COLORADO."

Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert McClurg Give Interesting Talk in Memorial Hall.

To a "large and appreciative" audience, consisting of twelve people, Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert McClurg delivered an unusually interesting lecture on "Panoramic Colorado" in Memorial Hall on Tuesday evening. Despite the discouraging emptiness of the Hall Mr. and Mrs. McClurg did full justice to their subject and the persons who were present were more than rewarded for their attendance.

Both Mr. and Mrs. McClurg are keen students of the Colorado of the past as well as that of the present and the presentation of pre-Columbian Colorado with excellent pictures of inhabitants, their homes and the products of their primitive arts showed the careful research that the lecturers have made in this direction.

The lecture was given in two parts, the first of which had reference solely to primitive Colorado. Mrs. McClurg delivered this portion of the address, giving a detailed account of the development of life of pre-Columbian times as recently determined by extensive investigation among the ruins of the habitation of the cave and cliff dwellers of the region. Mrs. McClurg was one of the pioneers in this research work and to her is due much of the present knowledge on the subject. The nature of the pueblos, or homes of the earliest inhabitants, and the strange customs and ceremonies that formed the major part of their lives were vividly portrayed and the immense value of Colorado as a field for historical research was made plain.

The second part of the lecture, delivered by Mr. McClurg, dealt with Colorado from the time it was discovered by the first civilized explorers. The coming of Pike was graphically depicted and the discovery of Pike's Peak was related in the words of an ode written to the Peak by Mrs. McClurg. "As Israel saw of old, a 'small blue cloud',

Pillared in distance, to direct the march,—

So Pike beheld the peak."

The coming of the first settlers and the gradual growth of the "colored land" were next related and the history of the resources and productions of the state up to the present time was told in highly entertaining fashion. The history of gold mining claimed some time and Mr. McClurg stated that over a million dollars' worth of the precious metal has been produced from the mines of Colorado every month since the inauguration of gold mining on a large scale. The agricultural resources of the state, also, claimed their share of attention. The agricultural output according to Mr. McClurg is at present far above that of the mines in money value. The reclamation of immense areas of supposedly sterile land by irrigation has opened up possibilities never dreamed of before the last five or six years and at the present time Colorado leads the United States in the production of several staples. to 100 bushels to the acre and sugar beets give unsurpassed crops.

The cities of Colorado are in a flourishing condition. Denver has recovered from her stagnation of a few years ago and is resuming the place in the forefront of Western cities where she belongs by right of her commercial interests and her unsurpassed location.

The mining towns are thriving and the agricultural communities are prosperous as they have never been before. In short, Colorado, according to Mr. McClurg, who is an emissary of an organization of Colorado "boomers," is an ideal place for the fulfillment of Horace Greeley's advice to young men about to start out in life, "Go west, young man, go west."

The Tennis Club.

The Tennis Club is evidently going to be inactive this fall. The failure of many who use the courts to pay their dues has left the club slightly embarrassed in a financial way and there is no one willing to assume the initiative in putting things to rights.

Manager Howard is laying plans for a strong campaign next spring, however, and it is hoped that tournaments with Minnesota and Missouri can be arranged. Our representatives, Howard and Wiltse, were sent to Minnesota to compete last spring, but a long continued dampness prevented the tournament and we still have our part of the bargain, a home tournament with the same institution, to fulfill.

Professor Howell Unable to Meet Classes.

Adjunct Professor Howell was unable to meet her Rhetoric classes yesterday on account of the serious illness of her mother. It is quite probable that she will not return to the University this week. Miss Bessie Brown will take charge of Professor Howell's classes during her absence.

Miss Birdie Scott, '06, who intended to teach History and Literature in the High School at Fairbury, Nebr., this year, has been detained in Blair by the serious illness of her father. It is expected that she will take up her work within a short time.

"OMAHA CHARLIE" COLLECTION.

Historical Association Prepares to Put It on Display.

The Historical Association is preparing cases in which to display a large collection of Indian costumes and curios recently loaned to the Association by "Omaha Charlie," otherwise known as Mr. D. Charles Bristol of Homer, Nebraska. Mr. Bristol has had a career similar to that of Buffalo Bill and has made a fortune in securing the services of Indians for Wild West shows and other performances of similar nature.

The collection, according to Mr. Bristol, cost $40,000.00 to bring together and has been secured as a loan thruout the remainder of his life. After his decease the collection will be held in trust until all of his heirs consent to its sale and a bona fide customer is found, when the Historical Association gets first chance to purchase it at the price offered by the prospective customer. There is every prospect that the collection will remain in the possession of the Historical Association indefinitely.

Mr. Bristol is now seventy-three years of age and lives on a small farm with his Indian wife, who is over thirty years his junior. He has three sons, who are his only heirs.

Hear Senator Beveridge.

The coming of Senator Beveridge to Lincoln is considered a great treat, and whether or not we believe as he does on all questions makes but little difference. Senator Beveridge is one of the leaders in the United States Senate and in his speaking has a style of his own. Whether democrat, populist or republican, each University student that is interested in the living questions of the day will hear something of interest tonight at the Oliver Theater.

The Cadet Band and all students that wish to sit in a body will meet in front of Memorial Hall at 7 p. m. and immediately march to the theater.

Reports are that besides the many Lincoln people that wish to hear the senator, delegations are coming in from other cities.

WOMAN SUFFRAGE

REV. ANNA SHAW AT CONVOCATION.

Defends and Explains the Woman Suffrage Movement to an Appreciative Audience.

Rev. Anna Shaw, president of the National Woman's Suffrage Association, spoke on woman's rights and suffrage at Convocation yesterday morning. She presented the underlying principles of that organization against which there is so much prejudice. Her appeal was especially to young women. Many women do not ask for the ballot because it is contrary to general custom and they fear people will say it is a modern craze of discontented women.

In this age there are new opportunities for women, since they are admitted to all state universities, with the exception of two. Many people, however, are like the girl in the Boston University who, thru ignorance, belittled the leaders, Elizabeth Cady Stanton and Susan B. Anthony, and also their work. As the "blood of the martyrs is the seed of the church," so "every privilege is wrung from the heart's blood of noble men and women who sacrificed for us."

The argument is advanced that when all women want suffrage, men will grant it. Furthermore, women should be given a fair chance to do what they can, for no more antagonism is raised against women entering politics than there was formerly against higher education for women. It is the indifference and ignorance of women and the prejudice of men which prevent woman's suffrage.

Reverend Shaw is perhaps the most eminent woman that ever spoke in Memorial Hall, and the enthusiasm with which she was received by the students proved clearly their appreciation.

Booth Still at It.

The following news item, taken from a dispatch to the Chicago Record-Herald, proves that "Bummy" Booth has not yet entirely forsaken the science of the pigskin:

"Princeton, N. J., Oct. 2.—By far the best day's practice as yet of the Princeton squad was held today. Five coaches were on the field. They were Head Coach Roper, Eddie Holt, 1902; Jack Munn, 1906; Gresham Poe, 1903, and 'Bunny' Booth, 1900. The scrub eleven lined up against the varsity for two halves of ten minutes, and both sides showed up well.

"The feature of the day, however, was the success of the forward pass on both sides. It was a good ground gainer, and Princeton seems to have mastered it.

"Harlan, the substitute quarter back, made a pretty drop kick for the scrub, while the varsity scored twice on straight line punges. McCormick, the full back, made some big gains thru the scrub line, but otherwise the defense and offense of both teams was about equal.

"Princeton plays Stevens Institute of Hoboken here tomorrow. The Tigers expect nothing more than a good practice game, but will nevertheless try some new plays tomorrow which the coaches have planned during the last week.
