It is interesting to note the comment made by Mr. Tracy relative to the comparative size of Nebraska and Iowa. He says:
"Look, too, at Iowa and Nebraska.
See what a difference between these two universities, a sheer drop of over one thousand."
In summarizing his article, Mr.
Tracy comes to this conclusion:
"The one concrete fact of signal importance and interest which is deduced from these statistics is that the Eastern institutions are slowly losing ground, and that the Mississippi Valley colleges are likely to become leaders. The mean rate of advance for the whole country is .048 per cent; for New England, including Harvard, Yale and Tech, and the seven smaller ones, is .04 per cent; while the rate for the eleven Mississippi Valley institutions is .088 per cent."
"The one thing that prevents the early appearance of 'the largest American University' in the Mississippi Valley is the lack of an institution big enough in scope and hearty enough welcomed as a whole to secure popular indorsement. The city in which this institution should be located is, of course, Chicago. The boys of the future are going to attend a college located in a city, just as they are now working in a city. Chicago ought to have that institution, and Chicago has the site, buildings and general equipment suitable for this university, but as long as the Rockefeller curse is upon it conscientious parents will hesitate to send their boys there. It may be that in the future that university will recover from this incubus. But until it does the West will not send its best men there, and Harvard will continue dominant."

PROF. SMITH AT NEBRASKA CITY.

Reports Stock Show at that Place a Marked Success.

Professor Smith, who acted as judge at the live stock show in Nebraska City last week, returned to Lincoln Saturday. He reports the show a marked success in every particular, its herd of Galloway cattle and exhibit of blooded horses being especially fine.

The show was given under the auspices of the Morton-Gregson Packing company and was the first event of its kind in the history of the state.

Swan, '08. The debates in this course
