TEAM GOES TODAY

FOOTBALL TEAM GOES TO CHICAGO THIS AFTERNOON.

In Good Condition—Cross-Country Team Goes Also—Cross-Country Prospects Are Excellent.

The team leaves for Chicago via the Rock Island at 1:45 p. m. today. The men are all in good shape and are going with the grim determination to retrieve last Saturday's defeat and yet make the season a creditable one to the team. They feel that they can play a stronger game with the string of defeats spurring them on than if they had beaten Kansas, and that they are going to give Chicago the hardest kind of a fight.

Practise this week has consisted chiefly in working out a defense for Chicago's attack, which is perhaps the most versatile and deceptive of any team in the country, abounding in double and triple passes, end runs from fake bucks, and line bucks from fake end runs, and almost every conceivable sort of trick. As this is Eckersall's last game, in all probability Chicago's offense will center around him, and every chance will be given this wonderful little player to close his career with a fitting climax.

The cross-country team will accompany the football men to Chicago and put up at the game hotel. They will run at eleven o'clock Saturday morning, thus enabling those who accompany the team to witness both the cross-country meet and the football game.

Nebraska has an excellent chance to win the cross-country meet this year, having perhaps the strongest team in its history. Havens, Alden and Morgan are running in old time form, while Smith and Davis, the new men, are nearly as fast as the leaders. Judging from the time made in the tryouts and the work of the old men in previous years, Nebraska should be more than able to hold her own with any prospective contestant in the meet.

PROF. HOWARD TO CONTRIBUTE.

Will Prepare Articles on Divorce for Religious Encyclopedia.

The editors of the new edition of Schaff-Herzog Encyclopedia of Religious Knowledge have requested Professor Howard of the department of Political Science and Sociology to write the articles on divorce and on marriage. Last summer Professor Howard wrote a similar article on divorce for the new edition of Bliss' Encyclopedia of Social Reform, which will soon come from the press. The Encyclopedia Americana in our library also has a twelve thousand word article on divorce written by Professor Howard.

Special Y. W. C. A. Meeting.

All University girls are urged to attend the special Y. W. C. A. meeting today at 5 o'clock in U. 106. Mrs. Francis, who is here with Professor Riddell, will speak. Mrs. Francis was present at the famous Wales revival and her talk is sure to be of great interest.

STOCK EXHIBITION.

Professor Smith Will Display Fine Stock at State Farm.

Next Saturday at 2 p. m., Prof. H. R. Smith of the Agricultural School will give a free exhibit of the stock which is to be taken to the meeting of the National Live Stock Association. The professor of Animal Husbandry expects to take some firsts, as Ruby, the star Angus steer, excels Challenger in many respects. Challenger, stuffed if not in body, will be at the exhibition Saturday for purposes of comparison.

CHAS. D. HURREY HERE.

International Y. M. C. A. Secretary to Visit the University Today.

Mr. Chas. D. Hurrey of Chicago, travelling secretary for the International Committee of the Young Men's Christian Association in the Middle West, will visit the University branch today. In the evening at 6:15 supper will be served at the City Association to the University Y. M. C. A. Cabinet Advisory Board and Bible group leaders, after which Mr. Hurrey will speak on some phase of Association work. Later in the evening Mr. Hurrey will address a meeting of fraternity men at the Phi Kappa Psi house.

Mr. Hurrey is a graduate of the University of Michigan and has been engaged in Y. M. C. A. work for many years. In his capacity as secretary for the Middle West, he visits colleges and universities in Indiana, Illinois, Kentucky, Iowa, Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska, Colorado, the Dakotas, Minnesota and Wisconsin. Every student should make it a point to hear him.

Chancellor Going East.

The Chancellor will leave Saturday for New York and Boston. Next Tuesday he will meet the Educational Board in New York and on the following Saturday he will speak in Boston on "Industrial Education in a Prairie State."

Nebraskan Want Ad Secures Valuable Results.

The article in Tuesday's Nebraskan setting forth the desire of the County Fair management for additional attractions has secured prompt and satisfactory results. An ingenious student telegraphed to W. M. Jacobs & Co., of Duluth, who have the greatest collection of monstrosities in the world, and as a result their three greatest attractions are on the way and will be installed in a suitable booth Saturday.

The nature of these attractions cannot be discovered by the Nebraskan, although the management states that the new features will be known as the "Scarlet Bat," the "One-Eyed Monster" and the "Gigantic Frog." This last animal is so large as to require a special attendant and we may venture to predict and to stake our professional honor upon the statement that no such attraction has ever before been presented.

Driven to desperation by his predicament, the unhappy man who was to have filled the position of bridegroom next Saturday night, has disappeared. Fears are entertained that he may have committed suicide and talk of a search party is current among his friends. However, the wedding will still take place and in a very romantic manner. Upon hearing of the reluctance of the former bridegroom, one of the disappointed suitors has renewed his plea and this time with happy results.

MEN WANTED.

Glee Club Needs More Mandolin and Guitar Players.

Manager Agee of the Glee Club announces that more mandolin and guitar players are needed for the club. He urges that any student who can handle either of those instruments make application for membership at once. Application blanks may be obtained at the following places:

THE NEW FARMER

DOCTOR WEBSTER SPEAKS OF HIS RELATION TO COMMERCE.

Supreme Industrial Importance of Agriculture—Superior Training of the Modern Farmer.

At Convocation yesterday morning, Prof. W. C. Webster spoke on "Commerce and the New Farmer." He said in part that there was no ideal superior to that of agriculture, for it promotes health of body and soundness of mind. France and Russia are important agricultural countries, but the United States—strictly an agricultural country—grows one-sixth of the world's products, worth five billion dollars, annually.

Upon agriculture are based the manufactures of a country, and the exports of our own country rank first, both in volume and value. Thus the farming interests are more important than all other economics. The United States exports eleven to twelve billion bushels of grain, fifteen to eighteen billion bales of cotton, and other products in proportion, so that the commerce of the world has become absolutely dependent upon agriculture. There has been an immense increase during the last forty years in the wheat trade, and yet the average world product is barely able to supply the demand.

It is said of the old farmers that "perpetual toil was their lot in good weather and perpetual loneliness in bad weather." But the new farmer has had some scientific training and understands the value of improved machinery, steam threshers, cold storage and the rotation of crops. Many crops are now raised on lands formerly arid and the special product is directly encouraged. The ideal of the old farmer was self-sufficient; that of the new farmer is commercial, for he is more up-to-date and interested in marketing.

Co-operative societies like the Irish Agricultural Society, spreading economic interests, have assisted the farmers. There has been a broadening of life for the farmer in better schools, roads, telephones and rural free delivery. The calling of the farmer is one worthy of the best effort.

Law Class Will Not Meet.

Because of the meeting of the Nebraska Bar Association in Omaha, several of the professors of the College of Law will not have their classes today and tomorrow.

Dr. Pound will hear his class in Civil Procedure II today, but his other classes will not meet today and tomorrow. Professor Ayres will hear his classes as usual, except the class in Bills and Notes tomorrow.

Professor Costigan will not hear his class in Contracts tomorrow and the examination set for that day will be postponed two weeks.

The other professors will meet their classes as usual.

"Bennie" Here.

Maurice Benedict, '06, was a visitor at the "Rag" office yesterday. "Bennie" expects to remain over for the Thanksgiving game.
