TO OLD NEBRASKA.

Nebraska is not an old state; she can not count back in years much farther than the average man, one of her citizens; she has no really time-honored monuments, she has no great store of historic spots, hallowed for the memories clinging to them; Nebraska is one of the new states of a new country. But in this new state, and started and fostered by it, is an institution dating back well nigh to the infancy of the commonwealth itself. That is the State University, The University of Nebraska. Such was the character and ideals of the no inconsiderable amount to be raised and altho that body of professors was small and in anything but affluent circumstances, the necessary funds were subscribed so that today the old building stands there, a monument to the hardhood and self-sacrificing spirit of the men on the first faculty.

No wonder The University of Nebraska grew! No wonder she became the idol of the state! How could she do otherwise than reach outward and upward until today she stands the peer of any university of the West, the pride of the prairies, the queen—Oh, wait! We can't stand up under all that strain. Why not say it this way: OLD NEBRASKA DOES NOT BOW DOWN BEFORE ANY UNIVERSITY IN THE COUNTRY?

EVENTS OF FORMER YEARS.

MINOT TO SPEAK.

Harvard Professor Talks to University Students Tonight.

Professor Chas. Sedgwick Minot of the Medical department of Harvard will speak on the "Biological Interpretation of Life" in Art Hall this evening at 8 o'clock. Dr. Ward says that Professor Minot is the most noted man that has spoken on a biological subject at this University for a num-pioneers coming here years ago that one of their first concerns had to do with the education of the youth later to become citizens. To provide for their proper training was a big undertaking and one involving toil and sacrifice, but one day a big brick building to the north of Lincoln stood finished, looking out over the almost bare prairies. A few men to do the teaching were collected, and The University of Nebraska began.

To know the character of that small body of educators, teaching out here in this wind-swept, sun-smitten country at that time, it is only necessary to recall the incident of the rebuilding of the foundation under University Hall. The first sandstone foundation crumbled rapidly, and it was found that unless something were done, the whole superstructure would collapse, a ruin. A movement was started among the professors toward raising sufficient money to replace the old walls with substantial ones, and altho there was ber of years. The address will undoubtedly be of a very general interest, as it will not be technical but rather along philosophical and psychological lines. Mr. Minot will also give a special talk to medical students in N. 301 at 11 a. m. today. Dr. Ward extends an invitation to the general student body to be present at the evening lecture.

Fellowship for Women.

The Baltimore Association for the Promotion of the Education of Women offers a fellowship of $500 for the year 1907-1908, available for study at any American or European university. As a rule the fellowship is awarded to candidates who have done some graduate work, and in exceptional cases may be held two successive years. Blank forms for application may be obtained from Dr. Mary Sherwood, The Arundel, Baltimore.

Chicago defeated Purdue in a hotly contested game of basket-ball last Saturday night by a score of 28 to 16.
