ord of its ever having been completed. A two-days' celebration commemorated the twenty-fifth anniversary of the chartering in 1894. Some of the features at this time were the installation of Chancellor McLain, an address by Professor George Elliott Howard of Leland Stanford, and a banquet in the Armory in the evening. Invitations were also sent to all members of the legislature of 1869, to the governor and all ex-governors of the state, to the ex-regents and other state officials.

In 1898 the growing number of students made mid-winter commencement necessary and the first of these exercises was held that year. The Charter Day meeting was chosen as an appropriate time for the graduation exercises and thus charter day and mid-winter commencement fall on the same day. Later it was decided to throw open all departments of the school for inspection on this day, so that now the day has come to represent a complication of events,—the annual indoor athletic contests, regents' meeting, conferring of degrees, and public exhibition of the State Museum and Historical Society Museum.

The University of Nebraska was chartered after a week's legislation in both house and senate. A bill providing for the chartering of a university was introduced in the senate by Senator Cuninghame, February 11, 1869. On the 13th it had passed the senate and was introduced in the house. February 15 it went to Governor Butler and was signed the same day. The erection of what is now known as University Hall was begun the same year, completed in 1870, and was for years the sole building on the campus.

ENGINEERING NOTES.

Professor Chatburn has announced a new course in graphical statics for Senior engineers.

Ray Findley, C. E., '07, has accepted a position with the Omaha Street Railway Company, and will not be in school this semester.

L. N. Baker, W. E. Standeven, John Weller, and F. W. Hrubesky have been appointed as assistant instructors in Mechanical Drawing 2. They are all Seniors with considerable draughting experience.

Arthur Fenlon, who graduates at the Mid-Winter Commencement, has received an offer from the Burlington as draughtsman on a locating party. It is very probable that he will accept the position.

Mr. W. B. Shaw of the B. F. Sturdevant Manufacturing Company will probably be in Lincoln this spring to lecture before the engineering students. He is a very capable engineer and an entertaining talker. An effort is being made among a number of western universities to induce him to visit this territory.

Law Notes.
