PROFESSOR MAXEY'S ARTICLE.

Professor Edwin Maxey, Ph. D., D. C. L., L. L. D., because of his wide and thoro knowledge of international law was hired by the Japanese Government to represent its side in the recent difficulty over the attendance of Japanese children in California schools. His acquaintance with this subject being so extensive, it is accounted a special privilege to print in today's paper his very timely article on the compromise effected lately in the controversy. Dr. Maxey came to Nebraska from West Virginia last year to take the chair of braska from 1884 to 1888, and is Professor of Law at West Point.

EVENTS OF FORMER YEARS.

Happenings of other days as recorded in the Nebraskan:

Two Years Ago Today.

The Junior cap committee reported a class debt of twenty-five dollars and fifty cents due on the caps, which amount it was decided to make up by an assessment of the class.

The Pan-Hellenic dance committee being unable to come to any agreement as between the T. N. E. faction and their opponents, split into two parties.

INDIAN TERRITORY.

Professor Condra Lectures at Convocation on its Opening.

Professor Condra's illustrated lecture on "The Opening of Indian Territory" was a source of great interest and instruction to those present at Convocation yesterday afternoon. As an introduction several views of our own campus were shown first taken with the beautiful covering of ice and snow of yesterday and today.

When America was first discovered there were two species of men here new to the scientific world; the Esquimaux and the Indians. Today many of the Indians even from Nebraska, have gone south and are amalgamated with our race. We find in Indian Territory five tribes who entered the South-east; viz., the Cherokee, Creek, Seminole, Chickasaw and Choctaw.

Discovery of gold in the west had made them move from their old homes in Alabama, Florida, the Carolinas and Georgia. Any Indian blood makes one an Indian to the people of Indian Territory, whereas, in spite of intermarriage many are as white as any of us.

Various conditions of the country divide the land into five topographic territories, affording opportunities for many industries. The prairie land is fertile and over sixty per cent is tim-

Public Law and Diplomacy.

The question, discussed is one that involves the old matter of state rights. The cause of the whole controversy between California and the Federal Government has been whether or not the United States has the right to make a treaty such as was made with Japan in '94, working a seeming hardship on a certain state. The depth and intricacy of the question will be seen at once. Lately, however, the Californians have agreed to take the children back, provided an amendment be made to the immigration law, restricting Japanese and Korean coolies, and so it is probable no further action will result; the Federal Government can not afford to antagonize the states on the Pacific slope.

Dean Pound has just received a copy of "Military Law and the Procedure of Courts-Martial" by the author, Edgar S. Dudley. Professor Dudley was commandant at the University of Nebered, all of Indian Territory being in the very desirable region of the rain belt. Among other interests which led to the opening of this country were the attractiveness of the Indian women and the influence of the railroad. Hunting, fishing, cattle-raising and farming are carried on, hay being shipped mostly to Arkansas and Louisiana. On the Arkansas bottoms corn is raised, yielding one hundred bushels per acre; also cotton, and many vegetables.

Because of the abundance of coal, oil fields, stone, clay, zinc and lead, Indian Territory may well be called the Pennsylvania of the West. The opening of coal beds, great asphalt deposits, oil wells and other forms of industry are driving the Indian out of his country. The negro is there, and remains a problem, the Indian is doomed. Indian Territory with all its vast resources will be one of the greatest states of our Union. Its political tendencies will probably be southern.
