RESERVE ENERGY.

With the coming of spring comes also inevitably the slump in the average student's ambition. The program of regular work loses its interest and instead of getting down to the spirit of things we see only the shell of a routine. How to overcome and control this ennui is a big problem. The school life is more or less of a strain always. We are wound up to a certain pitch of determination in the fall, which serves to give us a big impulse forward, but as time goes on, this spring behind our activity gradually becomes weaker while the weight

In three weeks, vacation will be here. Would it not be well for every one, with whom it is possible, to plan on making it a period of physical, out-of-doors work? Then when that last stretch up to the summer is begun we shall have some reserve mental acumen upon which to draw.

Glee Club Trip.

The Glee Club returned yesterday from a very successful trip to York. At the beginning of the evening, things began to look dubious to the few members who had gone on before to arrange for the concert, for No. 43 on the Burlington was late. The first section of the train, which was thirty-five minutes late, was to carry no passengers, and the second section was so far behind that it was out of the question to count on it. Finally, Manager Agee arranged for a special car to be attached to the first section and the crowd arrived at York only thirty-five minutes after the time set for the concert. Meanwhile the few members already there arranged an impromptu program and kept the audience well occupied until the arrival of the club proper. The concert was a decided hit.

Musical Program.

This morning at Chapel time Charles H. Miller, supervisor of music in the city schools, will give a song recital. Among other numbers he will sing, Schumann's "Two Grenadiers" and the aria, "Honor and Arms" from Handel's oratoria, "Sampson." Mr. Miller is a particularly pleasing of work to be done remains the same, and the consequence is a mental exhaustion.

Probably one of the best tonics for mental fatigue is outside work. We are concerned to such a degree with the subjective continually, that to go over to the objective means a decided relief. It is unquestionably a good thing to slich a little time and take a walk, get out and mix in a ball game, or, if it be conceivable, dig a small patch of garden. The next best thing to outside exercise is a bit of sharp work in the gymnasium.

Up-to-date physicians tell us, however, that this exercise should not be taken after a long mental strain as a sort of antidote. Some people engaged in brain work plan to make their physical recreation very severe after a long day's labor of the other sort in order to set up a counteraction, but they proceed under a false theory. We should exercise when we have some snap about us, it would seem singer, especially in this style of music and a large audience will likely greet him.
