THE CONCERT.

Considerable anxiety was manifest yesterday among those associated with the work of the Glee and Mandolin Clubs over the stand that would be taken by the University Senate with regard to the appearance of the members recently reported delinquent. It was hoped, of course, that neither the University authorities nor the Club management would be forced to anything extreme. Now the matter has been arranged to meet present exigencies, however, thanks to the fairness of the authorities, and the con-these are secondary affairs, accessories, during the student's career in the University.

Communication.

The following communication relative to the Medic editorship on the Cornhusker has been received:

The College of Medicine has always loyally supported University enterprises, it has furnished its quota of baseball and football players, and good ones, too; its Omaha contingent has turned out in full force with flags and bands whenever contests have been held in Omaha, or even when teams have gone thru Omaha; where has it lacked in college spirit or in action? In view of this, is it fair to deny it representation? Furthermore, if it is denied fair treatment, what will be the natural result on the men who have been standing up for the University? What is the best policy not for debate, but for the good of the University?

Settlement Fellowship.

The Association of Collegiate Alumnae, in conjunction with the College Settlement Association, offers for the year 1907-98 a fellowship of five hundred dollars for the investigation of social conditions. This fellowship is open to graduates of all colleges represented in the Association of Collegiate Alumnae.

Candidates must be able to satisfy the Committee on Award that they are able to carry thru successfully a piece of social research. Applications must be in before May 1, 1907. They should be sent to Miss Katherine Bement Davis, Bedford, New York.

Mid-semester Reports.

Announcement has been made that the mid-semester reports will be due next Thursday, March 21. This means that all the mid-semester examinations will be finished before vacation.

Noted Lecturer.

cert can be attended with the confidence that nothing will detract from its complete success.

The men have been working hard and faithfully,—evidently,—and the excellence of the program will without doubt quite eclipse all past performances. The Glee and Mandolin Clubs are organizations of the University and in the field are certainly doing the University great credit; they are serving as a very effective advertisement, and so deserve the support of the University public.

These various features of the University are what lend it breadth, and it probably pays any student well to take advantage of some of these "side plays"; probably anybody is broader for doing something besides follow a certain course of studies. Life is not all theory. The thing, it seems, to be remembered is simply this: These side features should remain in their place at the side. The University course is first and uppermost and made for the coming next month of the distinguished traveler, lecturer and writer, W. E. Gell, well known thru his book, "The Yankee on the Yang-tse." Dr. Ward is a personal friend of the lecturer's and he is the one to induce his stopping here.

Tryouts.

Tryouts will be held this week for positions on the interclass relay teams. The interclass relay race will be one of the events in the Gymnastic exhibition Saturday, March 23. All men interested are requested to try out.

Notice.
