THE RECITAL.

The Debating Board a couple of seasons ago became involved somewhat in debt owing to the heavy expense incurred in sending the team to some distance away from home. An effort is to be made tonight for making up this deficit and everyone with debating interests or with University interests at heart ought to look up and take notice. In debating circles this year we are to stand as one of the big universities of the West and there should be no embarrassment over financial matters.

But further, the nature of the entertainment in and of itself is well worth

BUILDINGS CRITICISED.

Senate Committee Reports on University Property.

The severest criticism on the University structures was made in a report of the senate committee on public lands and buildings a few days ago. The committee declared the condition of the various state institutions to be in general good; but made a radical exception to this general statement, in regard to buildings at the State University. Some of the sweeping statements contained in this report were as follows:

"The buildings that have been erected for this institution are, with one exception, without any pretension for ventilation or permanency. It would not be thought strange that if at the time the first building was built, in 1869 and '70, provisions for ventilation were overlooked, but this present age, for an architect to plan such buildings as have been erected upon the university campus, without any pretensions for ventilation, is beyond the comprehension of this committee.

"Some of the rooms that we visited where classes were reciting, the air was stifling; and how on earth any student could be able to comprehend a subject while inhaling such foul air is more than this committee can understand."

The committee further recommended that the commissioner of public lands and buildings be given authority to provide all the buildings with an adequate ventilating system.

The practice of erecting temporary buildings for the University was denounced; and in this connection the new Administration Building did not escape severe criticism. The committee also strongly held for the purchase of more ground, in case of other buildings being needed, instead of the appropriation of the athletic field for this purpose as proposed by the regents.

attention whether one cares for debating or not. There is not enough general interest in matters of art by a long way. We are all too much concerned with practical, methodical things. Look at the books that come into the Library and it may be seen that very seldom is there a work of art or one dealing with art. It shows the tendency of thought nowadays. Something with real art about it ought to appeal of itself and so there is more than one reason why the recital tonight should be well attended.

In passing this subject of art, it should be noticed that there is an effort on foot to allow works of art to enter this country free of duty. At present, American art is much hampered by this duty and there should be a combined effort thruout the country to have it removed. A club at Nebraska with a view to forwarding this cause might make itself very effective.

First Annual Easter Concert.

The first annual Easter concert will be held at Chapel Tuesday, March 26. Much good music will be furnished. The names of the students elected to Phi Beta Kappa also will be announced at this time.

Catholic Students.

The Catholic Students Club will meet this evening at 13 and M streets. A full attendance is requested, for important business is to come up for discussion.

Notice.

After Monday, March 25, all basketball men are expected to report at drill. Those failing to do so will be marked absent. EARL O. EAGER.

Bandmen, Attention!

All men report at band room Saturday evening at 7:30 to play for athletic exhibition. S. ANDERSON.

Suits Smartly Tailored in Javnty Styles...

The styles and colors to be worn this spring are uppermost in the minds of men and young men who care to be correctly dressed. This is not a season of extremes, and coat lengths shorten a trifle, to the delight of most men. It is easy to predict the popular color when you see the preponderance of grays in checks, from the small to the almost "noisy" plaids. These produce charming effects for the spring season. Make your selection now while lines are complete and get exactly what you want. The values are unexcelled in our lines at $18, $20, $25.
