the magnitude of the efforts of Richards, of his self-sacrificing and persistent work to improve his department and benefit his pupils, and we feel it right to utter our sincerest congratulations to the man and to the school.

There is recent news that Richards has had the opportunity offered him to take charge of a department in another school, better equiped and more able to compensate him according to his worth, and that he declined this offer in order to carry on his work at Nebraska. The fact that he chose to stay here is only further testimony of the professional spirit which animates the man. The University has long recognized this spirit. It is necessary for this society to express publicly what every student feels, that whether we have a new Engineering building, or a dozen of them, we are proud that we have Professor Richards.

THE ENGINEERING SOCIETY,
University of Nebraska.

The celebration indulged in by the students of Syracuse University at the time of their football victory over West Point last fall, has cost them nearly $500 damages, which amount has been covered by an assessment upon the students. The "Daily Orange" says in part: "The items include everything from telegraph poles to stairs and from sign boards to sidewalks. About the only thing not on the list seems to be personal feelings, but it was felt that people residing on the hill (a residence neighborhood near the college) did so at their own risk."

A certain Senior has presented a bill of $5 for a smashed derby which amount he asks the undergraduates to pay.
