ART ASSOCIATION.

At least three good pictures should be bought each year.

The collection this year is a most attractive one. Besides the works of artists like Alexander, Barse, William Chase, Couse, Curran, Eaton, Birge Harrison, Bolton Jones, Mora, and Ochtman,—names well known to old frequenters of the gallery,—there are many charming canvases by artists who have never before exhibited in Lincoln. The gallery is open from nine in the morning until ten in the evening. The correct thing to do is to go to the gallery each day. The first day, catalog in hand, make a tour of the gallery and get orientiert. After that, take the pictures two or three at a time. Sit down before them and enjoy them. Some will soon stand out from among the rest and demand closer attention. Give them that attention, going to them day after day, until the beauties of composition, of line, of color, of light and shade, of atmosphere are indelibly stamped on the mind. Those pictures have become a permanent possession and the development of the art taste has begun.

A number of the Senior and Freshman girls were noticed wearing Freshman and Senior hats indiscriminately yesterday morning as a result of an attempt on the part of the Senior girls to secure a green hat from one of the first year young ladies. The Freshman girl was plucky and managed to get three Senior hats in exchange for her own, and one of these she wore to her classes during the day.

Dirk P. De Young leaves the University today preparatory to sailing for Hamburg, Germany, where he is to represent the International Harvester Company during the summer. From there he will sail to South America in the fall. De Young is a Senior, and altho he leaves before the close of the semester, he has enough credit to get his diploma and degree.

• Soph. Informal.

The second year students will hold an informal party in Memorial Hall this evening. Many tickets have been sold and the success of the dance is assured.

A number have inquired of Mr. Townsend if the price quoted to Cornhuskers would be extended to Senior girls desiring new sittings without cap and gown. The rate is good to July 1, '07.

Dean Henry B. Ward will go to Washington, D. C., shortly to take part in the program at a meeting of the Association of American Medical Colleges, to be held there May 6.

Alma Erickson, '06, has been elected assistant principal at Oakland, Nebraska.
