ARE TO COMPETE THE RALLY THIS MORNING UNPRECEDENTED

CADETS CONTEST FOR COMPANY HONORS TODAY.

Order and Rules of Competition—Cup and Medals—The Judges to Come From Ft. Crook.

The annual competitive drill of the cadet companies for the silver cup will take place on the athletic field at 2 o'clock this afternoon. The companies have each been cut down to four squads and are ready to do the best work of the year. Company C is unfortunate in that Captain Slaughter has been sick for about two weeks and will be unable to take charge of his company. Lieutenant Campbell, however, has been drilling C for the past two weeks, and judging from the work the company has been doing under him, it would seem they are determined to make a hard fight without their captain.

The order in which the companies will appear on the field is to be decided by lot, and the companies waiting their turn will remain in the Armory entirely out of sight of the drilling company. No communication will be carried from anyone on the field to the companies waiting their turn in the Armory.

The schedule of the drill will be handed to each captain fifteen minutes before he is required to finish his report to the judges. One point will be deducted for each minute consumed over this allotted time. Three points bonus will be given the company requiring the least time to finish the drill.

The individual drill for the gold and silver medals is open only to those men who have less than twenty-five demerits charged against them. The two medals are now on exhibition at Sartor's jewelry store. They are more tasty and of a more purely military design than any that have been awarded in previous years. One pleasing feature of the medals is that each has the seal of the State of Nebraska on the face.

Two officers from Fort Crook will arrive this morning to act as judges. It was hoped to have three judges, but on account of an unexpected rush at Fort Crook at present, only two officers can be spared.

JUNIORS MEET.

Clarence Johnson Elected New Member of Publication Board

The Junior class held its last meeting of the year yesterday morning in Memorial Hall.

Clarence Johnson read the report of the picnic committee, which shows there were about one hundred at the picnic, the receipts being $41.91, the expenditures $30.64, a total profit of $10.41 thus being made.

C. C. McWhinney and Clarence Johnson were placed in nomination for the position as Senior member of the Student Publication Board. Johnson received 30 votes to McWhinney's 25 and was declared elected. The meeting then adjourned.

MASS MEETING FOR DEAN POUND WILL BE HELD IN MEMORIAL HALL AT 11 O'CLOCK.

Postponed From Last Night on Account of Rain—No Classes in the University This Morning From 11:00 To 11:30—Enthusiasm Growing.

You can control events of history, perhaps, but you can not control the weather. Those in charge of the rally felt this fact in a very definite way last night when the time approached and the clouds rolled up ominously from the north and there was a continued threatening of a downpour. Naturally not many people braved the approaching storm and the few enthusiastic men who gathered set at work at once to fix upon another date for a genuine demonstration for the feeling felt toward the matter of Dean Pound's leaving this University.

Professor Caldwell and others at once undertook to arrange the matter, and as a result there will be no classes this morning at 11 o'clock. All 11 o'clock classes have been postponed to 11:30 and in the half-hour between there will be a mass meeting in Memorial Hall. It looks now as if there would not be room enough for the people to get inside the building. Professor Ayers, in speaking to those gathered last evening, bade every man to make himself a committee of one to see that ten others accompanied him to the meeting this morning, and the kind of response he got proved that there was a red-hot spirit getting into the movement.

Dean Bessey, when consulted in regard to the postponement of the industrial classes, expressed himself as exceedingly anxious to see it made something worth while and entered into the plans with enthusiasm. As a result there will be classes in none of the schools from 11 to 11:30. The way the sentiment for a genuinely big rally is spreading, there is no question as to the result this morning.

And if there was ever an occasion when enthusiasm and stir were appropriate it is just now. Nebraska needs spirit to rise to the situation now confronting her. She is entering upon a period when there must be a decided advance in the way she appreciates and co-operates with some of her great leaders like Dean Pound or she will lose some of them. Men like Dean Pound do not "grow on every bush." But it will be found that time and again they are willing to sacrifice much personally for the good of the school with which they are connected, and this has proved true in the case of the Dean of the Nebraska Law School in the past. Therefore, it is only fitting that he be shown the kind of feeling borne toward this sacrifice of the past, fitting that he be shown how completely he has the friendship of the student body.

Be sure to watch the Y. W. C. A. thermometer today. It's going up.

THE SALE OF 1907 CORNHUSKER NEVER EQUALED HERE.

Over 700 Copies Sold on the Campus Yesterday—200 Orders Yet to Be Filled—The Book Now $2.00

The sale of the 1907 Cornhusker reached over 700 copies yesterday and surpassed the initial day's sale of any previous Nebraska annual by several hundred. Many local and out-of-town orders are yet to be filled, and the managers of the year book claim that the rest of the edition will be disposed of before Saturday evening. The sale of the annual began at 10:30 yesterday morning on the campus near Library Hall, where six tables had been arranged for the distribution of the books. Long before the managers were ready to sell the books a crowd of students was gathered at the tables, waiting to get copies of the first annual Cornhusker, and with the opening of the distribution there was a rush of the students to get books, that continued until 12 o'clock, and resulted in a sale of $1,000 worth of Cornhuskers. In the afternoon the sale continued and many more dollars were poured into the Cornhusker treasury.

Many students who had not ordered the Cornhusker and who had expected to get the book for $1.75 were disappointed yesterday when they came to purchase the annual, for they found the price had been raised to $2.00 and were told that no copies could be bought at the lower figure.

The public had been notified for days, however, thru the columns of the Nebraskan and by other means that the price would be advanced with the initial sale, and the Cornhusker managers felt that those who failed to order books at $1.75 had no right to complain when the price was raised twenty-five cents.

Everybody on the campus yesterday who had purchased a Cornhusker seemed satisfied with the new book, and went around voicing their approval.

No Afternoon Classes.

Owing to the competitive drill which will be held this afternoon, there will be no classes after 12 m. Convocation, however, at 5 o'clock will occur as usual. Hon. George Fred Williams of Boston will speak.
