"DON'T PUT OFF."

There is an unjustified, if not even an unjustifiable prejudice against drilling noticeable among University men of the lower classes, who are most intimately concerned with affairs military. It seems to be almost a matter of tradition that every year a more or less numerous body of men seek to avoid this requirement by one means or another. A requirement that the authorities have seen fit to make general and one which is found most difficult to satisfy in any way other than the usual one. It is difficult to determine the reason for this feeling on the part of some of the students. In some cases perhaps the ideals and general influence of military science is felt to be un-American, this attitude would have been more nearly justifiable in times past than now. It, however, is not at all likely that the short time given to this work in the college course would have any tendency to effect a change in the peaceful habits of any one. But the remark recently made by one of our distinguished professors to the effect that peace is best maintained by preparations for war terests are less diversified at that period and the time spent in drill is felt to be less of a sacrifice.

SCHOOL OF MUSIC

Some Real Live News From Kimball's Institution

The outlook for the School of Music this year is the brightest in the history of that institution. There is an enrollment of over 350 pupils, representing the following states: Nebraska, North Dakota, South Dakota, Montana, Illinois, Kansas, Iowa, New York, Colorado, Missouri and Washington. Director Kimball is certain that before the end of the term twenty or twenty-five states will be represented in the list of students.

The University School of Music was renovated and placed in excellent condition during the summer. Many of the rooms formerly used for dormitory purposes have been converted into studios and it is expected that before the end of the year the entire second floor will be put to the same use.

The following new courses are offered this year: Instruction of Music in Public Schools; Orchestral Instruction; and Instruction on the Flute, Saxophone, Cornet, and Mandolin. The establishment of other new courses is being considered.

It is thought that an operatic school will be established in the School of Music in the near future, thereby giving those talented in operatic lines an opportunity for home training.

Arrangements have been made so that any University student who does not care to drill or play in the band can make his military requirement by orchestra work in the School of Music. This arrangement enables Director Kimball to procure much excellent talent that otherwise would not be available.

Football Men.

All men out for football who have not completed drill requirements must put in an application for leave of absence and have the same signed should be seriously considered.

In other instances the hour is inconvenient, coming as it does so late in the afternoon, but whatever may be the cause of this feeling, the fact still remains that drilling is at present required in this University. In view of these circumstances one should go about the affair cheerfully and try to get all the benefit possible out of the few semesters devoted to this training. When a person stops thinking of how particularly distasteful or unpleasant a task is and devotes that same energy to properly discharging it the prominence of the former feeling will promptly be lost. A little taste of discipline of this nature has a very salutary effect upon the minds in addition to broadening the experience. Another argument in favor of working off this requirement in the early years of the course is that a student's in-by Manager Eager and filed with the Military department.
