Y. M. C. A. Reception.

About three hundred men were out to the stag reception last Saturday night to see what the social committee had in store for them. The entertainment was advertised as a "Paddle Social" and no one knew until he got there with his paddle just what it meant. It was not until a few steps were taken into the gymnasium that
got there with his paddle just what it
the real import of the injunction "Come early" was fully appreciated.

All the men were met at the door by Arthur Jorgensen the chairman of the Bible Study Committee. They were greeted by a hearty handshake, not suspecting the dire results that were to follow. As the new arrival turned to the crowd inside he saw two rows of men facing each other.
Each man had in his hand a formidable looking stick, technically known as a paddle and was grasping it firmly in preparation for the next victim.
The candidate started to walk through the line but his rate of speed gradually accelerated until he was doing his best at the finish. The new form of amusement was adopted with not a little hesitation by the committee on account of the uncertainty of the way it would be received by the freshmen and others who were there to enjoy the evening. According to the report of those present who took their share of the warning, the reception was a success.

After about forty-five minutes of that kind of enjoyment, the program was changed. Coach Cole made his first appearance before the student body in any other except his football togs. He asked for the sincere support of the student body and asked for as many men to come out on the field for practice as were able and who felt that they could do something to help out the team. Men were especially asked for who were big and husky and who had had some experience with the game. Captain Weller expressed much the same sentiment, telling the fellows that the squad wanted especially men to try out for ends and backfield players.

Secretary DerKinderen spoke for a few minutes on the general work of the association, what it stood for and what the outlook for the coming year was. He mentioned the fact that the Bible study movement was one of the important things in the Y. M. C. A. and that if one could judge from the interest that has already been manifested, the enrollment would easily reach the goal set for this year's work, 500 men in classes.

Lighter amusements were the next thing on the program such as a three round prize fight between Knode and "Shorty" Elliott, with Elliott and easy winner. Ayers and Dobbs tried to see who could get the most juicy pie out of a dish and Dobbs won with a long lead. Rooster fights and sword duels were followed by refreshments consisting of punch, doughnuts and ginger snaps. After a short but enthusiastic singing jollification around the piano, the fellows went home well pleased with the entertainment.

Coach Whitmore of the South Dakota football team witnessed the Peru-Nebraska contest Saturday.

President Crabtree of the Peru State Normal was on the campus Saturday.

Football practice was held on the lawn west of Library Hall yesterday.
