ABOUT SCRAPS.

It will be but a short time until the traditional difficulties between the Freshmen and the Sophomores reach an acute stage. In order to properly meet the crisis the matter should be seriously considered, first in respect to the reason for this struggle and secondly its consequences. As to the reason for a feeling existing between the first and second year classes there perhaps, can be assigned no logical reason, but the fact remains that in every college it is thought necessary and salutary to subject the Freshman to a certain amount of discipline in order that he may be in the proper frame of mind to assume his place in college life. It is a good custom and should be perpetuated, but judgment should be used by all concerned, so that the affair does not degenerate into a senseless destruction of university property without anything to commend it and many things to condemn it, against the custom if it were not, that usually some over zealous Freshie or Soph oversteps the boundaries of reason and forgets the rights of others both property and personal. Could there could be no objection raised Wesleyan Seniors Promulgate Mock Rules.

The senior class at Wesleyan is having a little trouble with the faculty owing to the publication of some mock regulations which the fourth year students felt called upon to promulgate in order to give the Methodist school the atmosphere of a real university.

The entire senior class was "called up on the carpet" the other day and put thru a torturing quiz in an effort on the part of the faculty to fix the guilt on the exact perpetrators of the horrible crime. The inquiry revealed nothing, but the investigation to find the guilty students still continues. Meanwhile the naughty seniors stand around trembling with fear and looking innocent lest they be discovered and dismissed from dear old Wesleyan. The mock rules follow:

Cross Eyes

You Can't afford to neglect your visual sense. Cross eyes are frequently the result of muscular weakness which may be overcome with proper glasses.

If you are thus afflicted (or see objects double, even for a few moments at a time) get an opinion.

And don't forget—the earlier the easier—in eye care.

there be an arrangement made whereby this clash might occur in some place more adapted to it than, for instance Memorial Hall filled with comparatively fragile furniture, there would be less criticism. The upper classmen would deserve the gratitude of everyone if they would take the matter in hand and evolve some plan whereby the undesirable features would be eliminated and the desirable ones preserved. It is in the nature of things that such matters as class spirit and college spirit should seem of first importance to us here at this time. Many a graduate of Nebraska remembers with delight his experience in class scraps and would regret to see the custom relegated to the rear. And further we must not suffer to a lapse of enthusiasm but cherish every good custom jealously, for in that way and in no other can we hope to keep alive the old time Nebraska spirit.
