Nebraska and Minnesota will clash in their annual football game on Northrop field at 3 o'clock this afternoon. The length of the halves will probably be thirty minutes.

The game is being watched with great interest at all the universities in the West, for it is the crucial contest of Minnesota's schedule and will show whether the Gophers have a look-in for the Western championship. A clean victory over Nebraska would still leave Minnesota's real strength an enigma, but a defeat, instead, would signal the death of her hopes for this season and put her out of the race.

To the Nebraska rooters this game presents the first real test of the Cornhuskers' strength. Victory (and many expect it) or a low score today will demonstrate that Nebraska has just such a strong team as she needs in order to triumph over Ames and Kansas. Anything but a good showing against the Gophers will be a great disappointment to the local supporters of the Cornhuskers.

The fact that Ames outplayed Minnesota Saturday has led many people to believe that the Gophers are weak this season. But such is far from the truth. Minnesota is strong—nearly as strong as last year—and the reason Ames made such a good showing against her Saturday was due to the fact that the Aggies have one of the fastest and heaviest elevens in the Missouri valley. Against the Gophers they played a game that Minnesota had little expected they were capable of doing and nearly carried off all the laurels. Had Minnesota had a weak team against Ames Saturday she would have received the small end of the score.

ELLIOT WINS.

University Place Boy Receives Presidency.

The Junior class election Thursday resulted in the selection of Robert I. Elliot of University Place for president. The other officers elected were: vice-president, Guy Montgomery and secretary, Mabel Enyder.

In a recent address to the students at Dartmouth, their president, N. J. Tucker made the proposal to eliminate baseball from college sports. This action on his part was due to the recent clash between Brown and Dartmouth due to the pique on the part of the latter's pitcher. Also President Tucker suggested that the game of baseball carried with it an air of commercialism which was detrimental to the spirit of scholarship. The students as a whole are against the withdrawal and are working hard to keep the movement from becoming official.

Locker Notes.

There are a few steel lockers in the men's dressing room at the gymnasium which have not been rented. As long as they last these lockers will be rented to members of the battalion and other students for drill clothes, etc.

NOTICE.

The Y. W. C. A. Vesper Service scheduled for Sunday, October 20, has been postponed on account of the Scoville meetings in the Auditorium at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon.

The Nebraskan is in receipt of a copy of the class poem of the class of 1907 of the University of Iowa. The poem was written by Jeffrey D. Hrbek, who is an instructor in the department of German at Nebraska.

GRAND OPERA.

A Concert Will Be Given in the Temple November 1.

The first note of music to be heard in the Temple will be the operatic concert to be given by Bessie Abott, prima donna soprano from the Metropolitan Opera House, New York; Castellano, tenor; La Scala, Milan, and Madam Sassoli, harpist with Melba for three seasons, together with a quintet of strings from the Philharmonic Orchestra in New York. The proceeds are to be given for the ornamental drop curtain. It will doubtless be one of the great musical events of the season and every student should plan to be present. Tickets may be had at the Registrar's office and are now on sale. Prices, 50 cents to $1.50. The concert occurs on Friday evening, November 1. Watch the Nebraskan for notices from day to day concerning the artists and their high standing in the musical world.

Historical Societies.

The first meeting of the secretaries of the state historical societies of the Mississippi Valley was held in Memorial Hall Thursday evening. Dr. Jewett of the University library gave the address of welcome. Responses were delivered by B. F. Shambaugh of Iowa University, Colonel Martin of Topeka, Kansas, and Dr. Upham of the Minnesota state historical society. One or two members from the different state societies were in attendance—about fifteen in all. Meetings were held in the rooms of the Nebraska Historical Society.

Benj. J. Gibson, LL. B., 1906, and now a member of the law firm of Meyerhoff & Gibson of Corning, Iowa, is in the city for a few days on business.

The Lincoln and West Des Moines high school elevens play on Nebraska field at 3:30 this afternoon.

THEY ORGANIZE

HISTORICAL SOCIETIES FORM M. V. ASSOCIATION.

Ten Mississippi Valley States Are in the Organization—Many Prominent People Are Present.

The visiting presidents and secretaries of the Mississippi Valley state historical societies, at their last meeting yesterday morning succeeded in forming a permanent organization. Prof. B. F. Shambaugh of Iowa was not in favor of a close organization, preferring an informal one. However, the majority favored the formation of an adjunct to the American Historical Society.

The object of the new organization is to form a closer union among the societies of the middle west, and it was decided that in the future they will co-operate with each other and material will be exchanged. Following the business meeting a general discussion was had on the work of the societies, after which the visitors were whirled about the city in automobiles. Later luncheon was served for the guests at the Commercial club. The new organization will meet in December at Madison, where the gathering of the American Historical society will take place.

Thursday evening a meeting was held in Memorial Hall which was well attended. The program consisted of an address of welcome by Dr. William K. Jewett of the Nebraska university and a short speech by a representative from each state. Most of the visiting secretaries described the historical collections under their care and the way they are housed. C. S. Paine, secretary of the Nebraska association, and Rr. Geo. L. Miller, president, told of the recent appropriation made by the Nebraska legislature for a building for the society and expressed the hope that the people of Lincoln would soon donate the land on which to place the structure.

Dr. Miller, who was the presiding officer, spoke briefly of the character of the people of Nebraska, praising the high degree of education which the average Nebraskan has attained.

Mayor F. W. Brown who was to present. Dr. Jewett spoke of the value make an address was unable to be ue to historical societies of the libraries which they in time accumulate. He said that the state societies aid the work of the national historical society.

Dr. Benj. F. Stambaugh, professor of sociology in the university of Iowa, said he thought it a great benefit, for a historical society to be connected with a state university. He said it was almost essential to the success of the society that it be so connected.

R. N. Allen, recently appointed manager of the senior football team, requests all candidates to see him this week if possible.

All cross country men will report at 10 a. m., Saturday for practice.
