BOULDER, Oct. 23—The Colorado coaches, since the poor showing made against the State Agriculture School, Saturday, are determined to turn out a team that will make a good showing against Nebraska and are putting the men thru a grueling practice this week in way of accomplishing that aim.

Reid, fullback, appeared for practice Tuesday night for the first time in a week and Weiner, fullback, will probably don the moleskins tonight for the first time since Saturday's game.

Although no special train can be secured to run to Lincoln, Saturday, "pools" have been made among the students to send a few rooters to the game.

The coaches are dubious as to the outcome of the game and the students as a whole take a sanguine view of the probable outcome of the contest. The general hope seems to be to hold Nebraska down to a small score.

The team as a whole does not show the usual mid-season form. No secret practice is held on the field, but secret signal practice in the gymnasium was inaugurated last night.

The showing the University of Nebraska made against Minnesota has given rise to many gloomy predictions by the Colorado students, who now see only defeat ahead.

GOOD RALLY.

Large Crowd in Memorial Hall to Sing Many New Songs.

The most enthusiastic and successful football rally of the season was held in Memorial Hall yesterday morning. A spirit of loyalty and earnestness was exhibited by the crowd.

The numerous songs which have been suggested proved most popular and were practiced enough so that a good showing can be made at the game. Several members of the Glee club of last year led the singing. It has been arranged for these same men to be on hand with megaphones next Saturday to lead the singing at the game.

Manager Eager suggested that the girls try one of the songs, and they did their part so well that a girls' rooting club is being formed and will meet today in S. 102. It is desired that all girls come out and help prepare for the game.

Hawkeye Club.

The Hawkeye Club was delightfully entertained by Professor and Mrs. Chatburn, Thursday evening, October 17. Great interest in the club was shown, especially by the new members. The club is especially indebted to Miss Jaeggi for the violin solo and to Miss Williams for a piano solo. The following are the officers for the following semester: president, Elmer Hills; secretary, Miss Jennie Morgan; treasurer, H. L. Ballenger.

Pies like mother tried to make. Baked fresh twice a day by an expert woman pie baker, at The Boston Lunch.

PEARSE AT CHAPEL

MILWAUKEE SUPERINTENDENT DELIVERS ADDRESS.

Talks Interestingly on "Public Schools and the Municipality."—Pleases Quite a Large Audience.

Superintendent Pearse, formerly superintendent of the Omaha schools, and at the head of the Milwaukee schools, spoke at chapel yesterday morning. Owing to the uncertain schedule of Nebraska trains, Superintendent Pearse was a little late in arriving, but everybody waited for him. In the interval several city superintendents from different parts of Nebraska spoke a few words.

Superintendent Pearse declared that he was glad to get back to Nebraska—the state of clear, bright sunshine and large cornfields. Many of his dearest friends were here and many pleasant memories.

He commenced his talk on the "Public Schools and the Municipality," by saying that the importance of the municipality in American life is constantly growing. New problems and perplexing questions are arising in the modern city. The day when the city and city issues and problems were unimportant is over.

He discussed for a few moments the development which had made possible the modern city. Time was, when our more simple life made it possible for the school and the church to be the centers of social activity. Since then the division of industry has made a more complex life possible. Modern systems of lighting and paving, sewerage systems, and the carrying away of garbage have made it possible for such great populations as our modern cities contain to live together. There was left, however, no place for discussion of common interests. Each person lives within himself. Human beings, however, crave society and commercial men have filled the need by supplying the saloons and cheap theaters.

Educators are beginning, as a result of this, to again consider making the schools not only a place for the instruction of the children but a place for social intercourse and amusement. There is no reason why the great buildings built by the public might not become the centers of activity in each community. Rooms might be set aside in which the younger children could play. Other rooms might be given over to chorus classes or debating classes, and gymnasiums might be fitted up for those who have to work during the day times. This is the way in which schools must develop in the future.

Superintendent Pearse declared that the schools the place where the patriots of the future must be made. The home, in most cases, no longer teaches patriotism, and the schools must take this as one of their principal duties in the future.
