RAILROADS FIRM

WILL OFFER NO REDUCED RATE TO LAWRENCE.

The Cornhusker Team Will Leave Lincoln Tomorrow Night at 10 O'clock Via Missouri Pacific.

The railroads running from Lincoln to Lawrence have refused to make any rate for an excursion to the latter city Saturday and rooters who go from here to witness the Nebraska-Kansas game will have to pay the regular two-cent-a-mile fare. Much influence has been used with the railroads to get them to reduce the fare, but they have firmly refused to give anything better than the two-cent rate. The stand of the railroads has been a great disappointment to many students who had planned on making the trip if a reduced fare were secured. Several of the students will go to Lawrence, however, and Nebraska will have a fairly large contingent of rooters there Saturday.

The fare for the round trip to Lawrence over the Missouri Pacific by the way of Kansas City is $10.80. The rate to Kansas City is $4.80 and from there to Lawrence 80 cents, making the round trip ticket $10.80. Rooters may leave Lincoln Friday night and reach Lawrence in plenty of time for the game.

The Nebraska team will depart from Lincoln for Lawrence tomorrow night at 10 o'clock, going via the Missouri Pacific. They will reach Kansas City early Friday morning and will spend the day and night there, running down to Lawrence Saturday morning. They will leave the Jayhawker town soon after the game and will reach Lincoln before noon Sunday. While in Kansas City the team will stay at the Savoy hotel, one of the leading hosteleries of the Kaw city.

Practice was held on the gridiron yesterday afternoon in preparation for the Kansas game. All of the regulars were out excepting Johnson, whose ankle is still troubling him. Beltzer took his place at end. Craig is still subbing at half and may play part of the Kansas game. Captain Weller has sufficiently recovered from his injuries received in the Ames game and showed up in good form last night.

With the exception of Johnson and Frum, all of the men are in good condition. Practice has been light this week, owing to the desire of Coach Cole to prevent possible injuries to his men. There probably will be a slight scrimmage today and tomorrow afternoon. Another practice will be held at Kansas City Friday afternoon.

Mr. G. A. Pearson, forest assistant of the United States Forest service has been visiting the department of forestry and botany since last Saturday. He took his A. M. degree at the University last spring. Since then he has been engaged in field work in Oregon, and is now on his way to Washington for the winter.

DATES ANNOUNCED.

Rhodes Scholarship Examinations
January 21 and 22.

Dr. George R. Parkin of the Rhodes Scholarship Trust of England has just announced that the dates for the next examinations have been set for January 21 and 22, 1908, and that the examinations will be conducted after the manner of last year.

A request has been made by the scholarship committee of the General Federation of Woman's clubs of America for the use of the Rhodes scholarship examination in determining the qualifications of candidates for scholarships to English universities which the federation will reward to American women during 1908. The trustees have granted permission for such candidates to take the examinations, subject to the consent of the committee chairman of the several states.

The intercollegiate cross country association, comprising Pennsylvania, Harvard, Columbia, Cornell, Yale, Princeton, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and Syracuse, will hold its annual run this year November 27.

FULKERSON TONIGHT.

Will Talk on "The Far Eastern Situation."

Dr. E. R. Fulkerson of Japan will address University students under the auspices of the University Young Men's Christian Association in U. 106 this evening. The subject will be, "The Far Eastern Situation." This subject is of especial interest to us as Americans in view of the recent developments in the political world, and Dr. Fulkerson is very well prepared to discuss this subject. He has lived in Japan for a fifth of a century and was president of a Japanese college for a number of years. Recently a Japanese educator has been installed as president to succeed Dr. Fulkerson, while he now serves as Dean and is a professor in the department of Political Economy and Sociology. Every year he is allowed two months to travel for the purpose of studying social and economic conditions in other countries. Politically he served as United States vice-consul to Japan and was also a member of the commission that sent the Philippine students here to be educated.

The Y. M. C. A., has arranged for a talk to be given by Dr. S. R. Fulkerson of Japan this evening between 6:50 and 8:00 o'clock in U. 106.

IT IS IMPORTANT

RELATION OF STUDENT TO THE CHURCH DISCUSSED.

Held to Be a Most Serious Question by Professor Charles R. Erdman of Princeton College.

The current issue of The Intercollegian contains an article on "The Collegian and the Church," by Professor Charles R. Erdman of Princeton, in which that gentleman gives a serious discussion of the relations of the students to the local churches of the college towns. The article has called forth considerable comment and for that reason is reprinted here. It follows in part:

One of the most serious questions to be faced and solved by undergraduates is that of their personal relation to the local churches in the cities or towns where they are spending their student days. It is a problem of supreme importance to the student, because by its right solution his religious experience and future career are often determined; the relation to the church which one recognizes as an undergraduate is the relation which he usually maintains throughout life. It is a matter of deep concern to the local churches, because if the contributions to their life which students may make. It is of vital interest to the church at large, because of the leadership and support which the church expects from college graduates.

There is today, both within and beyond the college world, an evident tendency to underestimate the character and functions of the Christian church. There is a temptation to forget its claims, its means of grace its spiritual oversight, its divine establishment and mission, and to accept other religious organizations and institutions, as supplying all possible needs for Christian life and service. Chapel exercises, the activities of the Christian Association, and student meetings, are all admirable in their place and purpose, but their very excellence often makes the undergraduate oblivious of the existence and claims of the church. It should be said of the Young Men's Christian Association, and the same is true of other similar organizations, that those who are most eager for its advancement and have been most prominent in its promotion have never regarded it as a substitute for the church, but as an instrument of the church to be employed by it in increasing its efficiency, in adding to its enrolled membership, especially in bringing young men into its life and activities. There is, however, even where the Association is most widely conducted, a very evident danger that all church relationships may be neglected, not only by those students who are characterized by religious indifference, but even by those who are active in Christian work. Each student should seriously ask himself this question,
