AT LAWRENCE.

The Cornhuskers are now in Lawrence making preparations to give the Jayhawkers a good fight for victory in tomorrow's game. The outcome of the game is by no means certain although Nebraska's hopes are high, but we should remember that the Jayhawkers will make the struggle of their lives to humiliate Nebraska at Lawrence. In view of the uncertainty the students should be prepared to fittingly receive the team whether in victory or in defeat. In fact it is much more important in the latter case than the former. It is easy enough to show enthusiasm when victory is ours but the real test of spirit is shown when the team is defeated and their gloom is reflected in the student body. We should remember that the 'Varsity represents this university and that their struggle should not be considered as something apart from the interests of the students generally. No one doubts but that every man who

To the Nebraskan.

Inasmuch as it seems impossible for the members of the freshman class to obtain an impartial hearing before the Interclass Committee, I believe it no more than proper that our stand be placed properly before any who may feel an interest in this question.

In the first place as I understand it, when this question arose last year, owing to the fact that the freshman class could place a better team in the field because of the three year rule, it was then decided that they would play that year but that in the future they were to be eliminated.

The freshmen this year, admit the fairness of the proposition that they have an undue advantage inasmuch as the other classes are drained of their best men to make up the Varsity, and therefore stand willing to bar any freshman player who is adjudged to be of varsity material. This stand seems to be absolutely fair. The sophomore members of the committee stated at the meeting that Coach Peck is used exclusively in coaching the freshman team, but Earl Eager states that it is not the case at all but that any man in football togs appearing on the field will receive Coach Peck's attention.

I might add further that this matter came up before Chancellor Andrews yesterday and, although he stated he hardly regarded such a matter as one which should receive his attention, he authorized us to state that he was of the opinion that no class should be eliminated from such interclass contests, as such action would certainly hurt university class athletics.

Now in view of the fact that practically every impartial person who is competent to judge on this matter, does not hesitate in stating that the treated in this matter, we certainly goes into the game will do his best to bring glory upon the old U. of N.

This spirit on the part of the members of the football team is deserving of something more than a few words of praise. Every student should appreciate the fact that a debt of gratitude is owing those men who by their energy and courage choose to devote so much of their time to a line of activity which results in permanent glory to this university and only temporary or passing remarks for themselves. If by any chance the game tomorrow should go to Kansas, there would be a splendid opportunity to demonstrate that Nebraska spirit is honest and genuine, that it is not the result of excitement. We fervently hope that such opportunity be not given, nor is it probable that it will be given, but the possibility should not be lost sight of.

are not going to permit, if there are any means of preventing it, such a rank decision to stand. The freshman committee realized even before they had a chance to defend their position that an adverse decision was all that awaited them; they begged that the matter be referred to an impartial competent committee for adjustment but were refused.

We admit that there may be two sides to this question although we fail to see the justice of their position, and therefore all we ask is an impartial hearing and an unprejudiced decision.
