The University Band was not sent to Lawrence with the team because the Athletic Board did not think it was under obligations to incur such additional expense. Without doubt the expenses of the twenty-five or thirty members of the band would seriously cut into the receipts of today's game. But is that all that can be said on the subject? Would not the presence of the band at the Jayhawkers' camp make up in part, at least, for the rooters who should be there, but are not. Furthermore, does not the band deserve a little consideration at the hands of those who have called for their services upon any and all occasions? No one can say that the University Band has not responded with cheerfulness to every demand made for their services. No football rally is complete unless the band is there, and it is the lively music rather than any other one feature of these mass meetings that makes them successful in the accomplishment of the desired end. Every one is glad the band is present, but no one stops to think that perhaps it is not always convenient and agreeable for the different members to meet these extra demands upon their time. In fact, posed eliminating of the Freshman class in all class athletics. It must be admitted that the point is well taken as regards the injustice of allowing the Freshmen to play their full strength against the other classes, but their proposition to cut out any men who are judged to be 'varsity material certainly would appear very reasonable.

I have had a personal talk with two of the presidents of the upper classes, and both admitted that the Freshmen had good grounds for their contention. In fact, the Senior president frankly admitted that the upper classes had taken unfair advantage of the Freshman class, especially inasmuch as the Interclass Athletic Committee were not content to eliminate the first year men from football, but basket-ball, baseball and track athletics as well.

For my part, I feel that an injustice will be done University athletics as a whole as well by eliminating the first year men. In view of the fact that the coaches are constantly on a hunt for new and promising material to build up the 'varsity and that there is much more probability of discovering such material in the first year class, owing to the larger number of students, it certainly looks just a little bad for the upper classmen to bar the Freshmen on the view that they possess an advantage over the other classes. Do not the Sophomores likewise possess an advantage over the Juniors and the Juniors over the Seniors?

The other classes should remember that there is not much glory in winning their numerals under the proposed system. FAIR PLAY.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES.

Dr. Fulkerson Makes Interesting Address on "Far East."

Last Wednesday evening Dr. Fulkerson spoke in U. 106 to a large and appreciative audience. His topic was "Conditions in the Far East," which was handled in a masterly and instructive way. The doctor has been engaged in educational work in Japan for the last twenty years, and so is well acquainted with Oriental conditions. He touched briefly upon the great industrial and diplomatic position of Japan, showing that she is a power to be reckoned with in the fu-

Astronomy Notes.

Astronomy students have been using the clear nights recently in studying the meteors, or shooting stars. From counts made on different evenings, they have found the number of visible meteors to be from twelve to thirty-six per hour at any one station. Reckoning from this, they have computed that the whole earth meets from two to six daily.

Some new secondary clocks have been secured for the University. Instead of being set weekly by the janitors, as in the old way, they are operated by electricity from the observatory. One has been placed in University Hall and another is ready for the Library. The Temple will also soon be supplied with one.

Reports of the Kansas-Nebraska game will be wired direct to Nebraska field by special arrangements. Bulletins will be read and it will be possible to keep track of the ball at all times on Nebraska field.

Lost—History cover containing program, syllabi and notes of seminar on municipal problems. Return to 1023 H street or Registrar's office. Reward.

Lost—A plain black fountain pen on the campus Tuesday, November 5. Finder return to Nebraskan office.

every one knows that for each of these calls a sacrifice of the individual's own convenience is demanded. Perhaps no one appreciates this more than those same individuals. Yet in spite of this lack of appreciation on the part of the student body generally, no reasonable demand is made but prompt and cheerful compliance on the part of the band results.

In the past it has been customary for the band to be given a trip to repay them for their services and the precedent should not be departed from this year. If the Athletic Board can not provide for this, a popular movement should be started among the students. It is up to the students to see that their conduct does not justify the belief that they would accept anything without being willing to make a fair return.

A COMMUNICATION.

To The Nebraskan:
I have noted the editorials and communication which have appeared in your paper, and as a University student and one thoroughly interested in interclass athletics, I wish to heartily concur in the sentiments expressed in those articles as regards the pro-ture. The main object of the address was to show the great field for missionary work in the East, a place where opportunities are unlimited for carrying on Christian work.

Mission study work at the Y. M. C. A. is making a very satisfactory progress. Thirty-five men have enrolled in the classes, and it is expected that over one hundred will be enrolled before long. The topics studied are Africa, Japan, China, Philippines and home missionary work among foreign immigrants.

In January, Dr. Fulkerson, who spoke last Wednesday evening on the "Far East Conditions," will deliver a couple of lectures, accompanied by stereopticon views, on missionary work in the Orient.

The State Farm Y. M. C. A. held a stag reception to new members last evening. Professor Davidson delivered a very pleasing address. The boys spent the time enjoyably in performing divers athletic "feats," ending by doing justice to the ample refreshments. Work has made good advances at the Farm this year, the students running a rooming and employment bureau as in the University system.
