GETTING READY

CORNHUSKERS LOOKING FORWARD TO ST. LOUIS GAME.

Practice at Antelope Park This Week
—Guard Frum's Shoulder Still in Bad Condition—Other Notes.

Practice this week is being held at Antelope Park in preparation for the big Thanksgiving game with St. Louis. The men are all in good condition, save Frum whose shoulder is still troubling him. No injuries were received in the game with Denver last Saturday, and barring further accidents which might occur in practice, the team will be in excellent form when they enter the game on Turkey day.

According to an interview published in a St. Louis paper Manager Lansdon of Kansas was quoted as saying, after the game between St. Louis and Kansas, in which the latter was beaten 17-0, that he believed Nebraska to be stronger than St. Louis, and that he expected a rather easy victory for Nebraska on Thanksgiving day. This prophecy is regarded with suspicion by Coach Cole, who declares it will not be allowed to interfere for a minute with his program, and that stiff practice will be held every afternoon in preparation for what is expected to be the stiffest fight of the entire season.

"I believe I am wise to the scheme of the St. Louis people," says Coach Cole. "They want to make us think they are easy, but we should do nothing of the kind. Our assistant coach, Peck, has seen St. Louis in action and he tells me that Cochem's men are capable of playing whirlwind football. We expect the hardest kind of a battle, but we hope to be prepared for them."

With the forward pass and on side kick working to almost perfection as it did in the Denver game, Nebraska should stand a good chance of defeating St. Louis. These plays worked with great success in the recent games and with the addition of several new formations which Cole is developing in daily practice, to those already on the list, the Cornhusker followers are confident that Cochem's pupils will run up against the strongest opposition they have encountered this year, and are predicting victory for the Cornhuskers.

Manager Eager is negotiating for a Christmas day battle with St. Vincent's College of Los Angeles, California.

Nebraska claims the championship of the Missouri Valley due to the victories over Kansas Ames Aggies, and Colorado. St. Vincent has defeated Denver and Utah the latter having defeated the champions of Colorado, namely the School of Mines.

Such a contest would decide the championship of three sections, the Missouri Valley, the Rocky Mountain and the Southern Pacific Coast region.

The Kansas-Nebraska freshman game to be played in Lincoln on Thanksgiving day has been called off, Kansas being unable to assemble a representative team.

CLASS MEETING.

Seniors Arrange for Party to Be Held December 6.

A meeting of the Senior class was held in Memorial Hall yesterday morning, President Olande Alden presiding. A party was scheduled for December 6, which is to be of the nature of a masquerade. The time of the meeting was largely devoted to discussion of the plan, advocated by the Dean of Women, for the general wear of the cap and gown on the campus by University women. The class was not in favor of permitting those articles of apparel usually reserved to Seniors to be worn indiscriminately by the women of all the classes. No action was taken in regard to the other phase of the question, namely as to whether some such quiet garb would be better taste on the part of women students generally.

Arthur Jorgensen left this morning for the International Convention of the Y. M. C. A. to be held at Washington, D. C., November 22-26. "Jorgy" is the delegate from the University Y. M. C. A. and will be accompanied by the director of the city Y. M. C. A., Mr. C. M. Mayne. This Convention is regarded as extremely important and marks an epoch in the history of the association and will be attended by delegates from nearly every nation on the globe. Before returning, the University Y. M. C. A. delegate will visit the Jamestown Exposition, New York City, returning to Chicago from Niagara Falls by the Lakes.

Cornhusker Pictures.

Students who have their pictures taken at Townsends for the Cornhusker should bear in mind that they are required to pay the price of the first dozen when the pictures are taken. This dozen photographs cost $2.75, which price includes the payment for the "cut" for the Cornhusker. Pictures, after the first dozen are ordered, come at a lower price.

MAKE MONEY.

The Kansas-Nebraska Football Game a Paying Contest.

Figures that have just been compiled by Manager W. C. Lansdon of the Kansas football team, show that the gate receipts for the Nebraska game passed the three thousand dollar mark. Of this amount Nebraska received over half as their share of the proceeds and expenses amounting to $1,336.50. The expense of bringing officials here and their fees amounted to $246 leaving $601.50 to go into the treasury of the association.

The report of Manager Lansdon in full is: Advance sales $1022, sales at gate $1,162, proceeds from season tickets $735, total $2,919. Pay for officials $246, amount to be divided $2,673, Nebraska's dividend in cash $1,365.00. Kansas' dividends in cash $601.50.

Debating Notes.

Arrangements for the intercollegiate debates have reached the stage of inviting judges. Lists have been exchanged, and Professor Fogg invited three judges for the Nebraska-Iowa debate yesterday. These gentlemen are all members of the Minnesota courts.

Judges for the Minneapolis-Nebraska debate will be chosen from Wisconsin. It was found that three names were in the lists submitted by both colleges. These men have been invited to act as judges by the secretary of Minnesota debating board. They are all professors in the University of Wisconsin at Madison.

Judges for the Illinois-Iowa debate are to be chosen from Nebraska.

It is reported that the Nebraska graduates at Minneapolis are preparing to give the debating team a big reception on the occasion of the debate on December 13. Mr. Chas. M. Brace, 1902, and Mr. Nell Cronin, 1904, are both living in the northern city at this time.

AYERS AT CHAPEL

SPEAKS ON CHARACTER AND WORK OF CHARLES SUMNER.

Declare There is Some Truth in Different Ideas of Sumner's Character—His Early Ambitions.

Charles Sumner, the great leader in the struggle against slavery, was the subject of a talk by Professor Ayers at Chapel yesterday morning. Charles Sumner is of peculiar interest to us at Nebraska because the great work of Sumner culminated in the Kansas-Nebraska struggle.

It was the work of Charles Sumner that thwarted the attempt of the South to make Kansas a slave state and it was for this work that he nearly gave his life. He was the most prominent anti-slavery leader, and his great reputation rested on the fact that he was the great exponent of anti-slavery. He would have been famous however if he had never defended the cause of the negro.

For a time Sumner was an instructor in law at Harvard, where it was generally considered that he would shortly become a full professor. Later he studied in Europe where his reputation for ability as a scholar became so great that it affected the feeling of Europe for America more than the ability of any other, before or after him.

Although an ardent anti-slavery man he was one of the most conservative of the republicans during the civil war. He became recognized by foreign nations as the foremost diplomat in America. He, it was, who prevented the war with England. It is very probable that if he had lived, many of the difficulties under reconstruction would have been avoided.

There are two ideas held regarding his character. By some people he is regarded as kind-hearted, fearless and far-seeing. By others he is regarded as a haughty and not approachable. There is a certain amount of truth in both these ideas. Those characteristics which called down sneers only added to his strength.

Two difficulties to be overcome before Sumner could accomplish his life work were the condition of his birth and his love of study and books. These obstacles, ultimately, only contributed to his success. His great ambition had been to become president of Harvard College but he gave this up when he was elected to the Senate.
