ARRANGING PLAYS

DRAMATIC CLUB TO GIVE PRODUCTIONS.

Among the Plays Under Consideration is One By Bernard Shaw the Sensational English Playwright.

For the past month, the different committees of the Dramatic Club have been arranging for different productions to be put on in the new theater this winter, and in the meeting held Tuesday, the committee on plays and casts announced that they had decided to put on a number of short one act plays immediately, to be followed by a finished performance of a big play.

The reason for giving a great number of small plays is to find out the caliber of the material of the club generally and especially of the twenty-five new members that were taken in about a month ago. These plays will first be presented before the club without scenery or costume, and the club will then decide what plays will be rendered before the public. Those that are selected as par excellent will then be given in the form of afternoon matinees.

Perhaps the most highly recommended of these plays and one that has been played by some of America's stars, is "In Honor Bound," which will be produced by Mr. E. Johnson, Mr. Bumstead, Miss Lindermann and Miss Frances Gould. "Grin Goin'" is another that has a reputation behind it. Miss Jessie Cook will play the leading role.

"Nance Olefield," by Jerome K. Jerome will be given with Miss Ruth Bailey as principal. Richard Harding Davis' "The Little Girl," "The Holly Tree Inn," a sketch from Dickens, "Mrs Plodding's Nieces" by nine young ladies, and "Washington's First Retreat" with Mr. Robertson, Miss Faulkenberg, and Miss Frum as principals, are other one-act plays that are regarded as the best of American plays.

Perhaps the most charming of all is "The Flower of Yeddo," one of the most delicate of the Japanese stories that have been so popular in America within the last two years. This will be presented by four very clever amateurs, Mr. Coulter, Mrs. Sherman, Miss Shinn, and Miss Bailey.

These plays are all under the supervision of Miss Howell of the Elocution Department and will be rendered with as much artistic effect as any of the more elaborate productions to be given later in the year. The Club is now discussing the project of putting on a clever modern play by Bernard Shaw, who has been attracting the theater going public strongly. In the course of a few days this play will probably be announced.

The following casts are announced:

COUNTY FAIR.

Great Things Being Planned for the Country Folks.

The annual County Fair will take place in the Armory Saturday evening, December 7.

This great and wonderful exhibition of all the "phun" enthusiasts of the University and elsewhere will be visited this year by some famous celebrities from different countries of the Far East, attracted here by the fame of the County Fairs of past years.

The prospect of a visit by these strangers from the Far East has occasioned a flutter of expectation among the country folks, who annually visit the Fair. The preparations which are being made in honor of the visit far exceed anything ever known in the history of this exhibition. The fact is, everyone for miles around is planning to greet these visitors.

Aunt Samantha and Uncle Josiah have already notified the authorities that they will bring their family of twelve, and they are expecting to stop at the Outside Outt (in). Not only these, but countless others are planning to attend the Fair. A band of gypsies are at present crossing the prairies en route to the Armory. They are accompanied by a former circus man who is bringing a herd of elephants and giraffes to exhibit on Derby Day. We are also delighted to announce that the whole town of Strawberry Point will attend the Fair en masse, chaperoned by Uncle Sam and Aunt Dinah, who have not in years missed this occasion to show the Point a good time.

Under the direction of Miss Howells, a special booth will be provided where mothers may leave their babies while enjoying the revelry and frolic of the "Pike" to their heart's content. Also special provision for families from the smaller country towns will be made in one of the booths, so that no one need be left at home because of the fear of parents that children will not be taken care of. The dramatic booth promises to be one of the main attractions on the "Pike," especially in the variety and scope of its dramas and the versatility of its actors. Warning is given, however, that all Shakespearean and other plays produced will be strictly guarded by copyright.

Along with the many and various attractions of the "Pike" will be found the pop-corn and the peanut man, the ice cream and the waffle man, and the man with the balloons. If all arrangements can be satisfactorily made, as the authorities hope, M. Pierre and his latest and most modern airship will arrive at the Fair grounds promptly on December 7th and will make periodic excursions to heights unknown.

No one can afford to miss the County Fair. Drive in and bring your folks or your best girl. You will find plenty to see and all that you can eat. December 7th, at the Armory.

Inter-Class Athletic Board Holds Meeting.

The Inter-Class Athletic Board met last night in order to draft a new constitution, the old one having unfortunately been destroyed. It remained in session until nearly ten o'clock before all was finished. No important changes were made, however, and no business of any importance was transacted, although it was rumored before the meeting that the Seniors would protest the game lost to the Juniors on the ground that there were some men who played on the Junior team who were not eligible under the rules, having won their letters in minor state colleges.

At Michigan the Comedy Club has selected the old English comedy, "The Recruiting Officer," for presentation in a few weeks. The play was first produced in 1705, at Dury Lane Theater.

PRACTICE CONTINUES.

The Doane Game Expected to Draw Large Crowd.

Coach Cole's pupils are practicing daily in preparation for the St. Louis game. Practice is being held either at the Farm or Antelope Park, where the ground is in better condition than that of the gridiron, and where the players are less liable to injury.

Only two more practices will be held before the team departs for the south, the last practice occurring Monday. The game Saturday with Doane promises to draw a big crowd. This game will mark the last appearance of Captain Weller on Nebraska Field, and the supporters of the Cornhuskers should make it an ovation for the leader of the 1907 team. Much of the success attained in this year's schedule has been due to the consistent playing of Captain John Weller, whose prowess as a football player is known throughout the West. Every one should take advantage of this last opportunity of seeing the Nebraska team in action, and should give their most earnest support to the players in their preparation for the hard game on Turkey Day.

Probable line-up for Saturday:

"FRATS," NOTICE!

Inter-fraternity Council Makes Announcement.

The following announcement is made by the interfraternity council: By unanimous vote of the Interfraternity Council, no new student shall be invited to join nor be pledged to any fraternity before noon on Saturday, November 23rd.

A new student is eligible to join or be pledged to any fraternity on or after the above date under the following conditions: (1) He must be registered for and carrying not less than twelve hours in the University. (2) His name must not be on the delinquency list in any subject for which he is registered in the University.

The Zoological Club met Tuesday evening in Nebraska Hall. The members were very fortunate in having with them Mr. J. S. Hunter, who gave an excellent talk on the fauna of the Galapagos Islands. Mr. Hunter recently spent a year in the Islands as a collector for the California Academy of Science.

Senior Masquerade.

The following students compose the Senior party committee: F. N. Meneff, Mary Brown, Leola Cox, Jennie Whitmore, Nell Bratt, Louis Turner, C. C. McWhinney.

Dean Charles Fordyce, of Nebraska Wesleyan University, formerly of Lincoln, will preach in the United Presbyterian church, corner Sixteenth and R streets, next Sunday at 7:30 p. m. Students should hear him. He is a prominent educator and preacher.

Astronomy 4.

The topic for this week is the Pleiades. The Observatory will be open each clear evening for students in this course to observe the Pleiades.

The French club at California will present a French play this winter.

STOCK EXHIBIT

AUTHORITIES AT STATE FARM TO HAVE DISPLAY.

Many Head of Fine Cattle to Be Exhibited—A Demonstration of the Milking Machine to Be Given.

On Saturday afternoon, November 23rd, at 2 o'clock, there will be given at the University Farm a fine stock exhibit including the fat steers which are to be shipped to the International Live Stock Exposition the following Monday, and a number of the choicest specimens in the dairy herd, two of which hold American milk and butter records. There will also be a demonstration of the milking machine which will be operated in the Judging Pavilion where the cattle are to be exhibited.

This year's entry of fat cattle for the International is fully equal in quality to any previous display and numerically larger, necessitating the use of two large cars which are to be started for Chicago, Monday, November 25th. This show is the largest of its kind in the world and any winnings made in such competition mean much to the successful exhibitor. The University of Nebraska has but recently taken part in these annual contests, winning the grand prize of the show with the steer, Challenger in 1903 and the championship over all colleges in 1906. In all, something like $1,500 has been won clear of expenses. While there is perhaps no grand champion in this year's display, the exhibit as a whole is a very attractive one and is certain to win several hundred dollars in prize money. The secretary of the American Galloway Association with headquarters in Chicago, on a recent visit remarked that it was the best collection of fat steers he had seen together. The entire number which will go to Chicago will be shown in the Stock Judging Pavilion at the State Farm just as they will appear in the big arena at the International. But few of them will be returned so this will be the only opportunity for the public to see them together. All persons living in Lincoln who wish to see the exhibit should take the State Farm car which leaves the post office at 1:30. The next car leaves the postoffice at 1:45 and reaches the Farm campus at 2:05. The Stock Judging Pavilion is steam heated and well provided with seats to accommodate visitors. It occupies the west wing of the new dairy barn which stands at the east side of the group of buildings.

Junior Fad Affair.

This is the first Junior party of the year. Come and get acquainted with your classmates. Even now, after two years at college we hear: "Why, I don't know who belongs to the class of 1909." This is your chance to find out.

It is a fad affair. Come and represent your fad and "out-fad" the others' fads. There will be fad games, fad stunts and fad refreshments. It undoubtedly will be the biggest fad of all fads and certainly the largest fad of the year.

The Armory is ours and the entertainment will be yours. Do not fail to come. We expect you.

Palladian.

A program that promises to be of unusual interest will be given tonight in the new Palladian hall in the Temple. The question for debate is: Resolved, That intercollegiate football should be abolished. Affirmative, Wm. Reynolds and Clara Miller. Negative, Elmer Hill and Blanche Given.

The meeting will be held at 8:15 p. m. The public is cordially invited.
