WHEN THE TEAM GOES.

In view of the fact that today's issue is the last regular issue before the St. Louis game it is necessary to urge the matter of a football rally at this time, if at all. During the season fast approaching an end, there have been comparatively few demonstrations of this nature so it is up to the students to meet this emergency with the same spirit that has characterized the subject of these remarks during the entire season. Nebraska's football team has never shown any indication of the quitting spirit and this fact alone should be sufficient to oblige the student body to keep up the pace set by them. The season has been one of the very best in the history of football at this University and if the game Thanksgiving day can be placed in the list of our victories this fact will be unquestion-

This occasion should be made memorable in the history of football rallies, because of the circumstances. Nebraska has this year a team that is popular with the students and has been successful to a remarkable extent about to meet one of the strongest teams in the middle west. Certainly the situation is one that should inspire enthusiasm and bring every student down to the train to give the team a fitting God speed.

COUNTY FAIR.

Interesting News About the Annual Rural Event.

It is generally reported that the County Fair to be given December 7 is to be quite the best of the season. Several novel features are to be introduced (as usual, but these are to be more than usual), for example, Uncle Tom and Little Eva will be there, which is something never before attempted. An elaborate cast has been prepared for the soul-thrilling spectacle of Uncle Tom on the Pike. All of the characters of that justly world-famed melodrama have been cast with the exception of two cakes of ice and a bloodhound. There are to be two Topsy's, three "Markses," four Uncle Toms, besides a blood-thirsty Legree with long drooping mustashoes, and a little Eva with wings.

Then, too, the whole family from Strawberry Point will be among those present, Uncle Josh, I think, and I'm sure Aunt Samantha, and some of the children. It'll be the time of their lives, for the attractions are superlative this year. Among others is to be the gay little city of Tokio, with lots of pretty girls and all of the smells except the best and sweetest of incense. Oh, it'll be great. Will be glad to see your smiling face.

ed by all. We must win the St. Louis game but to accomplish this end every one should lend a shoulder to the wheel and help the cause along. If any student has been unable to attend the rallies in the past, he should make every effort to be at the train Tuesday to cheer the team on to victory, and victory over perhaps the strongest foe on our schedule. Many students have not developed any great interest in this game because it is not played at home and for a further reason that but little is known locally concerning St. Louis University. For these reasons many do not realize that Thanksgiving Day's game is to be without any question one of the toughest propositions Nebraska has had to consider. The student body should determine that no matter what the outcome may be their conduct will have been such as to leave nothing for vain regret. The boys who go down to St. Louis, Tuesday should be shown that they do not go into the contest alone but that they have some three thousand earnest supporters who though compelled to stay at home will yet be with them in the struggle.

Dr. Bessey has recently received a letter from Dr. John L. Sheldon, '99, in which he states that he has been made a full professor of botany at the University of West Virginia. Dr. Sheldon took his doctor's degree from this University in 1903 and was elected shortly after plant pathologist at the West Virginia experiment station. When here he was known as the tall man of Nebraska.

The Department of Botany has received a water photometer for use in measuring the intensity of light under water. It is very simple, working on essentially the same principle as the regular photometer. A piece of sello paper is arranged so that it can be exposed to the light when under water. In this way, when the length of exposure is known the intensity of the light can be told.

Dr. Bessey will have an article in the next issue of the University Studies on the classification of plants. Being so busily engaged in its preparation, he postponed the usual Thursday evening session of the Botany seminar.

At Columbia a mock republican national convention is being held, with over two hundred men present as delegates. The object of the convention is the spread of the knowledge of such things and the increase of interest in politics. The probable campaign issues will be drawn up in a platform, and balloting will take place for the nomination of a candidate for president.

The American History Conference held its third meeting for this year at the home of Professor Caldwell, Thursday evening. The organization is composed of seniors and graduate students of American history. The time was spent in a discussion of recent book reviews, and in a consideration of the general welfare of the department.

Mr. C. A. Fisher, who took his A. B. degree in '98, has just published a work on the "Geology and Water Resources of the Big Horn Basin, Wyoming." It has been received by Dean Bessey and is a very fine piece of work. The book contains a large number of very excellent pictures illustrative of the reading matter.
