CORNHUSKER BANQUET.

The Cornhusker Banquet which is to be given at the Lindell hotel on the evening of December 14, is worthy of the support of every man in the University. This function has now become one of the traditions of the University and it seems only just that at least one evening's entertainment should be given the football team in recognition of their services on the gridiron as well as a token of the gratitude and esteem of the student body.

The committee having this matter in charge has decided that inasmuch as the success of the affair depends primarily upon the general participation of the students, and secondarily upon the menu, the price of the banquet should be low enough to encourage a very large attendance. In for the University that the professional characteristics of the St. Louis team was not more generally known so that our team and University would not be placed in a false position at the present time. We could not hope to triumph over a team consisting for the most part of men old, both in years and in the number of years of participation in the game, and who further have all other essential earmarks of the so-called college professional.

It would be strange indeed if a team composed of young college men of from two to three year's experience on the gridiron should proceed to show up a bunch like the Cochem aggregation, whose experience in every department of the game is the result of many years play on the gridirons of different schools. Nebraska does not maintain that the better team did not win but we do insist that as far as the championship of college football in the Missouri Valley is concerned, the St. Louis game can not be considered.

The City Young Women's Christian Association and the University Association will hold their third combination mass meeting in the Lyric theater at three o'clock Sunday afternoon, December 8th. Dr. Turner, president of Hastings College, who is quite well known to Lincoln people, having appeared at the Second Presbyterian church several times, has been secured to give the address of the afternoon. Miss Pinder, of Grand Island, a violinist known throughout the state, will also add to the enjoyability of the service by rendering several selections. The chorus, under the leadership of Miss Vibbard, is doing excellent work, proving a great aid to the the past, some sixty or seventy men have attended the banquet, which number is entirely inadequate in view of the object. This year every effort will be made to have between two and three hundred of the men students of the University present to do honor to the Cornhuskers on the above date. See that you are present and also help the cause along by insisting upon some one else coming, for instance, some upper classman who has been in the University.

CHAMPIONS.

Nebraska closed the football season of 1907 at St. Louis Thanksgiving day in a very creditable manner in spite of the prevailing opinion to the contrary. Many people after having read the reports of the game were convinced that Nebraska did not play a good game on the closing occasion. This is, however, not the case. Nebraska played desperately and the reason for the adverse score is to be found in the fact that their opponents were for the most part professional athletes and can not be attributed to any fault of the Cornhusker eleven. It is unfortunate singing, and will be in evidence at every meeting.

So far the afternoon mass meetings have proven very successful. Dr. I. F. Roach addressed the first held November 24th, at which three hundred women were present, the theater being completely filled on the ground floor. The services on Sunday, December 1st, were in charge of Dr. Balsch of Trinity Methodist church, assisted by Mr. Van Camp, the soloist at the Scoville evangelistic meetings.

Owing to the Thanksgiving recess the usual large number of University students was not present at this meeting but the girls are urged to remember next Sunday's service, led, by Dr. Turner.

At a recent meeting of Company B a civil organization was formed with the following officers: President, W. E. Byerts; vice-president, C. M. Mitchell; secretary-treasurer, F. A. Jones. S. A. Mahood was elected chairman of the Company B Hop Committee, and F. A. Jones, master of ceremonies. The personnel of the Hop Committee will be announced later.
