TONIGHT.

Judging from reports of the advanced sale of tickets for the Iowa debate, the attendance will be fully as large as at any time in the past. There is no reason why Memorial Hall should not be packed to its fullest capacity. The program of the evening offers variety enough for all and has been arranged with the end in view of making the evening entirely enjoyable as well as instructive.

PUBLICITY.

The article below is quoted from the Washington State University Daily and struck the keynote of one of the greatest needs of this University, namely, a closer and more direct relationship with the high schools of the state. The article is in part as follows:

good by his own efforts. Every student should take it upon himself to advertise the University and try to induce high school graduates to attend this school in preference to any other. This unquestionably is a duty that every graduate or undergraduate owes his Alma Mater by reason of the very benefits he himself has enjoyed at her hands. This University must continue to grow both in numbers and importance and in order to accomplish this no stone should be left unturned either on the part of the University authorities or the student body. Spend a little time during the holidays in interesting high school students in this University. It will cost but little effort and may be doing both the University and the student an invaluable service. If every student now registered in the University should follow this suggestion the result would be appreciable at the next registration.

Carrol Kirk, star half-back on the University of Iowa football squad, was elected captain for 1908. Kirk's election comes as a fitting climax to a season of brilliant playing and insures to Iowa a leader for next year whom Iowans claim cannot be surpassed by any man in the west. He is also captain of the 1908 baseball team.

Swarthmore will probably refuse the legacy of $2,000,000 of the late Anna T James, which was given on conditions that all intercollegiate athletics be dropped. Pennsylvania refused a similar offer of $600,000 a few years ago which was given under the same conditions.

J. B. Davidson, M. E., '04, writes interestingly from Ames, Iowa, where he is professor of agricultural engineering work at the experiment station. He states with some pride that Margaret Elizabeth Davidson, a new-comer in his family, is rapidly learning to talk.

"There should be a systematic and well-planned campaign carried on all the time to get graduates from the state high schools to come here.

"Practically the only efforts along these lines that have ever been put forth are a few spasmodic attempts to advertise which graduates of the University have carried on. In the next two weeks information should be gathered and compiled and put in interesting pamphlets so that students who disperse to all parts of the state during the Christmas holidays can put these pamphlets into the hands of the largest number of high school people possible.

"A greater number of faculty members should be heard from the platforms of the state. At present this most valuable mode of extending knowledge concerning the University is confined to a very few persons and influence that might come through this means is unduly hampered."

The above remarks, while not wholly applicable to the situation at Nebraska, should nevertheless impress the student with the possibility of doing the University substantial

Dr. Bessey has received a letter from Dr. Pound, the former dean of the Nebraska Law School in which he comments on the program of the Sem. Bot. and declares that it looks like the palmy days of 1891-1897.

Carlos Bates, '07, is now in the Bureau of Forestry in Washington. He has recently discovered a new kind of hickory tree in Arkansas which grows with a very slight supply of water.

The orchestra has been enabled to guarantee the expenses of the Nebraska orchestra and expects to announce the date of the concert soon.—The Kansan.
