LOST NIGHT SHIRT

Janitor of Beta Theta Pi House at Wisconsin Receives Letter Asking Him to Return the Garment.

MADISON, WIS., January 8, (Special.)—"Janitor of Beta Theta Pi Fraternity, Madison, Wis.

Dear Sir—While in attendance at the educational meetings in your city last week, I occupied the southeast room on the second floor of the Beta house, where I left my pink night shirt when I hurriedly departed for home Saturday. My night gown bears the trade mark of a Lincoln clothing firm and will be easily recognized. I believe I left the gown hanging on the foot of the bed. Enclosed find thirty cents in stamps with which to send shirt to me.

Yours truly,

Lincoln, January 6, 1908."

The foregoing communication received at the Beta Theta Pi house this week from a professor at the University of Nebraska, who attended the meeting of the educators here last week, is similar to many that have come to Madison this week from professors asking for the return of lost articles and that have led Wisconsin students to believe that college professors are absent-minded. Sororities and fraternities opened their houses to the five hundred men of thought during the holidays so that the educators would be at little expense while here. When the Greek letter people returned to their homes Monday they found articles of all kinds that the educators had forgotten. There always has been a popular belief in the absentmindedness of college professors and the recent visit of the men of thought has only added strength to that belief.

The pink night shirt asked for by the Nebraska professor had not been discovered at the Beta house when this article was written. The "janitor" of the Betas, however, declares he will find the garment if it is in the house and will see that it is returned to the gentleman from the Cornhusker state. The "janitor," when asked if he remembered the Nebraska professor who occupied the southeast room where the night gown was lost, said he could not remember how the educator looked but felt sure that he wore black pants.

The number of forgotten nightcaps, razor strops, shaving mugs, pajamas, hair tonic bottles, dumb bells, and shoulder braces increases every day. Letters are being received daily from members of faculties of universities in all parts of the country, asking for forgotten articles.

A prominent sorority on Sterling Court reports the addition of shaving soap and a razor strop which were left by the absent-minded men. Phi Delta Theta announces that a pair of stockings of great original value was left in the house and Alpha Tau Omega has a night cap and a razor strop. The Betas are prizing two elegant razors which they have added to their assets.

A gorgeously frilled nightgown from the domain of Columbia University was found stuffed under a freshman's pillow at the Phi Kappa Psi house, and the fraternity is receiving numerous requests for other apparel.

COMMITTS SUICIDE.

Captain of 1908 Kansas Football Team Jumps to Death.

Urban Angney, captain of next fall's football team, and an all around star athlete of Kansas University, committed suicide at Lawrence yesterday by jumping from the dome of Fraser hall at the university grounds. Angney left the following note on the window sill from which he jumped:

"Dear Jesus: My life is passed. My pleasure is gone. No pleasure for me. You can know the reason. I was called for what I owe. If I only had done it sooner. Do not hold me responsible. Good-bye. May you all live happy."

Urban R. Angney was quarterback on the football team the last two seasons and on December 5, 1907, was chosen to captain the 1908 Jayhawker eleven. He was recognized as the best player Kansas had had since 1897. He weighed 148 pounds and was a clever dodger in an open field.

Owing to injuries received the Saturday before in the Washburn-Kansas game, Angney did not play all of the Nebraska-Kansas game last fall, but was put in during the last five minutes of play and did good work. The students at Kansas had figured on Angney's leading their eleven to many victories next fall and his suicide has cast much gloom over the Jayhawker school.

Angney was twenty-one years of age and lived at Wellington, Sumner county, Kansas. He was one of the best all around athletes in the Jayhawker school. He carried three football "K's" and one "K" in each baseball, lacrosse and basket-ball. He would have received his A. B. at Kansas in June, but was intending to return to school next fall to captain the Jayhawkers.

After the show or party just drop into the Boston Lunch for a sandwich and a cup of coffee or an oyster stew.

JUNIORS MEET.

Hold Important Business Meeting in Memorial Hall.

Yesterday the Junior class held a short meeting to decide the question of wearing class hats. Sentiment seemed to favor the wearing of hats rather than caps, but strong objection was made to the gaudy colors that the class had adopted for the caps of last year. Consequently, on the recommendation of the hat committee, the class decided to change their colors to the more quiet and stylish combination of brown and old gold. It was thought that in making this change in the class colors many Juniors would wear hats who would not be seen with a bright red hat on their heads.

The matter of the indebtedness of the class was discussed and a committee appointed to investigate all bills against the class and make a definite report regarding class finances at the next meeting.

The Junior Prom Committee reported to the class that arrangements had been made to hold the Prom February 21 at the Lincoln Hotel, and that owing to increased expenses of music, etc., the price of tickets would be $2.00 instead of $2.50, which has been the price in previous years.

Astronomy.

There will be two courses open for beginners the second semester. Course 5 consisting of lectures and readings, gives two hours credit; 4a, primarily for beginners, is a one hour course.

By special request Dr. Lowry, president of the Nebraska Art Association, will give a talk on the pictures of this exhibition at the exhibit room in the Library building, Friday evening, January 10.

The observatory will be open Monday and Tuesday from 1:30 to 2:30 for a view of the sun's spectrum.

WHERE TO PLAY

MANAGER EAGER IN QUANDARY ABOUT THANKSGIVING GAME.

Several Schools, Including Wabash, Colorado, and Creighton Want to Play the Strong Cornhuskers.

Shall Nebraska schedule a game for next Thanksgiving with Wabash, Colorado or Creighton, or shall some other school be taken?

Shall the next Thanksgiving game be played in Lincoln, or in some other city?

These are the questions that are perplexing Manager Eager in arranging a Cornhusker football schedule for next fall. Several schools have written Mr. Eager, asking for a game on Turkey day, but he cannot decide what school to play or to have the next game here or some other place. He has two or three good offers in other cities, but the demand from some Lincoln people for a home game next year makes him hesitate about accepting.

Manager Eager is pretty well convinced that any of the several games he can arrange in other cities for Thanksgiving would be a better proposition financially for Nebraska than a contest here. Students have not been turning out well at the Lincoln games during the last few years and this taken with the fact that the athletic treasury of Nebraska needs money makes Mr. Eager look with considerable favor upon offers for an out-of-town game next Thanksgiving.

Three of the propositions for a Thanksgiving game with Nebraska that are receiving Manager Eager's attention are from Wabash, Colorado, and Creighton universities.

The Wabash eleven would be willing by next fall to come to Lincoln, and the fact that they defeated St. Louis this year would make them a drawing card for Thanksgiving. The Indians "look good" to the Cornhuskers and are a possibility for Thanksgiving.

From Colorado comes an offer for a game at Denver on Thanksgiving day. The mountaineers are clamoring to get the Cornhuskers out there on that day and will give Manager Eager a good proposition. The metropolis of Colorado is recognized as a live city and Eager would like to send Nebraska's stars there next fall.

Several people have been surprised when Mr. Eager has informed them that Nebraska might play Creighton at Omaha Thanksgiving. But the little manager of the Cornhusker athletics has always showed them why it would be a good thing.

"Creighton," he says, "will give us a big guarantee and Omaha will turn out a large crowd so that it will be a good thing for us financially. Then, it will help pacify those Omaha newspapers that always are attacking us for not giving the Metropolis a big game. Creighton would not give us a hard game, but after a stiff row of games such as we had this year an
