ANOTHER COLLEGE

BOARD OF REGENTS CREATES A COLLEGE OF EDUCATION.

Dr. Chas. E. Fordyce, Dean of Arts and Sciences at Wesleyan, Chosen Dean—Career and Character.

At the meeting of the Board of Regents held last Friday another college was created, to be called the college of education. Dr. Chas. E. Fordyce, at present dean of the college of liberal arts and sciences at Wesleyan University, was chosen as dean of the new college.

Dr. Fordyce was raised in Illinois and attended the public schools of that state. In 1882 he graduated from the Illinois State Normal University and later attended De Pauw University and the University of Chicago. It is of particular interest to "Nebraska" students to know that Dr. Fordyce took both his master's and his doctor's degrees at this university.

That both the education and experience of Dr. Fordyce fit him for the position he is to take is attested by the fact that before accepting the chair of pedagogy at Wesleyan, he taught for six years in the public schools of Auburn, Nebraska, and thus knows the problems of educational work in Nebraska from the ground up. He built up the strong department of education at Wesleyan and was then made dean of the college of liberal arts and sciences, which position he has held for the past ten years.

Dr. Fordyce has done considerable research work in the biological sciences. He is a member of the Nebraska Academy of Science, the Western Philosophic Society, the Sigma Xi, and the American Microscopic Society. In 1899, Dr. Fordyce was president of the Nebraska Teachers' Association.

Dr. Fordyce is particularly well known throughout Nebraska for his lectures on educational topics, at Chautauquas and conventions. It is the unanimous opinion wherever he has lectured that whatever he has to say is worth hearing, and that he says it in a lucid, forcible manner, with the cultured elegance of a scholar and the earnest, unpretentiousness of one whose whole soul is in his work.

PUBLISH REPORTS

FINANCES OF CLASS DANCES TO BE PUBLISHED

Professor Barber States Method of Checking Accounts—Defends the Past Chairmen.

To the Editor of The Nebraskan:

In a recent issue you ask why the financial reports of students' functions are no longer published in the Nebraskan. As a general rule they never have been published. Those that have appeared have been furnished voluntarily by the chairmen of the functions and not by the faculty committee on students' organizations. I entirely agree with you that such publication, bearing the o. k. of the faculty committee would be very desirable both for the information of the student body and for the protection of the chairmen.

The Regents require that students in charge of functions for which money is collected shall report to the faculty committee on students' organizations. The method of procedure is as follows: The doorkeeper reports the number of paid tickets taken up and their price, and the amount of cash paid at the door by those who came unprovided with tickets. The chairman of the function likewise reports the amount of money he receives, furnishes vouchers for all monies paid out, and finally presents a receipt from the class treasurer for the balance turned over to him—if there is any. All important functions except military and athletic, which are reported to other committees, have been thus audited for the past two years. Under this system graft is not easy and publicity is all it lacks to convince students that their money has been properly accounted for.

The readiness with which those in charge of functions have conformed to the Regents' requirement has been most gratifying to the committee. Not an instance of reluctance to report has occurred since the undersigned has been chairman.

GROVE E. BARBER,
Chairman of Committee on Students' Organizations.

The above letter was written after consultation with the Chancellor, who agreed that the publication of the reports of student functions would be a good thing.

There has been an unusual amount of talk lately about the grafts worked by the chairmen of some of the hops and it is thought that a published statement of finances will silence criticism often started by mere rumor. This is in accordance with the same principle under which candidates for office file bills of expense for public inspection.

Much credit is due to the present chairman of the Committee on Students' Organizations for the system of faculty supervision of finances now in force. This committee has existed for a long time, but it paid little attention
