Entered at the postoffice at Lincoln, Nebraska, as second-class mail matter under the Act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

"A Ride on the Water Wagon" was the subject of a recent lecture before the Y. M. C. A. of this city. This is a live subject, but the lecture was delivered to the wrong audience. Such talks would be more effective in the senate.

The Board of Regents have decided that "sneaking" is a bad thing. They have no objections to the holiday, but to call it "sneak day" is extremely objectionable, in their opinion. The lawlessness of this annual occasion has never caused a revolt among undergraduates, although it undoubtedly has some influence that way. The alumni of this institution will be glad to learn that their unruly pranks have been the cause of granting to the

which he may help, but there are only a limited number to which he may devote enough time and energy to make the effort worth while. An undertaking which receives but occasional attention is usually nothing more than a diversion and a college life with no central purpose becomes all diversion.

Russell Henry Chittenden, who will address the Sigma Xi Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock at the Temple, is one of the eminent physiological chemists in America. The fifty-two years of his life have been rich in achievement. In order to indicate the more prominent honors of which he has been the recipient it is sufficient to mention his graduation from Yale with a Ph. B. in 1875 and as a Ph. D. in 1880. He received an L.L. D. from the University of Toronto in 1903 and an Sc. D. from the University of Pennsylvania in 1904. He studied in Heidelberg in 1878-1879. Since 1882 he has been professor of physiological chemistry at Yale. During 1890-1903 he served as lecturer of physiological chemistry at Columbia. Professor Chittenden has held the presidency of the American Society of Naturalists and of the American Physiological Society and is a member of the National Academy of Sciences and of the American Philosophical Society. He is a voluminous writer; his best known work being the "Physiological Economy in Nutrition." Since 1898 he has been director of the Sheffield School at Yale.

It has been rumored that all the old maids, especially those connected with the University, are to hold a convention in the near future in the Temple building. The object of this meeting has not yet come to light, but it being leap year, it may be guessed. It is

Senior class one more needed opportunity of getting acquainted and developing that "good old college spirit."

If a test of patience is a part of one's education, then the Library has an additional claim of being the greatest influence in college life. No wonder students visit and revisit this shrine. They are in search of books that are always out.

Some enterprising genealogist thinks he has discovered that George Washington was a descendant of Edward the First. Its too bad that the Father of Our Country didn't know this. To have known that he had blood in his veins traceable to "Edward Longhanks" would have been a great support to him in time of need. Blood goes a long way and the farther it goes the thinner it gets and the more chance a man has to accomplish something on his own account.

How many things are you trying to do all at once? The average student is over-conscientious; he tries to do too much to do it well. There are any number of worthy enterprises in thought that they will make strenuous efforts to locate all the old bachelors for whom they will proceed to cast their nets and that active steps are to be taken in this direction, especially during the convention. But this is only a rumor.

Mr. A. J. Heskitt, '10, is visiting in the city for a short time. He has been traveling for the Redpath Lyceum Bureau of Chicago and is "making good." His engagement to Miss Beatrice Eves, physical director of the Scranton (Penn.) Y. W. C. A., and formerly of the Lincoln Y. W. C. A., was announced last fall.

Yale officials have refused the use of the university dining hall for the Lincoln Day banquet at which Secretary Taft is to speak. Secretary Stokes said Yale could not do anything that would look like taking sides in a political contest.

W. B. Sadilek of Wilber has announced that he will be a candidate for Freshman president. Mr. Sadilek is well and favorably known among his classmates and will undoubtedly make a strong showing.

The Harvard Medical School

With the completion of the new buildings, which were dedicated September 25th, 1906, this school now has facilities and equipment for teaching and research in the various branches of medicine probably unequaled in this country. Of the five buildings, four are devoted entirely to laboratory teaching and research. Numerous hospitals afford abundant opportunities for clinical instruction in medicine and surgery.

COURSE FOR THE DEGREE OF M. D.

A four years' course, open to bachelors of arts, literature, philosophy or science, and to persons of equivalent standing, leads to the degree of M. D. The studies of the fourth year are wholly elective; they include laboratory subjects, general medicine, general surgery and the special clinical branches.

The next school year extends from October 1, 1908, to June 24, 1909. The diploma of University of Nebraska is accepted for admission. For detailed announcement and catalogue, address
