PUBLISH REPORTS.

to the details, trusting to the honesty of the students who had charge of these affairs. Under the present system there is little room for graft unless a student is crooked enough to forge vouchers or do something equally difficult to detect. The publication of these reports will protect the chairman and give the student body an idea of how such things are managed.

sonality, winning in its earnestness and geniality, and his energy and ambition will undoubtedly make the college of education a strong addition to our university. Dean Fordyce will leave immediately on a trip to the leading educational schools of the East, returning in time to publish the curriculum of the college of education in the university catalogue for 1908-9 and open the department next fall.

President Henry Jesse of the University of Missouri has resigned on account of poor health and Dr. Albert Ross Hill takes the presidency of that institution. President Jesse will receive a pension the rest of his life from the Carnegie fund.
