Peace.

The exercises in chapel today are significant not only because they are the first of the kind ever held at this University, but because they mark the beginnings of a great movement among the educational institutions of the country for the promotion of sentiment in favor of international conciliation. Many of the most prominent educators of the country are taking active interest in this work. Lyman Abbott, Nicholas Murray Butler, Joseph H. Choate, Seth Low, David Starr Jordan, James Ford Rhodes, A. D. White, and W. J. Bryan are among portunity like this comes, not only to hear our distinguished citizen, but to contribute in however small a way to the peace movement, we do it with the utmost willingness. It is predicted that by three minutes after eleven there will not be standing room left in the chapel.

The Cornell Daily Sun urges the establishment of a chapter of Tau Beta Pi at Cornell. Although the institution at Ithaca has come to rank as one of the foremost technical schools in the country no chapter of the honorary engineering fraternity has found a place there.

Yale officials refused the use of the university dining hall for the Lincoln Day banquet at which Secretary Taft was to speak, on the ground that the university could not do anything that would look like taking sides in a political contest.

In the event that the basketball championship remains unsettled at the end of the regular schedule, it is practically assured that Chicago and Wisconsin will arrange a game to play off the tie. After this, the victorious team will accept the challenge of Pennsylvania to play for the championship of the United States.

A new scheme for the elimination of roughness from the game of basketball has been proposed by Coach Jamison of Purdue. It consists in having a starter who is to do nothing but toss up the ball, and then follow all the plays with the ball, leaving the referee to oversee the game from the side lines, so that he may be in a position to see all of the roughness.

Iowa is to have a new $125,000 law building. Work will be started this spring.

When a movement like this reaches the University and the opportunity is given for the students to get food for reflection on so wide reaching a question, all ought to turn out and help the good work along. Undoubtedly the students will go to chapel, for Mr. Bryan, who will be the principal speaker today, never fails to get an audience among the Nebraska students. The subject on which he is to speak is "Arbitration vs. Force."

Those of us who prefer hearing Mr. Bryan on political subjects will take special interest in hearing him on a subject in which we can probably agree with all he has to say. This subject of international arbitration is one on which sentiment is all one way. The only trouble is that there isn't enough sentiment. Americans have come to think that such a thing as world peace is an object too far removed to deserve much more than passing support. The evils of war to the great majority of young people nowadays are scarcely more than as read of or photographed in the popular magazines. And so when an op-

Dramatic Club Productions.

Members of the Dramatic Club gave "Gringoire" last Saturday afternoon in the club room at the Temple. Only members of the club were invited, of which quite a number were present. The play was a success in every detail and was enjoyed by the audience. "Gringoire" is a charming one-act comedy dealing with French royal life of the Fifteenth century, and sparkles with wit, humor and exceedingly romantic love scenes between a rich merchant's daughter and a common ballad monger.

Next Wednesday afternoon the play will be repeated before the Faculty Woman's Club, and on March 21 it will be given in the Temple theater to the public. On the latter date other plays will be rendered by the Dramatic Club and the attention of the student body is called to these high class amateur theatricals. Patronize home talent. Remember the date, March 21.

That the state of Washington could make use of the services of 10,000 school teachers is the theory of the State Association of School Directors.

The Harvard Medical School

With the completion of the new buildings, which were dedicated September 25th, 1906, this school now has facilities and equipment for teaching and research in the various branches of medicine probably unequalled in this country. Of the five buildings, four are devoted entirely to laboratory teaching and research. Numerous hospitals afford abundant opportunities for clinical instruction in medicine and surgery.

COURSE FOR THE DEGREE OF M. D.

A four years' course, open to bachelors of arts, literature, philosophy or science, and to persons of equivalent standing, leads to the degree of M. D. The studies of the fourth year are wholly elective; they include laboratory subjects, general medicine, general surgery and the special clinical branches.

The next school year extends from October 1, 1908, to June 24, 1909. The diploma of University of Nebraska is accepted for admission. For detailed announcement and catalogue, address
