ELOCUTION WORK.

Many Special Programs Given by the Department.

The Wednesday programs offered by the Elocution department are attracting considerable commendation. Yesterday the combined divisions of Rhetoric 36 were entertained by a program under the leadership of Miss Fisher. The program was as follows: "Not at Home".....Miss Ada Morgan "Gwalberto's Victory".....
Miss Jessie Doyle
 "Aux Italien".....Miss Rachel Karns
 "For a' That".....John Ketrledge
 "Amelia Blenkins".....Miss Gilmartin
 Scene from "The Rivals".....Misses Denny, Barstow, and Mr. Phelps

In the public speaking department a special meeting of the president's cabinet was offered, with Mr. Hare presiding as the president.

Next week Rhetoric 36 offers Mr. G. Bernard Shaw's "Man of Destiny," and the class in public speaking will impersonate a banquet of scientists. The public is cordially invited to these special programs.

EXCHANGES.

The question as to whether the senior classes of the several colleges are to leave a joint memorial, or whether each class is to contribute one, as in the past, is causing considerable agitation at the University of Michigan.

At the Massachusetts Institute of Technology a change has been made in the course of naval engineering. Only one year of modern languages is required instead of two, in order to permit more time for professional study and the selection of an optional subject.

Mohan Sing, a Hindu, was refused admission to the University of Chicago a few days ago because he could not speak English. He had run away from home and traveled ten thousand miles to enter the Midway institution.

After the Matinee—Dalrymple's.

It is interesting to note the number of the recent successful students in the Rhodes scholarship examinations who come from small colleges. Of one school is this especially noticeable. St. Ignatius College, at Kankakee, was represented by five men out of the eleven who passed the examinations. The others were scattering.

The Cornell-Columbia-Pennsylvania debating league has taken definite steps to prevent women from entering college debating. Cornell chose a woman rebater recently, and the choice was protested by the other colleges. The Ithacans finally agreed not to let women try for the debating teams for five years.

Are the New Creation
 For Young Men

We were showing a young fellow one of our spring suits yesterday and he put on the coat and saw himself as others see him in the mirror. The first thing he said was

"It's a Bird"

He went out with a smile of satisfaction on his face and the "Bird" under his arm. Our suits for young men this spring from $20 to $30, or any price you want to pay certainly eclipse anything we've ever seen in suit making.

Come and see the "Bird."
