Entered at the postoffice at Lincoln, Nebraska, as second-class mail matter under the Act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

Last evening's Star contained a statement to the effect that the students of the University can vote if they desire to do so.

They can vote in the coming election only in cases where they are not dependent upon others for support and are not merely attending the University for the purpose of obtaining an education. How many such students are there in the University of Nebraska? Not to exceed ten per cent of the student body. Then deduct the number that are otherwise disqualified and how many voters have you? The Civic League and the

for the recent financial panic and the next day says they are not; the currency question is one on which even the members of Congress have not yet formed their opinions. About the only issue seems to be on the question of centralization vs. state rights. This is a question on which students of history ought to have an opinion.

A prominent student of the University recently made the remark that he intended to go to some other school next year in order to avoid the many affiliations which he had formed at Nebraska and which took all his time in school. His sentiments express what is to many a serious question while in college. How much ought a student to mix? There are those who say immediately that he ought to take part in all the school interest that he has an opportunity to participate in. The trouble is that he will have too many opportunities. A man is in school primarily to get an education in the broad sense of the word. He can never get it unless he holds studies first.

And yet where would a student spend his spare time, for he ought to have spare time, if he had no such affiliations? He would probably waste it instead of using it to the best advantage by having it allotted to certain definite outside work. There is a point at which a student does not get out of his "interests" all that he puts in them. This is reached when the balance of his time is devoted to rustling for the Alfalfa club instead of learning something about the raising of the plant. We are all glad to attend all the functions that we can and belong to all the clubs and organizations that we can but there is a limit to mortal strength expressed in that word "can."

The Harvard Medical School

With the completion of the new buildings, which were dedicated September 25th, 1906, this school now has facilities and equipment for teaching and research in the various branches of medicine probably unequalled in this country. Of the five buildings, four are devoted entirely to laboratory teaching and research. Numerous hospitals afford abundant opportunities for clinical instruction in medicine and surgery.

COURSE FOR THE DEGREE OF M. D.

A four years' course, open to bachelors of arts, literature, philosophy or science, and to persons of equivalent standing, leads to the degree of M. D. The studies of the fourth year are wholly elective; they include laboratory subjects, general medicine, general surgery and the special clinical branches.

The next school year extends from October 1, 1908, to June 24, 1909. The diploma of University of Nebraska is accepted for admission. For detailed announcement and catalogue, address

NEW POSTAL RULING.

By a recent order of the Postmaster General, no daily newspaper is allowed to send copies to subscribers who are three months or more in arrears. There are a few of the subscribers to the Daily Nebraskan who are in arrears to that extent and unless payment is made in the near future the subscriptions will be stopped. We trust that this will not be necessary and that the circulation of this paper may not need to be reduced by the oversight of some of our friends. If your subscription is unpaid, kindly mail a money order or draft to the manager as soon as convenient. This order goes into effect April 15.

prohibition cause in Lincoln ought to want only legal votes, yet such organizations for a good cause are wont to leave the question unsettled so that "students can settle the matter for themselves."

To construe the case of the Wesleyan students to mean that students in general have a legal right to vote if they merely express their desire to change their residence to Lincoln is the very worst sort of pettyfogging. There is no matter of intention in the case. A man's personal desire to cast his vote for prohibition in Lincoln gives him no legal right to vote and the representatives of the Civic League have plainly, if not intentionally, withheld an adverse opinion in the matter in the hopes that students would be carried by their enthusiasm into voting.

What are the national issues for the next campaign? The Nebraska Democratic platform and the Ohio Republican platform contain almost the same words on the tariff question, Mr. Bryan makes the statement one day that the Republicans are to blame

Louis Lightner, Law, '03, visited the University yesterday. Lightner is a successful lawyer at Columbus, Neb., where he is in partnership with former Chief Justice Sullivan of the Supreme Court. In the University Lightner made a lasting reputation as a debater by his work in the Monroe Doctrine fight with Kansas in 1904. He was Democratic nominee for University Regent three years ago.

Mr. Ray G. Steele, 1909 forestry, has just been appointed to the position of forest guard at a salary of $100 per month. He is at work in the national forests of Nevada and reports for duty in Nevada April 15. Mr. Steele has had considerable experience in riding the range, which, with his technical forestry training should make him a valuable man for the United States forest service.
