DRAMATIC CLUB

TO PLAY "WELCOME," SATURDAY AFTERNOON AND EVENING.

Third Play of the Season to Be Rendered in the Temple By Strong Cast—Steckleberg's Orchestra.

The Dramatic Club will present the second large play produced this season by its members.

It is an old French play which has been re-christened "Welcome" and re-written by Miss Ruth Bailey, who has also coached the play to its successful completion. Miss Bailey is one of the first members of the club and has been a popular coach for the high school and University plays for a number of years. She, with her cast, has expended much time and effort to perfect this comedy in every detail.

The scene is laid in a Wyoming town and in the old home of Lady Endicott who was formerly Louise Looker. Peter Franklin, an old friend of Lady Endicott, comes to visit at the home. The whole plot hinges on a letter written by Lady Endicott to Peter Franklin, and hidden in a statue three years before this visit. There is an effort to secure the letter by Lady Endicott. Franklin also endeavors to obtain it. Welcome Pierce does all in her power to assist Lady Endicott in her endeavors to secure it.

There are two romantic situations which are rendered most interesting by the eccentric Miss Ellen, admirably impersonated by Miss Neva Hibner, who is always present with her, "Oh, I know you are going to say something shocking."

The cast is composed of strong and talented members of the club. Miss Margaret Guthrie has the title role and is therefore welcome. Miss Kathleen Linderman will represent Lady Endicott, while the Misses Mabel Snyder, Ada Morgan and Esther Bailey are respectively Matilda Locke, Mrs. Taylor and Pauline. Mr. A. E. Hibner, who, as well as Miss Hibner, is a recent addition to the membership of the club, in his interpretation of Lord Endicott is the realization of the typical Englishman.

I. P. Hewitt, who will impersonate Peter Franklin, and F. W. Bellamy, now Mr. Bilmore, will be remembered as the men who assisted in making the football play, put on at the Oliver Theater a few years ago, so successful. H. P. Letton and R. A. Van Orsdale will lend their assistance as Tony and Thomas, respectively.

The staging and scenic effects to be used will be better and more picturesque than on any previous occasion. There will be some electrical effects that are new and impressive.

Another feature not to be overlooked is the music which Mr. Steckleberg's orchestra is to furnish. This orchestra is one of the best and is well known to Lincoln audiences for the fine quality and the exquisite rendering of its music.

Pies like mother tried to make. Baked fresh twice a day by an expert woman pie baker, at The Boston Lunch.

UNIVERSITY GLEE CLUB.

Miss Adah Castor Will Sing at Home Concert.

The Glee Club sang Tuesday night at Kearney and again last night at St. Paul. These two dates were scheduled for the purpose of giving a final rehearsal to the program which the club will put on for the home concert at the Oliver next Friday afternoon and evening.

Miss Adah Castor, who is to give part of the program assisted by the club, met the boys at Kearney. Miss Castor is remembered in Lincoln as a local singer with a marvelously beautiful natural light dramatic soprano voice. After a year's residence study in New York with Herman Klein, Miss Castor moved to Denver and for the past year has adopted a professional musical career, and has created the greatest enthusiasm wherever she appeared. Miss Castor's appearance next Friday night at the Oliver will be her first appearance in Lincoln since she left here three years ago.

"Crip" Kimmel, the veteran comedian of the club will have charge of the funny part again and has worked out a new and very clever farce on Uncle Tom's Cabin. Ed Johnston will not appear with the club, but "Crip" Kimmel announces that he has discovered two new stars in John Agee as Uncle Tom and "Hungry" Holland as Little Eva.

The trip is reported as a success financially.

Professor Howard Speaks.

Last Friday evening Professor Howard delivered a lecture to one of the societies of Peru normal college, of which he was once president. The minutes of the meeting when Professor Howard was elected was read in honor of the speaker.

Water polo is to be among the athletic sports at the University of Illinois.

COMMENCEMENT.

Graduation Exercises at the Farm Tomorrow.

The School of Agriculture will hold its annual commencement exercises tomorrow. At 1:30 p. m., competitive drill will take place, after which Commandant Workizer will present the first and second best in the individual drill with appropriate trophies. At the end of drill all will assemble in Agricultural Hall and listen to a number of addresses.

K. A. Marsh, senior, and Otto H. Lubbers, junior, will give farewell greetings to seniors. Ed. Vanderberg will speak on behalf of the commissioned officers. Professor A. E. Davisson, president of the Agricultural College, and A. G. Haecker, professor in dairy husbandry, will make the principal addresses.

At seven p. m., the senior class will hold a banquet at the Lindell hotel, which will be attended by the faculty, students and alumni.

Signs of Spring.

Friends of Merrill Burbank and Edith M. Sanborn were surprised to learn of their wedding Monday afternoon. Both were freshmen, and their home is in Omaha. Mr. Burbank is a member of Alpha Tau Omega. The young couple do not expect to remain in school.

Another well known student who was just married is "Dick" Hunter, Sigma Alpha Epsilon. Mr. Hunter was married yesterday afternoon to a Miss Taylor of Lincoln. He will continue his work for the rest of the year at least.

Principal Waterhouse, formerly of the Lincoln high school, but now of Omaha, has been appointed head of the Fremont schools.

GEOLOGY TRIP

TRIP TAKEN TO PLATTE VALLEY DURING VACATION.

Number of Students Under Dr. Condra Spent Three Days Studying Along Salt Creek and Platte Valley.

Fifty-four students spent three days of vacation on a trip to the Lower Platte River, leaving Lincoln over the B. & M., at 7:15 Thursday morning and returning at 5:35 Saturday evening.

The entire trip was very carefully planned and organized. An outline was furnished to each student and definite observations and descriptions were required. The party was separated into four squads under the leadership respectively of Schram, Perrin, Keyser, and Dr. Condra, who had also the general supervision of the trip. Professors Barbour, Tuckerman and Hack accompanied the party during the first day.

The first day, having studied the Salt Creek valley from Lincoln to Ashland from the train, the party at once divided into squads and studied the formations southwest of town. From there, the walking was down the railroad with side trips into the ravine where rock beds were correlated with those at Ashland. The sixty-four-foot bluff of Dakota Sandstone at the mouth of Salt Creek was studied and the travelers refreshed themselves at one of the springs where the water from the porous sandstone seeps out. On reaching the impervious beds below on toward South Bend prominent ledges were studied and the Murphy quarry visited. This is one of the largest in the state, working an eleven foot ledge of limestone and crushing it for concrete work.

Upon arriving at South Bend the baggage, some thirty bundles was secured at the depot, and camp was made east of town near the river. Each squad had its own tent and did its own cooking. The rambles of the day, some fifteen miles or more, had prepared the men for supper. After supper, a large camp fire was built, roll was called and Dr. Condra made a general quiz on the day's work, giving directions for the proper form of field notes. Then followed speeches by several men of the party, who have traveled in foreign countries. Mr. Thomas told of Mexico and life there, Mr. Tuckerman of the Alps, Mr. Heck of the Southland. The enjoyment of the camp fire was dampened then by rainfall, so all betook themselves to the tents.

After breakfast Friday morning the men crossed the river and traced the rock formation to the State Fish Hatcheries, then coming back opposite South Bend, walked down the valley along the hills to Meadow. On that part of the trip they studied several abandoned quarries, clay pits and sand dredges.

Crossing the river to Louisville camp was made, supper eaten and the camp-fire quiz convened. Some of the business men of Louisville were interested visitors here. Talks by Condra, Schram, Perrin and Beechley, men who have worked on the U. S. survey were next in order.

Saturday morning the party visited
