1908 CORNHUSKER

ANNUAL JUNIOR-SENIOR BOOK
READY ON MAY 15.

Much Time, Labor and Money Has
Been Spent to Make This the Best
Annual Ever Published Here.

The "Cornhusker," the annual Junior-Senior book, will be out on May 15. The book this year is better than ever before, both in quantity and placed on sale. The book is to con-quality. Nine hundred copies will be tain 425 pages; will be bound in flex-ible, silk-lined, black leather, and the paper will be of a cream tint with dark brown ink.

The "Cornhusker" for 1908 will con-tain the most complete history ever attempted of the University of Ne-braska, together with the finest quality of views ever printed in a Nebraska annual. The book will be divided ap-proximately as follows:

36 pages—History and Introduction.
100 pages—Junior and Senior photos and write-ups.
50 pages—Athletic Section.
20 pages—Military Department.
10 pages—Literary Department.
120 pages—Organizations and Fra-ternities.

65 pages—"Josh" Department.
20 pages—Advertisements.

The complete publication will cost $3,500 and nothing has been neglected in time or money to make this the most complete as well as the finest college annual ever published in the Middle West. Dr. Ward, Dr. Bessey, and Miss Pound all say that this year's "Cornhusker" is to be the finest "Ne-braska" annual ever published.

The staff for this year's "Cornhusker" is as follows:

Arthur Jorgensen, '08, Editor-in-Chief.

Hubert O. Bell, '09, Business Man-ager.

M. E. Cornelius, Law '09.

R. C. Christie, Medical '09.

Y. M. C. A.

By carrying on a tag contest yester-day the Y. M. C. A. collected $220. The plan was to tackle every man for a dollar who did not have a tag. Thirty-five men took part in the work, two of which collected $27 apiece. The amount collected will be used to pay current expenses, the furnishings debt and probably make some improve-ments in the rooms. At any rate, the Association is now on a good sound financial basis.

WIN 1907 PENNANT.

Kappa Sigs Defeat Sigma Chi in 1 to 0 Game.

Yesterday afternoon the final game for the 1907 interfraternity baseball pennant was pulled off. This was probably the most interesting and ex-citing contest of the series. It was a no hit game and very few errors were made.

Kappa Sigs.	Sigma Chi
Stutgeneggers... c.	McAllister
Beltzer..... p.	Hetzel
Hawks..... 1b.	Holland
Dudgeon..... 2b.	Le Roy
Clark..... 3b.	Douglas

INTERESTING MEETING.

Co-operation of Faculty and Students in Association Work.

Last night at the Y. M. C. A. Wed-nesday evening meeting, Professor Barber gave a very interesting talk to a small but very appreciative crowd.

"The faculty has grown away from the work," he said, "not through de-sire, but being instructors, their time was well taken up, and also due to the fact that the Y. M. C. A. had per-mitted them to drift away." He hoped that the Y. M. C. A. and the Y. W. C. A. would take an aggressive stand against the dishonesty in the class room, and, in fact, to all phases of University life. That they them-selves would not cheat, but would dis-close any one that did. His plan was to take the stand as a body and not individuals and fight this dishonesty that was cheapening the diploma of the hard-working, conscientious stu-dent; fight it in co-operation with the faculty.

He urged that, as picked men em-bodied with the Christian spirit, we should take the initiative in the fight to overcome evil; that it was the duty of a Christian to "butt in" at every opportunity and to stand against the evil that was destroying the best in the University.

"As picked men," he said, "acting as a unit, your stand will overcome any evil that you go against in the Uni-versity. Act and secure the co-opera-tion of the faculty and the boozing and general carousing in this Univer-sity will come to a speedy end."

Next Wednesday evening all stu-dents are urged to come out to hear Mr. Frank Ober, International Secre-tary of the Y. M. C. A. The committee in charge are planning on at least 100 men to hear Ober's address.

Mr. Von Forell reported that of the thirty-five men engaged in the sollicit-ing of funds yesterday, twenty-five had reported $218. It is thought that when the reports are all in over $300 will have been subscribed.

IVY DAY PLANS

COLLECTION OF DUES FROM THE CLASSES PROCEEDS RAPIDLY.

Each Upperclassman Pays Twenty-five Cents, Lowerclassmen Fifteen—
Class Programs and Athletics.

The collection of dues for Ivy Day from members of the four classes is now well under way and will be cleared up within the next few days. Each member of the two upper classes is expected to pay twenty-five cents and every lowerclassman fifteen cents. From this money every one paying the assessment will be given lunch at the State Farm on the evening of the thirteenth. Tickets will be issued later to those meeting their obligations and it should be strictly understood that the possession of these will be insisted upon so far as the "feed" goes. Fur-thermore, the success of the whole en-terprise rests upon a hearty response to this call. A number of plans for the day's program will involve no small outlay.

Over $35 has been collected in the Senior class and nearly half as much among the Juniors. The two lower class committees, though having been organized only within the past few days, have done excellent work and ex-pect to cover their entire member-ship, numbering eight hundred, by the middle of next week.

The other two features in which all four classes have interest are the interclass track meet, to take place at two-thirty at the State Farm, and the ten-minute class programs. On the latter the special committees are now at work; and the various class managers will get busy on the former at once. Every man who has any ability along this line should feel, too, that he owes it to the success of the day and to the fostering of spring ath-letics in the school, as well as to him-self to get out and participate in these exercises. Trophies will be given for first place, probably medals, and second and third places; also for the best all-around athlete and a cup may be awarded to the class whose team carries off the most points.

The exercises in the evening should be particularly enjoyable, not only from their own excellence, but also because of the surroundings. The grove at the State Farm will be lighted with numerous strings of electric bulbs or incandescent arcs, and be-sides, according to the almanac, on the evening of the thirteenth the moon is to be shining!

On Saturday evening, May 2, a joint party of Palladians and Unions will be held at the State Farm in the assem-bly room of the Agricultural Hall. Preparations are being made for a "swell" affair. Watch the bulletin boards of the societies for announce-ment in regard to special car.

Notice.

Freshman Ivy Day finance commit-tee meets today at 11:00 in U. 206.
