Entered at the postoffice at Lincoln, Nebraska, as second-class mail matter under the Act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

It is not the number of students which matriculate that goes to make a great, growing and permanent school. It is the number who stay in school until they finish a course that fixes its high standing, and the more the students get out of their course the better the standing of the institution.

The men who received the Theta Kappa Nu honors in the law school yesterday morning got what they came to school for. A man may get a broad university course and not be an average student, but when he goes to a professional school he is in it primarily and secondly for the knowledge of his chosen subject. If he is a good man in his classes this is no indication of his success as a lawyer excepting so far as getting what you go after and a knowledge of how to look up law goes toward making a good practitioner.

ing power was a good thing will get out and take an interest in the coming election. Although the plan now in force is not perfect it is the result of a sentiment on the part of the authorities which will never permit the selfish spirit among the fraternity men to get a corner on things as they have had for the last few years. The thing for the fraternities to do is to show a manly spirit and go into the contest on a fair basis with the other students in school. The Barbs ought to forget about the affiliation of a candidate and vote for the man who can fill the place, with credit. We ought to have some one like Mrs. Barkley on the men's interest side of the faculty, who will not leave things to the students to work out after long suffering.

Notice.

Owing to an unaccountable mistake the name of Miss Nell Bridenbaugh did not appear in the list of the May Pole Dance as previously published.

They toil not, neither do they study. Their only purpose, if they have any, seems to be to get together and in the brilliant light of the library lamps to observe the beauties of the feminines and the whereabouts of the masculines until it gets late enough to make a respectable get-away. Then in pairs and which is more often the case individually, they retire to the hall, there to be joined shortly by another and to hie away with all the satisfaction of a full evening's work. Such are the follies of youthful days. There is no harm done sometimes, and then again there is. It is like the game of cards—good fun it is not habitual, but apt to lead to ventures, which are purely speculative.
