Entered at the postoffice at Lincoln, Nebraska, as second-class mail matter under the Act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

Last Wednesday occurred the first real Ivy Day at the University of Nebraska. Everything went off beautifully. The morning program was well attended and thoroughly enjoyed. The class of '08 is unanimously proud of Mr. Swenson for the things that he has done and can do, and of the class poet, Miss Rudersdorf, whose poem was pronounced a work of art. The afternoon and evening programs at the State Farm reminded one of the possibilities which such a day has for the students of this institution. More people became known to one another Wednesday than meet in a semester of routine school work. We don't learn much in school but how to get along with the world and the peo-can afford it. Chicago, however, should think of the other schools in this league who are less fortunate financially. Her withdrawal greatly injures the league which is composed of schools whose principal effort in oratory is in this one contest. These schools must now plod along by themselves while some Chicago Carnegie gives big prizes to the students of the Chicago University. A school cannot expect to go far on such an independent and selfish policy.

ple in it. So why not "mix" oftener in a University manner.

Wednesday's visit to the Farm again recalls the old question, "Why don't they move the University out of town?" With so much good ground so near town it seems a pity to continue to put up buildings in the crowded space between R and T streets.

Chicago has withdrawn from the Northern Oratorical league because she wants to develop more internally along this line. She now has funds to keep her contests wholly at home and can offer large enough prizes to attract more students to this line of work than enter intercollegiate contests. On the principle of the greatest possible good to the greatest number, this is wise, providing all the schools

A sophomore came down the walk
And this remark he made.
As he saw the campus benches
A standing in the shade:
"For comfort and for luxury
These seats cannot be beat,
So I'll always get my lessons
Upon a campus seat."

Get the Habit of Wearing Well-Fitted Clothes

Some habits are easily acquired and the habit of wearing carefully fitted, shapely clothes is a most fascinating and profitable one. It doesn't cost but little more to have your Suit just right—one that looks right new and continues that way to the very last. That's the kind of clothes we sell and to fit them properly is a hobby of ours. Our suits at $15 and up look different from the common kinds—so much so that any man can readily see it. The values are the very best.
