

Another Way of Looking At The Clothes Question

A cheap suit of clothes is like a leaky canoe; it may carry you over, but you feel powerfully uncomfortable in it.

"Cheap" suits look "cheap" because they are made "cheap" to sell "cheap." It is the hidden work in a suit of clothes—proper staying to hold shape, use of non-shrinkable reinforcing materials, etc., that determine its value, as much as its outward appearance. Our four strongest lines of Men's Suits at $10, 15, 20 and $25

are suits that were carefully tailored to sell to an exacting retail trade at from $3 to $8 more than we get for them. The man who wears these clothes will neither look nor feel cheap.
