War Department Will Maintain All
Cadet Companies Here Until
State Has Time to Act
In Matter.

Cadet drill will be a feature of university life this year as other years until after the state legislature adjourns late in the spring. Whether it will be continued after that time depends on the attitude of the legislators in providing for suitable drill grounds.

The battalion organization has been put in jeopardy because of the action of the university regents in erecting the new engineering building on the old athletic field. Nebraska field served as parade ground for the cadets and it is stipulated in the act of Congress under which the Nebraska institution receives a money grant of several thousands that such drill facilities be provided. If they are not put at the disposal of the military department the appropriation is subject to discontinuance.

The appropriation for this year was made by Congress in June and is now subject to the order of the university. Since that time the government inspector has recommended that further appropriations not be allowed and that the detail of commandant and equipment be withdrawn if immediate steps are not taken to comply with the provisions of the law. The Nebraska legislature meets in January and if it does not show a definite intention of doing something, it is altogether probable that Captain Workizer will be recalled and the war department will no longer sanction the drill maintained by the university.

Drill This Year.

No such action will be taken, however, until late in the spring, which insures a practically full course for this year's battalion. The command was organized at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon in five companies and a hospital corps. Company I is the new company, it being under the command of Captain Coop. Other captains are Holland of Company A, Jones of Company B, Langer of Company C, Crites of Company D and Streeter of the Hospital Corps. E. A. Froyd is major of the battalion and Cramer is adjutant. Further appointments will probably be announced shortly.

According to the figures at the registrar's office about 450 men are subject to the drill requirement. This is somewhat larger than the enrollment last year. The actual strength of the battalion will of course be somewhat less than 400 owing to the fact that a number will be excused or reprieved for various reasons. These figures do not include the four companies at the state farm, which will not be organized at present.

The Pershing Rifles will furnish uniforms by much the same system as they pursued last year. The outfits will cost $14.50, each including suit, cap and leggings. This is slightly less than the amount paid by last year's cadets. Chairman Mahood of the committee urges that all cadets be measured at the office of the department at once so that as little delay as possible may be experienced in getting the battalion in uniform.

Battalion Notes.

Captain Workizer returned Saturday from an extended vacation trip. He visited at Atlantic City and other eastern points. Part of his time was spent at West Point, the national military school for officers. Later he visited Fort Riley, Kansas.

M. F. Wasson, major of the battalion last year, is now located near Sidney where he has taken a home-

Registration Returns Promise Large Attendance.

So far as the registration returns are any indication, the University of Nebraska will have, during the coming year, the largest attendance in its history. Yesterday 136 students registered, making a total registration thus far of 1785, as against 1558 for last year. This is a gain of nearly 15 per cent. The opinion was expressed in the registrar's office that at least 150 would register today.

While no definite information is yet available concerning the registration in the different departments, it was stated that the engineering department was keeping well in the lead.

Although the registration returns have not been given out, the chemistry department reports a heavier rush than in any previous year. The personnel of the force is the same as last year with the exception of Mr. Barnebey, who has been promoted to assistant instructor. Several men have been working in the laboratories since August 1, and everything is in fine shape for the year's courses.

BORG IS NOT ELIGIBLE

EX-CAPTAIN REGISTERS IN LAW SCHOOL BUT CANNOT PLAY.

NINE "N" MEN NOW IN SQUAD

"King" Cole Has a Large Bunch of Good Material To Select From —Other Veterans Yet to Report.

Rejoicing and regret characterized the conversation among the enthusiasts at Antelope park yesterday afternoon. The regret was caused by the news that Ex-Captain Charles Borg will be ineligible to play on the Cornhusker eleven this fall, all former newspaper reports to the contrary notwithstanding.

Several days ago the return of the famous ex-captain was hailed with delight by the many admirers who have not forgotten the old gridiron hero. At that time it was given out that Borg would be eligible for all games except the one with Minnesota, but that the contract for that game would not permit his participating in it.

With Borg back again the center position could safely be entrusted to him, leaving Collins to fill the vacancy at tackle caused by Matters failure to return. This seemed to be an easy solution of an intricate problem, but is has proved to be of no use.

Played Four Years.

Last evening in an interview with a Nebraskan representative Mr. Borg said that he was ineligible according to the rules of both the "Big Eight" and the Missouri Valley Conference, since he had already played his full four years and had taken his degree in the university. He said that in the four years he had played here he had never missed a scrimmage except in two small games when he was kept out to save his condition for the larger contests.

When asked his opinion of the material which Coach Cole is now working with and the prospects for the season the big ex-captain expressed himself as being enthusiastic over the outlook. He said that he was glad to be back where he could watch the team round into shape even if he could not don the mole-skins and take his place in the squad. It is possible that Borg will give the candidates for center and other line positions the benefit of his large experience by coaching them from time to time.

Nine Veterans At Work.

At present there are nine men working out with the squad who have won their letters in football at Nebraska. These are: Captain Harvey, Johnson, Chaloupka, Harte, Frum, Collins, Minor, Kroger, and Beltzer. Ewing who won his "N" last year is again in school but has declared his intention to let football alone this year on account of parental objection.

"Pip" Cooke, last year's sensational quarterback was expected in Lincoln Sunday, but up to last night he had not made his appearance and Manager Eager had heard nothing from him. Bentley, who played sub quarter last year is another old man who is expected to show up soon.

Instruction In Punting.

In the mean time "King" Cole is drilling his pupils in punting, catching punts, falling on the ball, passing, starting, and the formation of plays. Yesterday was the first day that signals were used. Positions on the so-called first squad were being constantly shifted, but for the most part Minor played at quarter, taking his old position at half back occasionally to let Rathbone pass the ball. Johnson was moved in from end to tackle and Kroger put in at Johnson's old position.

The backs were being constantly changed about, Coach Cole's idea being apparently to drill the heavy men in quick starting.

In the punting line Birkner and Beltzer continue to show up well, but everyone who shows any talent in this department is being tried out in the hope that a worthy successor to old John Weller may be discovered.

CHANCELLOR GIVES AN ADDRESS.

University Head Pleads For Broader Education.

Saturday morning Chancellor Andrews delivered the opening address of the school year before an appreciative audience of university students. His speech was forceful and possessed of excellent figures.

The chancellor, while expressing no serious objections to a technical education, yet pleaded for a broader education. He declared that the young men and women of today need a scholastic course which broadens and enlarges the mental vision. In the chancellor's opinion one of the finest fields in a university curriculum is that offered by courses in sociology. It drills like calculus; it fills as does perhaps no other study known.

Geo. F. Holman, who received his master's degree here in 1906, took a doctor's degree in the University of Goettingen, Germany, in August and is now instructor of Physics at the Worcester Polytechnic Institute.

BRYAN FOR PRESIDENT

SON OF COMMONER BEING RUN
FOR HEAD OF SOPHOMORES.

MANAGERS CLAIM HE WILL WIN

QUIET CAMPAIGN PROMISES TO BRING HIS ELECTION.

A Boom Has Also Been Launched
For Ralph Weaverling Who Was Leader the First Semester Last Year.

William Jennings Bryan, Jr., son of the great commoner and thrice leader of the Democracy in its race for the White House, is being boomed for president of the class of 1911 by a number of the young man's admirers. The campaign was begun last week without the sanction or knowledge of the young Bryan and is now being pushed quietly and assiduously.

The managers of the boom are pursuing "gum-shoe tactics and claim they are making many votes for their candidate. They have enlisted several girls in their work and are going after the co-ed vote to clinch it before other candidates begin pulling wires. They claim that they have half of the support of the class pledged to their candidate.

There is but one other candidate in the field at the present time and he has once held the highest office in his class. That candidate is Ralph E. Weaverling who led the class during the first semester of its freshman year. Weaverling has not announced his candidacy but there are several students in the class who are carrying on a campaign for him in opposition to Bryan.

Held Office Last Year.

Weaverling was elected president of his class a year ago this fall after a short campaign, but was suspended from the university with three other freshmen for kidnapping the sophomore master of ceremonies. His suspension was later made permanent and he went to the University of Kansas where he attended school for the second semester. He returned to Nebraska last fall, being allowed to register here again.

Some of his classmates look upon him as a martyr to the cause of class spirit and think that by putting him in office he will be vindicated. They have not done much active work as yet, but have been "feeling around" to get the sentiment of the class on the second term matter. So far they
