THE OPENING GAME.

Peru comes to Nebraska this afternoon for the opening game of the season on the Cornhusker schedule. There is absolutely no doubt as to the result of the game; the only speculation is on the size of the score. The Normals hope to hold the Scarlet and Cream players to a lower score than last year when the game went against them 53 to 0, and the Cornhuskers expect to roll up more points than they did a year ago. Nebraska's chances of making a larger score are

In the contest there will be nine of last season's "N" men. These players with several others who will be given gether under "King" Cole last year by him. and understand the modern game thoroughly. Their work last year and ir practice this season encourage the lebraska rooters to believe that they will be able to pile up as many points as they may wish this afternoon.

Under the reformed gridiron rules this innovation has more importance in football than any other play and the team that has a good pass is very likely to have a play fast football. Nebraska needs a forward pass this season if Ames and Minnesota are to be defeated. What has been done with it and what the Cornhuskers have yet to learn the rooters will be able to see when the pass is used against the Normals.

The quarterback situation was relleved somewhat last evening when Bentley returned. He is in the best of condition, having been shoveling ore in South Dakota mines all summer, and if necessary may go into the game today. Both Bentley and Cooke have given the enthusiasts a great deal of worry by their continued failure to show up.

The field promises to be in excellent condition for today's game unless unfavorable weather conditions arise. gridiron was thoroughly sprinkled last evening to lay the dust and a high wire fence has been strung along the south side of the field. The boxes and bleachers have not yet been erected south of the field, but they will be up in time for the Grinnell game on October 10th. In the meantime this space may be used for carriages and automobiles without extra charge.

TACKLE DRASDA AN AMES FIND

Weighs 220 Pounds and Pleases Coach Williams With His Power to Large Holes in the Varsity Line.

MINNEAPOLIS, MINN., Sept. 25-Orrin Safford is scheduled for the captaincy of the University of Minnesota football eleven for 1908 to succeed George Capron, whose resignation followed charges of professionalism in baseball during last summer.

A meeting of the football team was called for tonight by Captain John Schunecht of the 1907 team, to take place after practice. The meeting was postponed, however, owing to the late hour at which practice ended, and the election probably will take place tomorrow.

Safford appeared on the field for the first time yesterday afternoon and his appearance was greeted with enthusiasm. He was ineligible for play last year and yesterday was the first time he had donned the moleskins in two years. Safford is heavier than he was two years ago and has shown up well in practice.

IOWA CITY, Io., Sept. 25-Running "stunts" productive of healthful perspiration and studying hundreds of new plays is the nightly task allotted the W. F. Holman, A. Captain Law returned the middle of last week and is playing his same consistent game at the other tackle. The lakisch, who, besides being a foot ball player, rowed on the varsity crew last spring, is in fine condition. Lowman is also in good condition and went through the two hours work with considerable snap and speed.

There is some doubt whether the law school faculty will give Stiehm, the big center, a special examination to remove a condition which he accumulated during the summer semester. Stiehm will not report for work until next week.

Princeton.

PRINCETON, N. J., Sept. 25.-One thing the coaches have decided on is to keep constantly shifting the players from varsity to scrub and vice-versa with a view to keeping even the regulars themselves in the dark in order that they may work all the harder to win a place . There will be no position "clinched" according to Head Coach

"Individualism has hurt many a team," declared Princeton's coach today, "and we are going to keep it down as much as possible."

In the early games, the line-up will differ continually. But another purpose will also be served for the material at Princeton this year is all more or less experienced and while the games themselves may of minor character, there will be strenuous workouts in the daily scrimmages with the scrubs, so that little will be known of the tentative team which the coaches will doubtless have in mind throughout the season until a week before the Yale game, when Princeton plays Dartmouth in New York.

Chicago.

CHICAGO, Sept. 25.-Coach A. A. Stagg administered a shock to his line candidates yesterday by giving them a demonstration of his famous 'stone wall" treatment for backward heavyweights. He put them through have ever encountered in early sea son training and informed them that he would give them his exclusive attention until they showed signs of

The maroon coach has discovered the same germs that infested Marshall field at the beginning of the 1905 season. Once more, he believes, the maroon forwards are only fit to form a "paper line," and he has determined to bring out the sterner qualities of the linemen if any exist. The seance with the linemen lasted a good hour, and Stagg intends to increase the dose daily.

Twelve line candidates took part in the charging and defensive work. Badenoch, Worthwine and Ehrhorn were all tried at the center position, and Stagg expects to have a hard task in developing Anderson's successor from one of the trio. Taylor, Baker and Bohlander, all new men, were worked at guard, and it is possible that both guard positions may spite the heat, and the varsity squad fall to one of the inexperienced candidates. Worthwine, however, may be used at guard in case Badenoch goes to center.

Hoffman, who played guard in most of last year's games, was worked at left tackle on the first team, with Kelley at his old position at the other tackle. Smith, a heavy sophomore candidate, also got a trial at tackle. John Schommer played left end in the practice, with Briggs, a sophomore, at right end. Elliott, a lineman from last year's freshman team, was tried at end for a part of the time.

The candidates will be given stationary work and plenty of practice with the tackling dummy, however. Page tore the left leg off the veteran dummy yesterday in his enthusiasm, and Stagg took it as a good omen.

Harvey Blair, the star sprinter from Hammond, was not frightened by Stagg's warning against intercollegiate immigrants, and he joined the maroon squad yesterday. He attended Wabash last year, where he played quarter back on the freshman football team. Harold Iddings, who has been spending a short vacation in Minnerota, will join the squad today, according to a letter received by Coach #### last season but the Cornhuskers are veterans now and if these men are kept in the contest long enough there The is every reason to look for a greater Play score than 53 points. A line-up on the strength of Nebraska may also be gained from the work of the players this afternoon.

There is bound to be a weak place in any team this early in the season, and the Conrhuskers are no exception. The backfield presents a problem the solution of which may be partly suggested by the what different men do today. The candidates for backfield position are numerous but there appears to be only a few who pomise to make the right kind of material to work well in the big games of the year. The Peru game will give the rooters an opportunity to see what men will probably clinch places in the backfield later in the fall. There are other weaknesses on the eleven and these will be obvious.

The graduation of Captain Weller left the Varsity without a kicker, and as yet no man has been brought out who looks as though he will be able to fill the great hole in the booting department. Several men will be given a tryout at the toe work this afternoon. Perhaps "King" Cole will decide on one to be developed into a kicker for the other games. The ### Illinois.

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Sept. 25-The Illinois coaches were relentless today dewas ready to cry enough when dusk

Between the weather and the scholastic bugbear, the coaches are worrying a great deal. Several of the members of the squad may be ineligible on account of their studies and word from the faculty is being awaited apprehensively. Garrett, the former Northwestern guard, is declared to be out of the question, as he has not marticulated. There is little hope that he will be a candidate. Another gloom story was started by the failure of Lyon Gardiner to report. The veteran half back is overdue and rooters fear he is not coming.

Twist and Ekblaw, two heavyweights of last year's freshman team, showed up well among Coach Lindgren's squad of heavyweights. Coach Hall put Billy May at end and the sprinting star got around in pleasing style.
