IMPROVEMENTS ON THE CAMPUS

No Radical Changes Likely to Be Made in Library for at Least Two Years—All Departments Crowded.

With the meeting of the Board of Regents yesterday, when the question was discussed as to what improvements should be asked from the Legislature for the coming two years, discussion sprang up anew on the campus as to what should be done to care for the increased numbers of students who are coming to the University every year. The crowded condition of the library, the difficulty which is being experienced in caring for the students registered in chemistry, the large number of students who are taking biology, and the crowded American history classes make the problem of vital importance.

Conditions in Library.

The conditions in the library have been growing steadily worse for several years, and it is a matter of common occurrence for students to be turned away because all the chairs are taken. Librarian Jewett, however, declared that he was not asking for anything to be done in the way of remodeling the building for at least two years. Whatever changes are made, will not be so large but that the regents can care for them out of the regular funds on hand.

Dean Bessey, when seen Friday afternoon, declared that he knew nothing about the meeting of the regents and was not asking for any new building. He said he had, however, made it known to the authorities that something must be done to take care of the additional students who have registered for biology. The biology department is now in exactly the same situation, so far as room is concerned, that it was twenty years ago. The physics department has had a new building; the chemistry building has been renovated; the geology department has been cared for; a new engineering building is now being constructed, but while the department of Biology has been steadily growing, it now occupies precisely the same quarters it did twenty years ago. Dean Bessey declared that, personally, he was firmly convinced that ultimately the university would have to be moved to the state farm. The buildings are terribly crowded on the present campus. The conditions which are being encountered in the attempt of the athletic board to condemn sufficient land north of the campus, for a new athletic field make it evident that it will cost entirely too much for the university ever to attempt to enlarge the campus sufficiently by extension in that direction.

Dean Bessey stated that he believed that such colleges as the law school, the medical college and the engineering department might ultimately be left on the present campus, while the academic college, together with the chemistry department might be largely moved to the farm.

While the engineering department and the agricultural school are both made a part of the same college by the laws of the state, it is a paradoxical fact that the academic college is much closer to the agricultural school than is the engineering department. Very few engineers ever take any work in the agricultural college, while a large number of academic students take a certain amount of work there.

Possibilities of Farm.

It would be possible, if the money could be obtained from the legislature, to build a thoroughly up-to-date and beautiful state university at the farm. One style of architecture could be adhered to and a great quadrangle could be laid out which would be one of the most beautiful places in the west. When the literary college was moved the other departments left on the campus would be given plenty of room, and would, in a short time, spread out and absorb all the room on the campus.

A RECORD FOR DEBATING SQUAD.

The Number of Men Trying Out at Fall Preliminaries High.

All university records in debating squad work were broken Thursday night when thirteen more men signified their intention of entering the second preliminary for the selection of members of the squad for the year 1909. Last spring twelve men were chosen from thirty-five for places on the squad, leaving six places yet to be filled. Several are yet to be heard from and it is very probable that the total number trying out this fall will exceed twenty.

This number, together with the thirty-five who tried out last spring establishes a new record for those participating in squad work. Heretofore not more than thirty-five have ever entered the preliminaries. The men trying out now are H. C. Hathaway, 1911; S. S. Davis, 1909; S. S. Stone, law, 1910; Paul Halderson, 1911; Dale McDonald, 1910; Grover Long, 1910; A. M. Oberfelder, 1911; George M. White, 1910; D. D. Russell, 1909; D. D. Russell, 1909; O. S. Gilmore, law, 1910; A. M. Hare, 1911; C. H. Taylor, and D. D. Stoll, 1909.

TRY-OUTS TO COME THIS MONTH

Arrangements for Work of Dramatic Club Complete.

Try-outs for membership in the dramatic club will be held during the third week of October. The club has still room for a few more live ones on its membership roll and all who think that they possess the qualifications are urged to make a try for it. If possible, two or more persons should try out together, but this rule will not be held to in cases where it is impossible. The only condition attached to the selection chosen for trial is that it be dramatic, and full of life and action. Orations and recitations will not be considered. Choose some scene from a play, or merely an incident from a scene, and get the spirit of the lines, not only the words. Any questions concerning the nature of the try-outs will be gladly answered by Miss Howell or any officer of the club. The exact dates when the try-outs will come off will be published later.

against Doane. It was announced last night that all of these players would be in the game at the start today, but that several of them would be removed at different intervals during the second half to allow the substitutes to do a little playing.

Speculation on the score indicates that a majority of the students expect the Cornhuskers to roll up more than fifty points. Last year the score against the Crete men was 85 to 0. The most ardent supporters of the Nebraska eleven do not expect nearly as large a score as that today, for this is an early season contest, while the only last year was the final game of the season on the local field.

Doane does not expect to hold Nebraska to as low a score as that of the Peru game but they believe they will be able to keep the points down to thirty or forty. The Doane team is heavier than the Peru eleven and probably will be able to put up a stronger defense than the Normals. The Doane coach is expecting Johnson, quarterback on his eleven, to do some sensational playing against the Cornhuskers.

The game this afternoon will start at 3:30 o'clock. General admission will be twenty-five cents. There will be plenty of room on the grounds for carriages and automobiles.

The Doane men have been putting in some good licks under the direction of Coach Carns for the last two weeks and they come to Lincoln with a firmly-rooted intention of giving Coach Cole's proteges a hard tussle this afternoon. Last season the Cornhuskers and the Creteans met near the end of the season. At that time the 'varsity' had had all the advantages of several weeks of instruction from "King" Cole, during which time they had fared well at the training table, and in addition they had profited by the experience of meeting such teams as Minnesota, Ames, Kansas and Colorado. Notwithstanding all of this, Captain John Weller, noted for his care and caution, issued an edict headed with the memorable words, "We must beat Doane." He intended that no chances should be taken toward underestimating the strength of the foe and none were. The score was 53 to 0.

Is a Try-out.

Today, however, the Cornhuskers are not in the shape they were in at the time of the Doane game last year. Today's game will be virtually their first real try-out and the degree of their strength or weakness is yet an unknown quantity. Doane, on the other hand, comes here with the earnest determination to wash off of the slate the remaining unsightly record of last year's defeat and to place a new mark there which they will not be ashamed to exhibit. They are not so optimistic as to predict a victory over the Cornhuskers, but they are hopeful of keeping the 'varsity' score very low. It is said that Coach Carns has drilled his men in several trick plays which they hope to use against the Cornhuskers for good gains.

For the last day of two Manager "Dog" Eager has been busy issuing the new suits to the 'varsity' men and last night for the first time they appeared for practice in them.

The New Suits.

The new paraphernalia consists of red jerseys with red and white striped sleeves, and red and white striped stockings. The jerseys are all padded with tan leather pads. As soon as the time for the larger games approaches all of the men will be provided with union suits, but during the warm weather of the early season most of the players prefer to dispense with the jacket on account of the heat. The team certainly presents a formidable appearance in their new togs and they will have to go some if they show up as well in action as they do at a casual glance during signal practice.

In practice yesterday Captain Harvey was played at right guard, the position he played two years ago, and Toite Bentley was in the captain's place at right end. Last night the coach had not made his final decision as to the initial personnel of the team for today's game, but he thought it would be as indicated above. Chaloupka will not play very long if at all on account of having been absent from practice all week. Bowers and Shonka will probably hold down the right-guard position, while Harvey will be started at end. Bentley will probably be put in at end and later shifted to quarter. On account of the inclement weather at the time of the Peru game last Saturday the game was no real test and consequently a good many new men will probably be tried out today.

Remember that all young women of the university are most cordially invited to attend the vesper service of the Y. W. C. A. on Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the Temple theater. Miss Grace Curtis Glenn, will give a talk and Mrs. Charolett Hullhorst Hummell will sing.

MAKE SERIOUS CHARGE

Earl Mallory Declares That Editor of University Publication Is Not Being Influenced By the Proper Motives.

With heated charges and heated counter-charges, cast back and forth between active friends of opposing candidates, the sophomore presidential fight yesterday attained a degree of warmth not heretofore reached this year in a class political contest.

Although three aspirants are contesting for the election, the fight seems to lie chiefly between Mallory and Lawrence Hare, who was first in the race, is however making a quiet canvass and may develop unexpected strength. The election will be held Thursday morning at 11:30, according to present plans and there will be something doing on the part of all candidates in the meantime.

Charge Favoritism.

The interest yesterday centered about charges made by Earl Mallory against the editors of the Daily Nebraskan. These charges were made in the course of a discussion between Candidates Mallory and Lawrence on the university campus. They were later circulated freely by supporters of Mr. Mallory as campaign arguments for that gentleman.

The charges of Mr. Mallory, devoid of verbosity, are to the effect that the editor of the Nebraskan is using that organ to support Mr. Lawrence, who is his frat brother. In spite of the fact, as asserted by a member of the Nebraskan staff, that an especial effort had been made to keep any such partisan influence out of the news columns, Mr. Mallory and his friends declared yesterday in no uncertain terms that the university publication was being used unfairly against the candidacy of this gentleman.

In his interview with Mallory and in a later interview with a representative of the Nebraskan, Mr. Lawrence denied that he had ever attempted to influence the Nebraskan in its attitude toward his candidacy. He stated to Mr. Mallory that he was himself employed on the paper in the capacity of a reporter and that he had written political articles on the situation in
