A GOOD START.

It has recently become known that at the October meeting of the board of regents provision was made for the employment of a landscape gardener to take charge of the campus, both here and at the state farm. This is a step in the right direction, and if sufficient means are placed at the disposal of an experienced man to permit him to carry out his ideas it will mean a big improvement in the appearance of the university.

It has always been the custom in the past to permit people who have had no technical training in landscape gardening to take charge of the campus. When one considers the value of the buildings which have been erected on the campus and the number of persons who spend their time there the action of the regents appears amply justified. It is to be hoped that whoever is given the position will be permitted to develop and put into execution his own ideas, without having them changed and their unity of conception lost before they are put into execution.

The university has certainly developed to such a point that the work of experts is none too good. Experts are employed in every other department to do the work that the university requires to be done. The rec-

'VARSITY IS A WINNER

DEFEAT HASKELL INDIANS IN A FIERCE MUD BATTLE.

OFFICIAL SCORE TEN TO NONE

The Cornhuskers Exhibit Some Great Team Work Under Most Adverse Circumstances Imaginable.
Indians Were Strong.

At 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon, beset by the most abominable weather conditions imaginable, the Haskell Indians lined up against the Cornhuskers for what was to be one of the most memorable contests in Nebraska's football history. Early Saturday morning a light rain began to fall, growing heavier as the day advanced, and long before noon Antelope park was a veritable sea of mud. The attendance was very scant and many of those who were game enough to brave the storm expressed their doubt, after they had got a glimpse of the field, as to whether or not the game would be played at all. The west end of the gridiron, that part which is used as the ball diamond in the summer, was almost entirely covered with water and in many of the lower places on the field there were pools several inches deep. Anything like real football was, of course, under these circumstances, out of the question and the contest resolved itself into a mere farce.

'Varsity Shows Team Work.

Notwithstanding the forbidding conditions under which the game was played the 'varsity put up perhaps the strongest exhibition of team work that has been shown on the home grounds this season. All season the players have been doing great work individually but with the exception of the Minnesota game this is the first time that they have all worked together, and the fact is remarkable because under the circumstances organized team work would be thought well nigh impossible. Time and again the Indians would slow up a line buck, but only for an instant, then the Cornhusker backs and forwards would all charge in unison and the redskins' line would be forced back for a substantial gain.

Cornhuskers Weakened.

To begin with Coach Cole was not sure that the Cornhuskers would be able to win from the red men. He from Birkner. They took the ball on an inside kick and a quarter back run to Nebraska's 30-yard line. Here Nebraska held and on the second down attempted to punt. Birkner dropped the slippery spheroid, however, and Jake, the Indian guard, fell on it. It was the redskins' ball on Nebraska's 18-yard line, and things looked dubious, but an unsuccessful forward pass gave the ball to Nebraska and after that the Cornhusker goal was not in serious danger.

Nebraska's first touchdown came after about fifteen minutes of play, and its legality was questioned, even by many Nebraska people. Birkner punted low from the center of the field and Island, who was playing back for the Indians, failed to touch the ball until after it had rolled over the goal line, then he got it but fumbled it and Frum fell on the ball behind the Indian's goal line. A touchdown was allowed, but it is believed that this was illegal since the ball was dead the moment it crossed the goal line, and consequently the Indians should have kicked out from their 25-yard line.

The second touchdown came also in the first half and was made on straight football. Nebraska used only a limited number of plays, so that the Iowa and Ames scouts who were doubtless among the crowd learned nothing at all that would assist them in preparing for the Cornhuskers.

The line-up was as follows:

Nebraska.	Haskell.
Harvey (Capt.)	Matoska
Chaloupka	Johns
Harte, Bowers	Jake, Dunlap
Collins	Simpson
Ewing	Green, Romedge
Frum	Roberts
Johnson	Smith
Bentley	Island, Nevitt

MEETINGS OF PATHOLOGY CLUBS

Dr. C. W. M. Poynter Elected President for Ensuing Year.

The Pathology club of the college of medicine met on October 10 at the Lincoln hotel. Dr. H. Winnett Orr presented a paper on "Tuberculosis in Children," in which he reviewed sixty-seven of the more prominent papers delivered before the recent International Congress of Tuberculosis at Washington, D. C. Dr. Orr's paper has been accepted by the publication com-

Throughout school days, college days, business or professional career the Conklin Pen will serve you faithfully and make writing a pleasure. You don't have to coax it or fuss with it to get it to write. Because of its wonderful feed principle, ink responds instantly at the first stroke and maintains an even, steady flow to the last dot. Another great advantage of owning a

CONKLIN'S SELF-FILLING PEN

—you're never without ink. No matter where you may be—in your room, lecture hall, at the post office, telegraph office or hotel, or on the train—all you have to do when your Conklin Pen begins to run dry is to dip it in any inkwell, press the Crescent-Filler and your pen instantly fills itself and is ready to write. The same simple movement also cleans it. No mussy dropper—no spilling of ink—no interruption to your train of thought. Majestic.

Alva Yorke, an English comedienne, wearing a real directoire gown, was a sensation at the popular vaudeville house last evening. Her dress was a white silk sheath, with at opening at the left side which displayed two pretty silk stockings. Miss Yorke, when wearing this costume, sang her latest New York success, a song dealing with the sheath gown. Two other songs by her made a hit. "The Half-Way House," a clean, wholesome rural sketch, presented by Mr. and Mrs. Perkins Fisher, two characters long known to Orpheum audiences, caught the fancy of the first night crowd.

Fanton-Bros., hailed as marvelous, proved themselves all that term could imply when used in the description of ring experts. Some of their feats last night were of the most difficult and skillful kind.

Other numbers on the bill last night that pleased were George W. Hussey, ventriloquist; Frank McCrea and Company, in expert shooting; Tom Barry and Madge Hughes, in "A Story of the Street," a skit of cheap theatre life in New York, and the Herberts dogs. This bill is stronger than last week's, and was given before a full house last night.

Lyric.

So great was the attendance at "The Devil" at the Lyric last week that the management consented to run the Hungarian sensation another week. The Fulton Stock company began its second week in "The Devil" last night, playing to a crowded house. "The Devil" has captured Lincoln as it has all the cities of the country. It is the big comedy success of the season, and this week will be the last opportunity Lincoln theatre goers will have of seeing it in the west this year.

Seats for the Kansas, Wabash and Carlisle games may be reserved now at Harry Porter's.

ognition by the regents of the importance of the appearance of the campus is a hopeful sign and may be the beginning of a new era in the history of the university.

The state farm has already undertaken the development of a very extensive system of improvements for the campus. Roadways have been laid out and the buildings are being so placed that when all are completed two rectangles will be formed. It is too late to attempt anything of this kind on the campus in Lincoln, but it is not too late to keep what we have in the best of shape.

Three governors will be heard this year on the university lecture course to be given at Washington. Besides Governors Folk, of Missouri, Hanley, of Indiana, and Johnson of Minnesota, the famous preacher and author, Russell M. Conwell, president of the Temple University, Philadelphia, has been secured.

National politics continue to interest students over the country. A republican club has been organized at Walliams. The Jackson club of La Fayette is making arrangements to entertain all the Purdue Democrats soon. The Lincoln League of Indiana wants to join the Republican National League.

put a team in the field which was greatly weakened and at no time during the game were his pupils certain that they would be the victors. Beltzer was not in the game at all and, although his absence was less keenly felt because of the fact that the water-soaked ball would not permit of successful forward passing, at which he practically excels, yet the backfield is not complete without him. Beltzer was injured in the Grinnell game two weeks ago and his injury was aggravated by his playing in the fierce Minnesota contest, so that Saturday he was in no condition to play.

Kroger was out of the game with an injured knee, and "Pip" Cooke was in the hospital with blood poisoning in his foot. Sturtznegger filled Beltzer's place at left half, Temple began the game at full back and Bentley occupied Cooke's place at quarter. After about ten minutes of play Temple was injured and taken out; Harte was shifted to full back and Bowers went in at right guard. After this there were no changes made in the line up of the Cornhuskers.

Indians Strong.

The redskins gave Coach Cole's pupils a score shortly after the game began. They had received the ball on their own 40-yard line on a punt mittee and will appear in the next number of the College Medical Bulletin.

The second meeting of the club was held at the Lincoln on October 24. Dr. C. W. M. Poynter superseded Dr. Orr as president for the ensuing year. Dr. R. G. Clapp was re-elected treasurer. The paper of the evening was delivered by Dr. H. H. Waite embodying the results of original work on infection with the bacillus pyocyaneus. The experiments in this paper referring to immunity against this germ had been demonstrated to the club during the preceding year. Dr. Waite's paper is being published in the Journal of Infectious Diseases.

ROOTERS ORGANIZE DRUM CORPS

Wisconsin University Men Will Help Their Team.

Enthusiastic football supporters today started the organization of a drum corps which will appear at Camp Randall Wednesday nights and at football games.

Football Manager Jelinek has given his hearty support to the undertaking. The corps which will consist of eight snare and two bass drums, commenced practice Monday evening in the auditorium of Association hall, and expects to make its initial appearance next Wednesday.
