THE IOWA GAME.

Nebraska meets Iowa tomorrow at Iowa City in what undoubtedly will be one of the hardest games on the Cornhusker schedule. Iowa has Nebraska on its home grounds and will play in every way that it is possible to win. Nebraska students should not be surprised if their team is taken into camp by the Hawkeyes.

Since the Missouri contest, Iowa has been pointing to this game. It has in condition to enter the contest the best players in the Iowa state university. Kirk, the wonderful drop kicker, will be lined up against Nebraska, and the Iowa rooters expect that his playing will result in the downfall of "King" Cole's mighty pupils.

The Cornhuskers went to Iowa last night prepared to fight to the last ditch. They realized that the game will be fully as stiff a proposition as the Ames game at Omaha a week from tomorrow. Every man who made the trip is in fit condition for the grueling game which is bound to be played with Iowa fighting to regain the supremacy lost to Missouri recently.

In the loss of Quarterback Cooke Nebraska will be seriously handicapped, but will be able to put up probably as warm a game as Iowa can handle. Bentley is a good substitute for Cooke and should he run the team as well as his practice work indicated he will, Ne-

KIRK NOT IN SCRIMMAGE WORK

Iowa Star Fears to Enter Practice Because of Danger of Again Injuring Knee—Perry Not In Game.

IOWA CITY, Ia., Oct. 29.—Iowa's football stock took a jump downward last night in the scrimmage practice against the freshmen eleven on Iowa field. Coach Catlin was plainly disappointed with the showing of his players and was even more silent than usual when the squad was finally sent in to the showers.

Students were admitted to Iowa field and a large open air mass meeting for the Nebraska game was held. Fifteen hundred undergraduates accompanied by a couple of hundred co-eds sung and yelled themselves hoarse in encouraging the Hawkeye eleven.

However, the work of the stands was not beneficial to the regulars, as three touchdowns formed the sum total of the work of Catlin's scoring machine. At times the head coach's splendidly devised plays worked well. The play was snappy only after Catlin had given the men a hard lecture. The open style of football resulted.

Captain Kirk, the great Iowa star, can signal with the team, but Catlin decided to keep him out of the thirty minute's scrimmage. His knee is not in the best of shape and Frasier O'Brien feared a second bump on the tender spot. Fee took his place but his bad knee gave way and Haggerty was sent in. Perrine will probably not be in shape to play against Nebraska and Carberry will take left end.

Nebraska One of Best.

CHICAGO, Oct. 29.—In writing of Chicago's contest with Minnesota next Saturday Walter H. Eckersall says:

"It is conceded that Minnesota is developing a strong eleven this year, and many critics have given it credit of making as much advancement as any team since the opening of the football season. In Nebraska the gophers met a team that gives promise of being one of the best in this year's standing. Although the Cornhuskers were outplayed in some departments of the game there was no doubt that injury forced him to limp out of the scrimmage, probably the last before the Indiana game.

With Trainer Rudderham sick and Van Hook and several others bungled up the coaches began to worry about the condition of the eleven for Saturday. Twist, touted as a strong contender for a line position at center or guard, or Butzer will take Van Hook's place if the captain is unable to play. Butzer was unable to report today.

A superb stand by the varsity on the one yard line was a feature of the scrimmage. Freshmen and sophomores will push the ball in a contest tomorrow and this will prevent prolonged practice.

Sixteen hundred student tickets were sold for the Indiana game. Michigan.

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Oct. 29.—The cheerfulness that has pervaded the Wolverine camp the last two weeks recovered from the setback of the past day or two when the results of yesterday's scrimmage were learned.

The varsity tore through the scrubs for three straight touchdowns, gaining consistently. It would appear that Yost's efforts at strengthening the offensive play had been successful. The coach now is satisfied with the defense of the team, as it showed up well in this department in the O. S. U. game. He and four graduate coaches have centered their efforts in perfecting plays to carry the ball into the enemy's territory.

The forward pass, which failed so signally in the O. S. U. game, was worked with great success today. The fact that the scrubs, when given the ball on the twenty yard line, failed to get a goal until a continued trial of twenty minutes is taken as cause for further congratulation. Wisconsin.

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 29.—That the Badgers cannot stand prosperity was evidenced today when the team took a slump following the brilliant showing made last night. Excepting Mesmer and Wilce, the regulars were in the scrimmage against the scrubs. Ragged form was shown, especially in the use of the forward pass. A student massmeeting will be held tonight to arouse spirit for the Marquette game. The faculty athletic council decided to hold a purity banquet for the maroons and badgers November 20, the night before the game. Harvard.

BOSTON, Mass., Oct. 29.—The Harvard varsity eleven was given the hardest practice of the year yesterday afternoon. From start to finish the men were driven at top speed.

Lieut. Graves coached McKay and Fish. Kersberg had charge of the guards and center, Daly handled the backs, and Dave Campbell the ends. Throughout the scrimmage with the Nebraska was the superior in other points of play."

Minnesota.

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 29.—Dr. Williams' gophers closed their scrimmage work in preparations for the Chicago game yesterday with a grueling two hours' work behind closed gates. With "Pudge" Heffelfinger behind the second team, the scrubs fought the advance of the regulars like demons and the result was perhaps the hardest session since the season's opening.

The men were driven almost to exhaustion in the scrimmage, but when darkness put a stop to this work Dr. Williams kept his men for another hour of signal work under the big electric lights. It was 6 o'clock before the men got the word to hike for the showers.

Light signal work was indulged in early this afternoon and the first team, twenty-eight strong, together with the coaches, will leave at 8 o'clock in the evening bound for Chicago and the game which will decide their football fortunes of 1908.

Illinois.

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Oct. 29.—Capt. Van Hook of Illinois had an ankle twisted in yesterday's scrimmage and may be unable to line up against Indiana on Saturday, although the big leader declares he will play. "Van's" freshmen team the head coach kept calling for more speed, and the result was that the play was much faster than usual, McKay and Fish doing well under the direction of Graves.

Capt. Burr did not take part in the scrimmage, as he is trying to rid himself of a bad cold.

Smith and Forscheimer, the full backs, are recovering from their injuries, and probably will be able to get back into the game in a few days.

Chicago.

CHICAGO, Oct. 29.—A football version of the prodigal son story without the fatted calf was staged yesterday at the University of Chicago with Tom Kelley, the wayward lineman, in the leading role. The maroon tackle, who jumped the team in a huff Monday because he felt he was not appreciated by Coach Stagg, begged his way back to Marshall field and will be given a chance to make good.

Kelley may play against Minnesota Saturday, and he may not be judged classy enough to appear. Coach Stagg merely permitted him to join in the practice without making any promises to give him back his old position. If he can stand the Marshall field routine and improve his playing he will go against the gophers, the rooters think.

Kelley made humble apologies for his action in leaving the field Monday and objecting to being placed at guard and Coach Stagg finally consented to a compromise. He was used at guard in practice, where he was satisfied to remain, and will be glad to play day after tomorrow.
