University Forum

LINCOLN, Nov. 2.—Editor of Daily Nebraskan—I am greatly interested in the Nebraskan's appeal for subscribers and hope the student body will come to the rescue of the official paper of the university. At the same time I believe the present management, as carried out by the editorial staff, is responsible to the lack of interest in the paper. In the first place there are, besides a large student body, a still larger alumni body who do not subscribe for the Nebraskan and there is just reason for the same. It would appear to me that some member of the staff should devote, at least, a part of his time to gathering alumni news and thus interest those who have left the institution, but have not forgotten the same.
 Now, as a subscriber, I feel that I am entitled to register an objection to the paper having any political bias. I believe that the news column, as well as the editorial column, should be independent, and while I am informed that the present editorial staff is composed entirely of men of the same political belief, there is no valid reason why the news columns should reflect their individual feelings. This I have discovered is true, and now, as the present political campaign is about ended and I cannot be accused of trying to prejudice anyone against the paper, I desire to point out where the paper has reflected the individual reporter's feeling, which is unwarranted by the nature of the news. The fact that the editorial page has remained neutral has no weight, when the news columns are filled with colored reports.
 When Mr. Arthur Mullen, organizer of the "Bryan Volunteers" spoke to the Bryan and Kern club, the first column and half of the first page of the Nebraskan was given to exploiting his views. This was all right. Mr. Mullen had a message to deliver to students and it was proper that it be given, as the audience that heard him was so few, that it was practically wasted at the meeting.
 When, however, Mr. E. P. Brown, '92 of the University of Nebraska, and T. F. A. Williams, '92 also, both alumni of the university who have brought to see the paper reduced in size or its influence impaired. But I think that the editorial board can improve these conditions and that it will redound to the benefit of the paper.

WILL BURY THE CLASS OF 1911.

Washington Freshmen to Perform Rites With Pomp and Ceremony.
 The sophomore class is dead. So say the freshmen. To show proper consideration for the deceased, which, it is stated, died a violent death, funeral services will be conducted by the wearers of the green at some time during the 10 o'clock float hour.
 At a meeting yesterday the freshmen made arrangements for the burial of the dearly beloved class of '11. Ample funds have been expended and generous arrangements have been made for a decent funeral. Chief mourners, pallbearers and choir have been selected for the service. It is the intention of the class of '12 to so conduct the affair that there will be no disturbance of the peace. Ample preparations have been made for the safekeeping of the body, as it has been rumored that there are certain bands of roaming ruffians who would be only too willing to interfere with the ceremony.
WARNING ISSUED TO FRESHMEN.
 Minnesota First-Year Men Must Obey Rules of Upperclassmen.
 The Minnesota upperclassmen intend to keep the freshmen of that school in their proper places. They have recently promulgated the following rules:
 Freshmen are warned not to violate the following rules:
 1. No derbies shall be worn on the campus.
 2. No high school emblems shall be worn on the campus.
 3. No freshman may sit on the steps surrounding the Pillsbury statue.
 4. Freshmen shall not escort girls from other classes to any social function on the campus.
 A written warning will be given after the first violation; all others will be punished.

 Marten C. Shallenberger, an old Nebraska man, who recently passed the examination for lieutenant in the regular army, was in Lincoln Saturday. He left last night for Alms to cast his vote. He will later go to Fort Riley, Kansas, and then to Fort Crook, Nebraska, where he has been ordered to report for duty with the Sixteenth infantry.
 Heine Weller and Arthur Jones returned from Swathmore, Pa., Friday, where they attended the annual convention of the Delta Upsilon fraternity. During their visit they made a trip to New York City to visit the University of Nebraska contingent at Columbia. Among those whom they saw were Mason Wheeler, '06, "Mike" Denslow, Dale Drains, "Chick" McLaughlin, Ted Mills, Louis Myers, Albert Levy and John Latenser. Wheeler is practicing law in New York City, Myers is studying engineering and the remainder are in the law department of Columbia.

honor to the institution, spoke before the Taft and Sherman club they were not able to draw more than twenty or thirty owing to the Y. M. C. A. stag party at the armory. When a member of the Nebraskan staff was asked to report this meeting after one or two issues of the paper had appeared, he demanded that the party who asked the same furnish a copy and it was necessary to clip the report of the Journal and give it to him, before it appeared, and then in the lower end of the second page of the Nebraskan.
 This is one instance. I desire to call the attention of the readers of the Nebraskan, as well as the editorial board, to the publication of the remarks of "Judge" (?) L. C. Burr delivered before a so-called "Bryan" Republican club last Friday evening. That the reporter was not only partisan, but actuated by an effort to cover up a bad record, is accentuated by the title given the speaker that evening. For surely, the reporter must know that the only semblance of "judge" that this speaker could possibly obtain was that obtained by an order of the supreme court of Nebraska adjudging him guilty of improper conduct and disbaring him from practice before that court. That the student body can derive wisdom from a polluted source is respectfully referred, and the space of the Nebraskan given over to such a diatribe only adds to the disgust of its readers. I contend that sources of news should be considered, as well as the news.
 Now, I make these criticisms in a friendly spirit and for the best interest of the paper. I would regret greatly
