NEW SONGS FOR AMES-NEBRASKA

Two Contributed to Contest by Student Yesterday.
Two more songs were contributed for the Ames-Nebraska game yesterday. They follow:
(Tune "I'm Glad I'm Married.")
Cheer for Nebraska—
Her team plays like a dream:
Run the ends, and buck the line;
Makes big gains; oh, isn't that fine!
The poor old Ames Aggies,
They haven't any show—
The only trouble with them is:
Their team's too slow.

(Tune "Marching Through Georgia.")
After the game is over, Ames,
You'll hear our joyful cries:
Back to "that dear Iowa," Ames,
You'll have to walk the ties.
When you bet all your money, Ames,
You thought you would win the prize.
But you can't win from Nebraska.

Chorus:
Hurrah, hurrah, Nebraska's got you beat;
Hurrah, hurrah, you're going to meet defeat.
You'll have to sneak up the alleys,
For Nebraskans will own the streets
After this football game is over.

VARSITY STIRRED UP

SEVERAL OF THE PLAYERS ARE IN POOR CONDITION.

IOWA CONTEST WAS SEVERE

The Cornhuskers Report for Signal Practice in Bad Trim but Hope To Be in Good Shape for Ames Next Saturday.

The crippled and battered Cornhuskers assembled at Antelope park yesterday afternoon for signal practice. The severity of the Iowa game was very apparent from the condition of the players, some of them being scarcely able to navigate.

Captain Harvey looks as if some one had taken a club and gone after him. One eye is closed and he manages to move about with difficulty. Last night the captain did not take active part in practice but contented himself with putting on a suit and following the plays from behind.

Sid Collins and Frum both show in their movements the results of Saturday's awful battle, and Frum spent his time in kicking drop kicks. "Johny" Johnson is limping around with a bad ankle, an old sprain which was aggravated by the hard work he had to perform on Saturday.

Backfield All Right.
The backfield men did not suffer so severely as did the line men, probably because more substitutes were used in the backfield. Kroger retired about ten minutes before the end of the first half and was replaced by Temple, so that the fast fullback is in better condition than most of the other players. Temple played the remainder of the first half but was injured a few minutes before the close of the second half and during the remainder of the game his place was filled by Sturtznegger. Beltzer played only during the first half, Harry Minor appearing at left halfback during the second act. Hugo Birkner played the entire game at his position and appears to have stood the strain in good shape. Toit Bentley is pretty badly battered up and moves about carefully, but he will doubtless be in shape within a few days.

The two guards, Harte and Ewing, appear to have come out of the contest as fortunately as any, and "Bill" Chaloupka is as good as ever, notwithstanding the fact that it was necessary to carry him from the field Saturday. He had his neck severely twisted in being tackled, after making a good gain on one of his spectacular tackle-around plays.

Will Be Ready for Ames.
On the whole the team is pretty badly crippled and bruised but Coach Cole expects the men all to be in good condition by the time they clash with Ames next Saturday.

Last night's signals were run very slowly and no attempt was made at fast play. The team just trotted through some new formations which Coach Cole has evolved and which may be brought into play against the Aggies.

The "peek-a-boo" play was run through several times and the few who have seen it believe it to be a winner. It is reported that the Iowans were scared to death about this play Saturday and the reason the Cornhuskers were able to make such enormous gains through the Iowa line was that the Iowans were constantly watching for some sort of trick play, consequently the good old-fashioned football fooled them just as effectively as an intricate style of play would have done.

"Kling" Cole intends to keep this play up his sleeve just as long as possible, and if other tactics will do the work against Ames next Saturday it will not be pressed into service. Assistant Coach Elliott went to Columbia Saturday to watch the Ames-Missouri contest and he reports that Nebraska will have the hardest game of her schedule against Ames. He said that Lambert of Ames punted sixty yards against a stiff breeze several times, and that Nebraska will be up against a stiff proposition in the kicking and passing departments. The Ames line is reported to be a veritable stone wall so an open style of play is expected to be used by both sides.

The varsity scrubs met and defeated the Peru normal school team at Peru Saturday by a score of 8 to 0. This was the first game of the season for the scrubs and they put up a remarkably good exhibition. The only touchdown was made when Gibson picked up the ball after an attempted punt by the normals had been blocked, and ran thirty yards for a touchdown. The other score was made on a safety.

Notes of Game.
The Iowa mascot, which is a small bear, was brought to the field near the close of the second half. Some of the Iowa students think he is a hoodoo.

The game was not called until 3:10, and so much time was taken out that it was pretty dark when the game ended.

The try for drop kick by Hyland in the second half which, if it had been successful, would have given Iowa the game, was blocked by Captain Harvey on the Nebraska 25-yard line.

"Ted" Stuart, who was assistant coach at Nebraska under Foster two years ago, was umpire. Graham, another Michigan man, was head linesman.

Dr. Clapp was present at the game as a representative of the athletic board. He reached Iowa City Saturday morning from Chicago, where he had been in attendance at a meeting of western basketball delegates.

Ralph Hoagland of Chicago, who was referee of the game, thought Nebraska had a powerful football machine.

Assistant Coach Jones of Ames and two coaches from Kansas university watched the game from the sidelines. The Nebraska team spent Friday and Friday night in Cedar Rapids at the Montrose hotel. They arrived there at 6 o'clock in the morning over the Northwestern. Saturday morning they went to Iowa City by trolley, leaving Cedar Rapids at 9:40 o'clock on a special train. The run to Iowa City was made in one hour.

Friday afternoon the Cornhuskers held a stiff scrimmage practice at Athletic park, the baseball grounds of the Cedar Rapids Tri-league team. All of the plays were run off in grand style. The famous "peek-a-boo" worked without a bobble. Birkner kicked several pretty place goals from placement during this practice.

Coach Marc Catlin held out for 35-minute halves. He told Coach Cole Nebraska was Iowa's "big" game and that the Hawkeyes were able to play long halves. "Kling" Cole let him have his way, but at the close of the first half Referee Hoagland informed Coach Catlin that it would be better to have a short half for the last one because darkness was fast coming on and the game might have to be called before the end of another 35-minute half.

Iowa rooters admitted Nebraska had the better team. At the conclusion of the game many of them congratulated the Nebraska coaches and players on the great game played by the Cornhuskers.

The new concrete bleachers which had just been completed and which hold 1,000 people was filled to its capacity.

The Iowa band is not as good a musical organization as Nebraska's. Its music was "something awful."

Iowa's rooting was much better organized than Nebraska's is here at home. All of the Iowa students were seated on the west side of the grounds and all of the rooting was given there. The bleachers extended along the field for eighty yards, and for this section there were four rooting leaders. The crowd gave their yells at the call of the leaders without hesitating.

The Nebraska team appeared on the field at 2:50 o'clock and was greeted by a yell from the Iowa rooters. The yell was given No. 1. The Iowa crowd got through with the first of it in pretty good shape, but the "Oh my" in the last of it was dragged out too long.

Iowa field is situated a few feet west of the gymnasium. It contains about ten acres of ground.

There were only about five Nebraska rooters in the whole crowd. They did gallant work.

Coach Cole paced up and down the sidelines drawing hard on a cigar during the game.
Captain Kirk, who made a miserable showing in the game, was an all-western halfback last year. It's a good bet that he will not be placed on that team this season.
"Bill" Chaloupka was removed from the game toward the close of the second half. He was pretty well worn out after his fierce playing. Bowers went in at right guard and Harte was shifted to tackle.
"Sid" Collins outplayed his opponent, Comley, at center. Several Nebraska gains were made through Iowa's center.
