NEBRASKA WINS FROM AMES—23 TO 17

Heavy Line and Fast Backfield of The Cornhuskers Too Much For The Remarkable Defense of The Speedy Iowa Aggies

DECIDING TOUCHDOWN IN LAST TWO MINUTES OF PLAY

Made After Cooke On Forty Yard Run Had Placed Ball On the Three Yard Line From Where Sturtzenegger Was Shoved Over—Right Tackle Chaloupka Plays Wonderful Game While Frum, Harte, Collins, Ewing and Birkner Also Star for Cornhuskers —“Si” Lambert, Hubbard and Captain Law Do Great Work On Offense For Coach Williams' Men.

Coach Clyde William's great football team from the Iowa agricultural school after struggling desperately through two long halves of the fastest football played in the Missouri valley this season, went down to defeat before the husky and speedy pupils of "King" Cole at Omaha Saturday afternoon. The score of 23 to 17 fairly represents the relative strength of the two teams. Nebraska outplayed Ames, and deserved to win but not by a very large margin.

The Aggies never led in the scoring but managed in the second half the brilliant work of Quarterback Cooke, pulled out a victory.

Cooke's Long Run.

Nebraska had the ball on the Aggie 40-yard line with two minutes yet to play. Cooke, who a short time before had relieved Bentley at quarter, essayed to try a run around the left wing of the Ames team. It was a fake quarterback run and Left End Reppert and the halfbacks of the Aggies were drawn in. Cooke, carrying the ball tightly under his arm, suddenly shot out from behind the Nebraska line with Captain Harvey, Birkner and Harte forming good interference, and sped toward the Ames goal line, dodging by Aggie after Aggie and placing the ball on the three-yard line before he was downed. This run virtually won the game for the Cornhuskers, for on the next play Fullback Sturtzenegger plunged through the Aggie line for the final and winning touchdown of the game. Captain Harvey kicked an easy goal, making the score 23 to 17 in favor of the Cornhuskers.

Superior in Attack.

Nebraska's superior attack and line work brought down defeat on the Aggies. The forward pass also helped the Cornhuskers to win the contest. In using this play the Cornhuskers made 160 yards to 27 for their opponents. It was Nebraska's line, however, that repelled the attack of the Aggies and forced them to resort entirely to end runs.

It also was the men in the line who often broke through the Ames defense and broke up plays or who, after the Nebraska end had been boxed, brought down the men carrying the ball with a pretty tackle.

On the offense the Cornhuskers were able to make good gains through the Ames line at times. Here Right Tackle Frum did brilliant work. Chaloupka frequently was given the ball to carry on a play through left tackle and always made good gains. He was aided greatly on these plays by Frum, who always had an opening waiting for his big teammate. Chaloupka plunged through these holes made by Frum and it took five or six of the Aggies to check his advance.

Chaloupka Gets Touchdown.

Nebraska's third touchdown was made from the 10-yard line on this play off tackle. Nebraska, on a forward pass from Bentley to Johnson, had taken the ball to the Ames sixteen yard line. Birkner made three yards and the ball was on the 10-yard line. Bentley, on the next play, called for Chaloupka to carry the ball. Frum made the opening and the giant tackle shot through, twisting around until he had placed the oval over the goal line.

Chaloupka's showing in this game was the best of the season and should give him a place on the All-Western eleven. His work this season has been watched closely and it is believed that he will be the unanimous choice for a position on the all-star team.

Nebraska's backfield also did some fine work. Beltzer was a star, punting good distances and throwing the ball on the forward pass with accuracy. Birkner made gains against the Aggie line and played a strong, aggressive game. Temple and Kroger at fullback were speedy and hit the line hard. Temple showed up well on the defense. Miner, while not shining as brilliantly as in the Iowa game, played consistent ball. Sturtzenegger, although only in the game a few minutes, worked well on the offense.

Collins is a Star.

In the line Collins, at center, played the best game of his football career. He had his opponent, Rutledge, outplayed, and swept him out of the way at times. Collins played hard all during the contest and stopped several Aggie plays. Once he made a remarkable tackle of "Si" Lambert, when the fullback was going rapidly toward the Cornhusker goal.

Harte played through the game with a weak ankle, which threatened all morning to keep him on the sidelines. On his way to the train at Lincoln he again turned his ankle, which had been previously hurt in practice and had to be helped off the train. Doctors worked with his foot until time for the game, and sent him on the field with it bandaged. The husky and gritty guard went into the game with this handicap and played great ball. He managed to break down the offense of the Aggies many times and was conspicuous in blocking plays and tackling runners.

Ewing in Good Play.

Left Guard Ewing was a stonewall to the attacks of Aggies made on the Nebraska line. At the beginning of the game Ames tried a few plunges at the left side of the Nebraska line and, finding it impregnable, did not try to break through again.

Captain Harvey and Johnson at the end positions were forced to play the hardest game of the season. The large number of end runs attempted by the Aggies made their task an exceedingly difficult one. They stopped the runs as well as any ends could have done. They, on several occasions, managed to break through the defense of the Aggies and break up plays before they were well started.

TEMPLE,

A few times, however, the Nebraska ends were boxed and other players had to bring down the runner, who was circling a wing.

to tie the game, making it 17 to 17. There were ten minutes to play after the score was evened up, and it was during the last two minutes of this time that the Cornhuskers, through
