READY FOR OLYMPICS

OFFICIALS TO CARRY OUT CONTEST HAVE BEEN CHOSEN.

SOPHOMORE RALLY TONIGHT

Second Year Men Hold Preliminaries in Which the Competition for Places Was Keen—Rules and Officials of the Game.

Regarding the Olympics, Chancellor E. B. Andrews has the following to say in way of encouragement to the participants:

"I wish at this time to congratulate all of the classes of the university for the spirit and interest shown in this movement, and I deem this one of the greatest reforms that ever passed over the university.

Following are the official statements from the two contesting classes:

President Kerspacher of the freshman class says: "I think the 'Olympics' will be a great thing for both classes interested as well as the whole university. I only hope that every man will show up and do his best for his side, especially every one of the freshmen. Let it be a series of upright and earnest battles.

President Lawrence of the sophomores says: "Regardless of the winning side, I firmly believe that the Olympics will supply a long felt want at the university. In it I see the beginning of a 'Nebraska spirit,' worthy of the school. Every man should fight hard and in a sportsmanlike manner for his class, allowing none of his acts to bring discredit upon a splendid undertaking."

Big Sophomore Rally.

Tonight a big rally of the sophomore class in preparation for the fight on the morning has been planned, the meeting taking place in Memorial hall at 5 o'clock. Football Manager Hascall, "Sid" Collins, Chairman Earl Mallory and several others will deliver short addresses. Every sophomore should make it a point to be present at the meeting and take part. The tryouts to select representatives of the class have been held and a large number took part in the preliminaries. But the chairman decided that, owing to requests from several new men, the preliminaries, would still be open to all new men who have not had an opportunity to try out. The results of the preliminaries stand as follows:

Cross Country—Mellick, one; Ashbury, two; Cussack, three; Dinsmore, four; Norburg, five; Ashbury, six.

Heavy-weight—Boxing—Sadelleck, 168.

Middle-weight—Boxing—Matteson, 146.

Lightweight—Boxing—Reed, 127, and Weaverling, 132.

Wrestling, Heavy-weight—Collins, 178.

Wrestling, Middle-weight—Plasters, 158; Zacek, 146.

Wrestling, Lightweight—Munson, 131.

Tug of War—Albert Poole, captain; Sadelleck, Collins, Sturmer, Tindall, Hascall, Elliott, Munson, Temple, Knapp, Berger.

Final Meeting Committees.

Last night in the Nebraskan office the final meeting of the committees from the four classes were held and business of a very important nature was transacted. The question of the eligibility of the freshman law class was decided in favor of the sophomore; that is, the freshman laws will go in and fight with the sophomores. All academic and farm students were disbarred from competing. Classmen in the freshman law class who have a college standing are also barred from taking part.

In order that members of the classmen can distinguish each other, the freshmen are requested to wear a red bandage around one ankle, while the sophomore color will be cream. Among other things considered, the committee decided to secure an appropriate tablet which will be placed in some prominent part of the university campus, with the names of the winner of each event and the class winner carved upon it. Acting upon the suggestion of Dean Bessey, the name "Olympics" will be the official name of the class scrap.

That Battle Royal.

The ruling in regard to the main event, the battle royal, is somewhat complicated, but is fully explained in the following article:

The two classes will stand facing each other extended across the football field, with one foot upon the middle cross line of the field. The first five yard line back of each class will be the goal line of that class. The idea of the fight is to pull or draw your opponent back across your own goal line, where they are considered down and out and are withdrawn from the contest, but an upper classman official, of whom there will be twenty on each side. There will be three ten-minute bouts of these nature, the bout being won by the class pulling the most men across their own goal line at the end of the ten minutes. The class winning two out of the three bouts will be declared the winner. A man is outside or over his opponent's goal line when he has both feet across and is not still held by one of his own side who is inside of the line. Any man caught using the "strangle hold" or slugging will be disqualified and barred from the rest of the contest.

The Marathon race will be over a three-mile course, starting at Fairview at nine-thirty prompt, and finishing at the park at the grandstand. Each contestant must be at Fairview at 9:30 promptly in order that the start will not be delayed. The wrestling matches will be best two in three, each bout lasting for seven minutes. Providing there is no throw in that time, the match is declared a draw and the points divided. Boxing will be for three rounds and will be governed by Marquis of Queensbury rules. The tug of war will be contested by teams consisting of ten men, including the captain. The rope will be divided evenly and the side pulling the other over a three-foot mark wins.

List of Officials.

Following is the list of officials in charge of the games:

PRACTICE FOR KANSAS

BIG RALLY HELD IN THE CHAPEL LAST EVENING.

MUCH SPIRIT IS MAINTAINED

The Cornhusker Eleven Are in the Best Physical Condition They Have Enjoyed Since the Great Gopher Game.

Last evening at 5 o'clock a rousing rally was held in Memorial hall to practice songs and yells for the Kansas game on Saturday.

As a rule at these rallies there have been several speeches delivered by prominent faculty members, coaches, players, etc., and under such circumstances it is not surprising that considerable enthusiasm should be manifested. Speeches on such occasions are unusually inspiring in their effect and the presence of players who have been instrumental in making such a great record for this year's Nebraska team; men who have grown to a position in which they are regarded as idols; the presence and words of these men are calculated to extract great enthusiasm from the students.

But when the chapel can be packed with students of both sexes, at the convenient hour of 5 o'clock, for the sole purpose of practicing songs and yells, when students will throng to this sort of thing, which requires exertion and in many cases sacrifice, without the expectation of entertainment other than that which they themselves furnish; when the students respond so heartily and earnestly to this kind of thing, it can be truly said that a genuine college spirit is growing at Nebraska.

Dr. Condra Speaks.

After the band had played a rousing march Dr. Condra mounted the platform and gave a short address to the students, which was full of earnestness, sincerity and spirit which he is so conscientiously trying to transplant into the hearts of Nebraska people. The effect of Dr. Condra's work this fall is very apparent and it is a pleasure to note the success which is attending his efforts.

He began by expressing his sincere regret at having been unable to attend the Ames game last Saturday. Duties in connection with the convention of Nebraska teachers last week compelled him to remain in Lincoln, and he said that he envied everyone who had the privilege of attending so great a contest. To him it was almost a punishment to remain, but he relieved himself of it as much as possible by hearing all the telegraph reports of the game.

At Omaha, although a goodly delegation went up from Lincoln, the rooting was not so well organized or so effective as it has been on other occasions. The fact that the rooters were not seated together, but were scattered all over the south stands, is largely responsible for this, however, and this handicap will not have to be contended with at the Kansas game Saturday. Tomorrow the rooters will all be seated together in the north stands and they expect to use the songs and yells, which were practiced yesterday, to advantage.

Practice Yesterday.

The football squad practiced at the farm again last evening and had the last scrimmage work, which will be given them before they line up against the Jayhawkers tomorrow afternoon at 2:30. The scrimmage work for the most part consisted of punting, giving the 'varsity practice both offensive and defensive on kick formations.

Very little rough work has been given the men by Coach Cole this week, as he wishes to have them in tip-top shape for tomorrow's game.

Both Chaloupka and Beltzer were out at practice yesterday and it is believed that the team will be in better shape tomorrow than at any time since the Minnesota game.

HAD IMPORTANT CLASS MEETING.

Seniors Transact Several Matters of Business in Memorial Hall.

At the senior meeting held yesterday the reports of various chairmen were made.

Miss Gray, chairman of the pin committee, reported that sample pins had not arrived. The official, or standard, pin idea is gaining ground. The junior and freshmen have considered the matter in class meeting and both adopted resolutions favoring it. In addition, the juniors have a committee empowered to select a design in co-operation with the seniors. The sophomores have not considered the matter as yet, but several prominent members of the class favor the idea.

William Robertson, editor of the Cornhusker, made a strong appeal for active co-operation by the members of the class in order that a good book may be turned out. All seniors were asked to have their pictures taken as soon as possible. Anyone having a joke, poem, or short story was asked to turn it in at once. Prizes are offered for the best in each class.

Stuart Dobbs, manager of the senior football team, reported good progress in the efficiency of the team. He made a plea for more material and for support at the coming class games.

The junior and sophomore teams are both strong. The senior team is in good condition and with decent support is figured on to win both contests and the sweaters.

The seniors play the Crete Y. M. C. A. Friday, the juniors one week from Friday and the sophomores the day before Thanksgiving.

Miss Holcomb, chairman of the play committee, reported that a play had not been selected but that the committee would soon have one.

The class passed Miss Holcomb's motion for a $2.00 assessment due Dec. 1 for the support of the play. Receipts given on the payment of the assessment will be accepted for tickets for the play. Probably four tickets will be given each member of the class. The choice of seats will depend on the priority of the payment of the dues.

While not prepared to give a detailed report, Chairman Hills of the breakfast committee reported that the affair was a success financially as well as otherwise.

Miss Leet's report of the cap and gown committee was read in her absence. The committee decided on the style. Individuals may select the quality. The price will be according to quality. Orders for caps and gowns must be taken at once at the University Book store. A discount is given for cash in advance.

A motion looking to the purchasing of class caps was voted down.

The bills of Townsend, for the pictures of the '09 sophomore and junior basketball teams and junior football team, were allowed. Payment is subject to the accumulation of a surplus in the class treasury.

On motion of S. P. Dobbs the meeting adjourned.

ALL OF ONE OPINION

PROFESSORS UNITE IN PRAISING WORK OF CHANCELLOR.

HE IS CONSTRUCTIVE EDUCATOR

Representative Members of the University Faculty Tell of Great Good Done the Institution by the Efforts of Dr. Andrews.

Actuated by a desire to find proper expression of the tribute due to Chancellor E. Benjamin Andrews for the great constructive work which he has accomplished during his eight years' administration of the affairs of the university, the Daily Nebraskan has collected from representative members of the faculty a series of reasons why the chancellor's withdrawal from the school is a matter of such deep regret. The central thought of all these expressions is the broadening of activities and the enlargement of the scope of the university under Chancellor Andrews. Following are the statements of the Nebraska professors with whom Dr. Andrews has been associated in his work of building up a greater university.

Dean Sherman: "It is an administration in which the personality rather than the office of Chancellor has been the compelling factor. Among advantages, material resources have been thus made available that would perhaps otherwise have remained wholly out of reach. It is an administration that has spread knowledge of the university widely. It will be remembered as a period of remarkable expansion."

A Very Large Man.

Dean Bessey: "In losing the services of Dr. Andrews we lose the services of a very large man. While realizing that every man must sooner or later step out because of infirmities of advancing years, yet it comes with a sense of great loss to us to hear of Dr. Andrews' retirement. It is due Dr. Andrews to say that he has built up the machinery of the university so that he leaves it in very good order. We rarely think of a great man while he is with us as we think of him after he is gone. We have had a man with us acknowledged to be one of the leading educators of the country and we shall appreciate him more and more as the years go by."

Dean Ward: "To Chancellor Andrews certainly belongs the credit for developing the greater university. Chancellor Canfield organized the university and made it known as a state institution throughout the length and breadth of Nebraska. Chancellor MacLean strengthened the organization and broadened the scholarship of the university until it won deserved recognition from older states and other lands. Chancellor Andrews has sought with full success to bring the university into broader and more perfect touch with the needs of the people. Without recognition such a movement would have been unsuccessful; without scholarship it would have been unproductive; without leadership it would have been disastrous. Chancellor Andrews has made the university more useful to the state and Nebraska will always be grateful to him for this service."

Essentially Great.

Dean Costigan: "I feel it a privilege to join in the expression of admiration for Chancellor Andrews. During the years that I have been at
